with higher magnitudes in recent years decades thus causing more damage than in the past It is still under debate however to which extent recent increases in damage can be related to changing frequencies of natural processes or whether catastrophic events occur at similar rates as they always had If the latter is the case the reason for a greater damage can be related to dramatic population growth over the last century with a substantial augmentation of population density in some regions Indeed the implications are more server in underdeveloped and developing countries where urbanisation has increasingly occurred in hazard prone areas such as coastal zones alluvial river plains and steep slopes thus causing an increase in the exposure to natural hazards Some groups of society in wealthy countries accept higher risks in order to live directly on top of a cliff or on a steep slope to enjoy panoramic views of the landscape Fairsted: Site history Cynthia Zaitzevsky,1997 Metal that Will not Bend Kally Forrest,2011-10-01 In the 1980s there was a surge of trade union power in South Africa The National Union of Metalworkers of South Africa Numsa was prominent and innovative in this assertion of muscle Metal that does not Bend traces Numsa s accumulation from a few small unions in a handful of factories to the staging of national strikes involving thousands of workers in auto and engineering It examines how the union used its influence in macroeconomic and political arenas Numsa was Cosatu s most radical socialist affiliate and the book explores its attempts to implement its vision Historians have framed apartheid s downfall as resulting from the activities of the exiled liberation movement global anti apartheid boycott strategies and internal township insurrection This book reasserts the critical role of the internal labour movement The Cold War in Asia J.
