An aerial photograph of a landscape with a city skyline in the distance. In the foreground, a dark, curved embankment features a cluster of red flowers with green stems. A river or stream flows along the right side of the embankment. The background shows a vast green field and a distant city skyline under a hazy sky.

Hiriya In The Museum Artists And Architect:

The Routledge Companion to Contemporary Art, Visual Culture, and Climate Change T. J. Demos, Emily Eliza Scott, Subhankar Banerjee, 2021-02-25 International in scope this volume brings together leading and emerging voices working at the intersection of contemporary art visual culture activism and climate change and addresses key questions such as why and how do art and visual culture and their ethics and values matter with regard to a world increasingly shaped by climate breakdown Foregrounding a decolonial and climate justice based approach this book joins efforts within the environmental humanities in seeking to widen considerations of climate change as it intersects with social political and cultural realms It simultaneously expands the nascent branches of ecocritical art history and visual culture and builds toward the advancement of a robust and critical interdisciplinarity appropriate to the complex entanglements of climate change This book will be of special interest to scholars and practitioners of contemporary art and visual culture environmental studies cultural geography and political ecology

Designing America's Waste Landscapes Mira Engler, 2004-05-31 Publisher Description

Environmental Policy and Landscape Architecture Joachim Wolschke-Bulmahn, Hubertus Fischer, Sarah Ozacky-Lazar, 2014-03-21 Volume 18 in the CGL Studies series entitled Environmental Policy and Landscape Architecture is the result of an international symposium held in Jerusalem in March 2011 which was organised by the Van Leer Jerusalem Institute in collaboration with the Centre of Garden Art and Landscape Architecture The symposium focused on how the many different facets of landscape architecture could help towards solving environmental problems Sustainable Development and Landscaping Environmental Policy and the Contribution of Landscape Architecture at a Local Level Designing Public Open Spaces and Social Sustainability Spatial Planning and Landscape Architecture in Israel Palestine and Water and Soil Crisis and Conservation are the key chapters in this volume The authors address a wide range of issues including the significance of religions in ideas about environmentalism in historical and current debates how Palestinian society can meet challenges posed by the dynamic development of urban structures through capacity building in landscape architecture and economically meaningful strategies for soil conservation in arable fields as part of agricultural sustainability in semi arid areas A key objective of the symposium was also to determine opportunities for cooperation in the field of environment and landscaping for Israelis Palestinians Muslims Jews and Christians in a region marked by huge tension and conflicts The authors are scholars of various disciplines such as landscape architecture urban planning technology assessment philosophy of science environmental communication and ecology and come from Israel Palestine USA Norway and Germany

Syntax of Landscape Udo Weilacher, 2007-10-05 Peter Latz and Partners specialize in a contemporary intelligent use of alternative technologies and the regeneration of industrial wastelands The trademark of the works of the firm which was founded in 1968 is its ability to express ecological and social concerns in a strong aesthetic language

On Architecture and Greenwashing Charlotte Malterre-Barthes, 2024-04-29 As an industry that relies on extracted materials and an intense use of resources isn't construction unsustainable by design. The pressure is increasing for the sector to diligently address the harm caused by the built environment, begging the question of whether real sustainability in architecture and planning is possible. As institutionalized and commodified greenwashing hollows out the term, how do architects and designers position their work beyond the inadequacy of a flattening universalistic understanding of sustainability? What forms of practice allow for accountable and revolutionized construction modes? How can we critically engage with technology as an ambivalent tool in the service of green capitalism? The first volume of a forthcoming series by RIOT Research and Innovation, On Territory, a laboratory within the Institute of Architecture at the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology (EPFL), On Architecture and Greenwashing, presents a cross-section of positions on architecture and its political economies and explores ways to correct course in the face of a climate crisis of unprecedented magnitude beyond greenwashing. RIOT Research and Innovation, On Territory, is a laboratory engaged in pedagogy and research within the Institute of Architecture at the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology (EPFL), led by architect and urban designer CHARLOTTE MALTERRE BARTHES. Believing that the construction sector and design disciplines must pivot and wholeheartedly engage in the current social and climatic urgencies by rewiring themselves to face and repair the harm, RIOT utilizes tactics and strategies to decarbonize, decolonize, and depatriarchalize space production by design.

Is Landscape... ? Gareth Doherty, Charles Waldheim, 2015-10-08. This book surveys multiple and myriad definitions of landscape. Rather than seeking a singular or essential understanding of the term, the collection postulates that landscape might be better read in relation to its cognate terms across expanded disciplinary and professional fields. The publication pursues the potential of multiple provisional working definitions of landscape to both disturb and develop received understandings of landscape architecture. These definitions distinguish between landscape as representational medium, academic discipline, and professional identity. Beginning with an inquiry into the origins of the term itself, Is Landscape features essays by a dozen leading voices shaping the contemporary reading of landscape as architecture and beyond.

A Cultural History of Waste Disposal Benjamin A. Lawson, 2024-12-11. This book offers a historical analysis of landfill sites in New York City, Greater Toronto, and Greater Tel Aviv and uses them as case studies to emphasize the international and global scale of issues concerning waste disposal and park redevelopments. New York, Toronto, and Tel Aviv are currently redeveloping giant landfills into parks to much fanfare. The park redevelopments may be seen as an attempt to erase or assuage the decades of problematic waste disposal policy that led to the creation of such large landfills. Booster rhetoric underscores this point, such as promoting how the parks will be a green lung for the city. This book contextualizes these redevelopments by offering a historical analysis providing a greater understanding of the past, current, and future potential issues. It goes on to analyze the language and media coverage surrounding former waste sites becoming park redevelopments, including how cities use art to promote their image and gain cultural relevance. By engaging with both the works of waste historians and literature on waste and discard studies, the book provides theoretical models for analyzing the role of power in municipal systems as well as human and ecological impacts on waste. It concludes with an analysis of the features necessary for landfill parks to be successful. This book will be useful for scholars, researchers, and academics studying waste studies, the environment, cities, and sustainable development, as well as for policymakers and environmental eco-artists. 1999, 中国书画函授大学肇庆分校 The Spirit of Painting Guoqiang Cai, Alejandro Vergara, Kosme de Baranano, 2017. Catalogues Cai Guo Qiang's recent exhibition at the Prado, the first in over thirty years to focus solely on his painting and the first time that an artist had created on site at the Prado. It explores Cai Guo Qiang's ongoing dialogue with El Greco and the way he established a relationship with the great masters represented in the Prado. It reproduces nearly thirty paintings made with gunpowder, eight of which were ignited on site at the Salón de Reinos. It also features an oil and an acrylic created at the start of his activities as a painter and various sketches and drawings on matchboxes by his father Cai Ruiqin, who steered him towards painting. The catalogue includes texts and essays by Miguel Zugaza, Alejandro Vergara, Kosme Baranano, and Cai Guo Qiang himself, in which he reflects on his life and artistic career and on the principles and concerns that have governed the evolution of his work.

Architecture and Art of Southern India George Michell, 1995-08-17. George Michell provides a pioneering and richly illustrated introduction to the architecture, sculpture, and painting of Southern India under the Vijayanagara empire and the states that succeeded it. This period, encompassing some four hundred years from the fourteenth to the eighteenth century, was endowed with an abundance of religious and royal monuments which remain as testimonies to the history and ideology behind their evolution. The author evaluates the legacy of this artistic heritage, describing and illustrating buildings, sculptures, and paintings that have never been published before. In a previously neglected area of art history, the author presents an original and much-needed reassessment.

Cai Guo-Qiang Guoqiang Cai, Dana Hansen, Octavio Zaya, Takashi Serizawa, 2002-04-17. A tribute to the Chinese artist's ambitious, internationally celebrated work. Who's Who in American Art, 2001-2002 Marquis Who's Who, 2001.

Arbitrary history Guoqiang Cai, 2002. Cai's art is not tied to a particular style, form, or type of material. He has used gunpowder in his works. He has used crabs on sand and a paper airplane gliding through a ruined cathedral. He has made statues out of mud, caused it to rain in the lobby of a museum where he constructed a bamboo bridge, and brought a horse into a museum with a nude model. Here is an artist who chooses his subject matter, his materials, and form of expression with great freedom and has created a personal vocabulary that does not depend on anyone else's. Pages 42-43.

Cai Guo-Qiang Russell Storer, 2014. A richly illustrated catalogue accompanies Cai Guo-Qiang's Falling Back to Earth; the exhibition's interrelated themes of nature spirituality and globalisation are a focus of the publication. Essays by Australian and international authors with extensive documentation of the artist's new works. Cai Guo-Qiang also writes on a significant but lesser-known aspect of his practice: his collaborations with children. The publication will also trace Cai's unique history with QAGOMA as one of the first public institutions to collect the artist's work. It follows his early career inclusion in the Asia Pacific Triennial of Contemporary Art 1996 and 1999 to the presentation in 2013 of major new works by an artist at the height of his international career.
