Trump's Hush-Money Trial Kicks Off

Former President Donald Trump's court hearing on his criminal trial got under way with both sides opening statements.

Prosecutors say the late Reagan administration defense lawyer paid off a hush-money witness.

By Andrew Ross
and David Mervin

Donald Trump's criminal trial in New York City began Monday with both sides opening statements. Prosecutors say the late Reagan administration defense lawyer paid off a hush-money witness to cover up a sexual assault. The defense attorney, Michael A. Cohen, said his client was innocent and that the prosecution's case was based on a "hoax" and "conspiracy." The trial is expected to last several weeks.

• U.S. House of Representatives passed a bill to reform the federal judiciary.

Detroit Is Reversing Property Doom Loop

By David H. Johnson

Detroit is reversing a long-standing property doom loop that has plagued the city for decades. The city has implemented a series of reforms to improve its property tax system and reduce the burden on residents.

The reforms include a new property tax assessment system and a new property tax collection system. These reforms are expected to generate additional revenue for the city and improve its financial health.

The reforms also include a new property tax appeal process and a new property tax enforcement process. These reforms are expected to improve the transparency and fairness of the property tax system.

The reforms also include a new property tax exemption program and a new property tax relief program. These reforms are expected to provide additional relief for low-income residents and improve their financial situation.

The reforms also include a new property tax audit program and a new property tax enforcement program. These reforms are expected to improve the transparency and fairness of the property tax system.
