Understanding Theravāda Psychology and Soteriology

Mathieu Boisvert

If Buddhism denies a permanent self, how does it perceive identity?

According to Buddhist texts the entire universe, including the individual, is made up of different phenomena, which Buddhism classifies into different categories: what we conventionally call a "person" can be understood in terms of five aggregates, the sum of which must not be taken for a permanent entity, since beings are nothing but an amalgam of ever-changing phenomena. Although the aggregate's are only a "convenient fiction," the Buddha nevertheless made frequent use of the aggregate scheme when asked to explain the elements at work in the individual.

In this study Mathieu Boisvert presents a detailed analysis of the five aggregates (pañcakkhandha) and establishes how the Theravāda tradition views their interaction. He clarifies the fundamentals of Buddhist psychology by providing a rigorous examination of the nature and interrelation of each of the aggregates and by establishing, for the first time, how the function of each of these aggregates chains beings to the cycle of birth, death and rebirth the - theory of dependent origination (paṭiccasamuppāda). Boisvert contends that without a thorough understanding of the five aggregates, we cannot grasp the liberation process at work within the individual, who is, after all, simply an amalgam of the five aggregates.

The Five Aggregates represents an important and original contribution to Buddhist studies and will be of great interest to all scholars and students of Buddhism.

Mathieu Boisvert is a Professor of South-Asian Traditions at the Université du Québec à Montréal and the editor of Un Monde de religions (forthcoming).

the origins and development of the theory of four stages of liberation in Pali literature This theory is an important soteriological cartography in early Buddhism particularly Theravada Buddhism Amrita Nanda challenges the traditional interpretation of the four stages by recognizing the impact of the changing socio religious factors on the theory's origins and subsequent development Based primarily on the Pali literary sources this study utilizes sometimes overlooked aspects of these texts This book first traces the origins of each stage individually then it traces the formation of the theory and its subsequent development

The Philosophy of Desire in the Buddhist Pali Canon David Webster, 2004-12-31 David Webster explores the notion of desire as found in the Buddhist Pali Canon Beginning by addressing the idea of a paradox of desire whereby we must desire to end desire the varieties of desire that are articulated in the Pali texts are examined A range of views of desire as found in Western thought are presented as well as Hindu and Jain approaches An exploration of the concept of ditthi view or opinion is also provided exploring the way in which holding views can be seen as analogous to the process of desiring Other subjects investigated include the mind body relationship the range of Pali terms for desire and desire's positive spiritual value A comparative exploration of the various approaches completes the work

The Buddha's Teaching G. A. Somaratne, 2021-06-25 This book approaches the Dhamma the Buddha's teaching from a Buddhist perspective viewing various individual teachings presented in hundreds of early discourses of Pali canon comprehending them under a single systemic thought of a single individual called the Buddha It explicates the structure of this thought going through various contextual teachings and teaching categories of the discourses treating them as necessary parts of a liberating thought that constitutes the right view of one who embraces the Buddha's teaching as his or her sole philosophy of life It interprets the diverse individual dhammas as being in congruence with each other and as contributory to forming the whole of the Buddha's teaching the Dhamma By exploring some selected topics such as ignorance configurations not self and nibbana in thirteen chapters the book enables readers to understand the whole the Dhamma in relation to the parts the dhammas and the parts in relation to the whole while realizing the importance of studying every single dhamma category or topic not for its own sake but for understanding the entirety of the teaching This way of viewing and explaining the teachings of the discourses enables readers to clearly comprehend the teaching of the Buddha in early Buddhism guide throughout the study Both feature and documentary films are considered      Shaolin Kung Fu Marta Nešković, 2025-03-21 This book investigates contemporary Shaolin Kung Fu situated between tradition and modernity Deeply rooted in the philosophical and religious traditions of Chan Buddhism and concurrently evolving under the influence of globalization this martial art serves as a Chan Buddhist practice within the Shaolin monastic community Illuminating the rich cultural heritage of Shaolin Kung Fu and its ongoing relevance in the contemporary world the analysis is grounded in long term ethnographic fieldwork conducted at the Shaolin Monastery in Henan Province China The author argues that the spiritual essence of Shaolin Kung Fu is derived not from its constituent elements such as body movements and techniques but rather from the Chan Buddhist structures of meaning the practitioners embody By highlighting the relationship between habitus lived body and dynamic embodiment the book offers a novel perspective on the intersection of spirituality and martial arts Providing a deeper understanding of the cultural religious and philosophical foundations that underpin Shaolin Kung Fu this is a valuable reading for scholars of anthropology sociology religious studies cultural heritage and China studies as well as for academics and practitioners with an interest in martial arts      From Indra's Net to Internet Daniel Veidlinger, 2018-08-31 In this sweeping and ambitious intellectual history Daniel Veidlinger traces the affinity between Buddhist ideas and communications media back to the efflorescence of Buddhism in the Axial Age of the mid first millennium BCE He uses both communications theory and the idea of convergent evolution to show how Buddhism arose in the largely urban milieu of Axial Age northeastern India and spread rapidly along the transportation and trading nodes of the Silk Road where it appealed to merchants and traders from a variety of backgrounds Throughout he compares early phases of Buddhism with contemporary developments in which rapid changes in patterns of social interaction were also experienced and brought about by large scale urbanization and growth in communication and transportation In both cases such changes supported the expansive consciousness needed to allow Buddhism to germinate Veidlinger argues that Buddhist ideas tend to fare well in certain media environments through a careful analysis of communications used in these contexts he finds persuasive parallels with modern advances in communications technology that amplify the conditions and effects found along ancient trade routes From Indra's Net to Internet incorporates historical research as well as data collected using computer based analysis of user generated web content to demonstrate that robust communication networks which allow for relatively easy contact among a variety of people support a de centered understanding of the self greater compassion for others an appreciation of interdependence a universal outlook and a reduction in emphasis on the efficacy of ritual all of which lie at the heart of the Buddha's teachings The book's interdisciplinary approach should appeal to those interested in not only Buddhism media studies and history but also computer science cognitive science and cultural evolution      Religious Rivalries in the Early Roman Empire and the Rise of Christianity Leif E. Vaage, 2006-04-21 Religious Rivalries in the Early Roman Empire and the Rise of Christianity discusses the diverse cultural destinies of early Christianity early Judaism and other ancient religious groups as a question of social rivalry The book is divided into three main sections The first section debates the degree to which the category of rivalry adequately names the issues that must be addressed when comparing and contrasting the social success of different religious groups in antiquity The second is a critical assessment of the common modern category of mission to describe the inner dynamic of such a process it discusses the early Christian apostle Paul the early Jewish historian Josephus and ancient Mithraism The third section of the book is devoted to the rise of Christianity primarily in response to the similarly titled work of the American sociologist of religion Rodney Stark While it is not clear that any of these groups imagined its own success necessarily entailing the elimination of others it does seem that early Christianity had certain habits both of speech and practice which made it particularly apt to succeed in the Roman Empire

"Lord, Giver of Life" Jane Barter Moulaison, 2007 George Lindbeck once characterized postliberalism which received its initial structure from his book The Nature of Doctrine as an attempt to recover pre modern scriptural interpretation in contemporary form In Lord, Giver of Life: Toward a Pneumatological Complement to George Lindbeck's Theory of Doctrine Jane Barter Moulaison explores the success of that effort through a close examination of Lindbeck's own theological contributions Taking seriously the ecumenical promises of Lindbeck's writing he was instrumental in advancing Lutheran and Roman Catholic dialogue throughout the 1960s 70s and 80s this book brings Lindbeck's famous cultural linguistic model of religion into dialogue with Christianity's theological forbearers specifically the Eastern progenitors of orthodox confession This constellation of theological voices Lindbeck his supporters and detractors along with patristic theologians is meant not only to test the viability of a religious model but more importantly to advance Lindbeck's project in ways that have not yet been pursued Among the critical questions engaged are to what degree can the excesses of modern theology be overcome by a return to premodern sources What are the implications of a constructive pneumatology to the cultural linguistic model Does this complement address the critiques of postliberalism particularly those that consider the role of human agency rationality and autonomy While Lindbeck recovers significant and forgotten elements of pre modern biblical interpretation the very formalism of his project sometimes obscures the theological underpinnings of premodern insights and practices Through specific attention to Eastern Trinitarian theologies of the fourth century this book exposes a rather persistent oversight within Lindbeck's recovery namely that alongside the regulative function of canon and doctrine early biblical interpretation recognizes the role of the Holy Spirit in the appropriation of scripture in the mission of the church and in the defence of the gospel within the context of an unbelieving world This book attends to these insights from the early church's doctrine of the Holy Spirit in appreciative service to the cultural linguistic model of religion
