The Reference Collection Linda S. Katz, 2013-09-05 Stay up to date with the growing amount of reference resources available online. How important is the World Wide Web to information retrieval and communication? Important enough that information professionals have seen students exit from their libraries en masse when Internet service was lost. Internet providers dominate the indexing and abstracting of periodical articles as major publishers now offer nearly all of their reference titles in digital form. Libraries spend increasing amounts of funding on electronic reference materials and librarians devote an increasing amount of time to assisting in their use. The Reference Collection From the Shelf to the Web is an essential guide to collection development for electronic materials in academic and public libraries. The Reference Collection From the Shelf to the Web tracks the continuing evolution of electronic reference resources and how they're accessed in a variety of settings. Librarians representing university, elementary school, and public libraries in the United States and Australia examine how reference collections have evolved over time and may soon be a thing of the past. How public and school libraries have dealt with the changes, why library research assignments have become more difficult for teachers to make and for students to complete, how to organize online reference sources, and why the nature of plagiarism has changed in the electronic era. The book also examines the use of electronic references from a publisher's perspective and looks at the most important Web accessible reference tools both free and subscription in the areas of humanities medicine the social sciences business and education The Reference Collection From the Shelf to the Web also examines issues of authority accessibility cost comfort and user education in evaluating electronic resources the formation of purchasing consortia to facilitate the transfer of reference materials from print to online formats current literature and research findings on the state of digital versus print reference collections what electronic publishing means to smaller reference books dictionaries almanacs etc the need for increased information literacy among students the nature extent and causes of cyber plagiarism the use of federated search tools and includes a selected list of the top 100 free Internet reference sites The Reference Collection From the Shelf to the Web is an essential resource for all reference and collection development librarians and an invaluable aid for publishing professionals

New Technologies and Reference Services Linda S Katz, 2019-07-15 Offer your patrons the cutting edge reference services they demand In the past a reference librarian needed to develop a command of a few reference works master the skills of the reference interview and interface with library users in person or via telephone Today's reference librarian is faced with much much more New Technologies and Reference Services suggests ways you can tame the information explosion and take advantage of new technologies This comprehensive volume recounts the ways reference librarians have adapted traditional services to deal with the changes in both information technologies and library patrons New Technologies and Reference Services offers tested techniques for fostering information literacy in patrons daunted by the high tech edge of the new library Even computer savvy younger students may need help learning specialized searching skills This practical volume suggests several innovative ways to teach those skills using interactive classrooms drop in seminars and required courses New Technologies and Reference Services discusses the other implications of new technologies including developing trends in publishing including value added services and the death of the printed encyclopedia the effects of CD ROM electronic publishing and the Internet on copyright issues videoconferencing at the reference desk collection strategies and budgets in an era of multiple formats decentralizing library reference services information apartheid the growing gap between the information haves and have nots This helpful volume gives practical tested advice and ideas on the broader issues of information technology With plentiful Web addresses New Technologies and Reference Services presents new ideas sure to make your job easier

Teaching Reference Today Lisa A. Ellis, 2016-06-09 Reference and Information Services if it may still be referred to by this term is an evolving outreach service in libraries This is not only due to Google and the Internet but also other technological advances afford users online access to a plethora of content free and proprietary This evolution has also caused a shift in the theories and practices especially core functions and values of reference and information services as library schools seek greater alignment with practitioners and libraries on the forefront of these changes As academics and practitioners work together to educate library students on the kinds of changes happening in reference and information services they are rethinking their curriculum and assignments to incorporate real world challenges adaptive to user needs Likewise libraries may work through their regional library consortia to plan professional development workshops or training sessions to teach new skills and methods of approach required for such changing services Here is a tool for library school instructors library students professional development instructors and current librarians poised to change which specifically addresses the pedagogy of reference and information services in flux It will help answer questions such as How may we better educate a new and current generation of reference and information service professionals given the challenges they will likely encounter What kinds of assignments could be devised to better promote active learning in a transformative field like reference and information services What new approaches or theories could be applied to assist library professionals in meeting the informational needs of users

Introduction to Reference

Work William A.
