Detention Powers in English and Turkish Law and Practice in the Light of the European Convention on Human Rights M. Bedri Eryilmaz,2021-09-27

It is commonly believed that in the police practices of arrest without judicial warrant and detention without charge England and Turkey stand at opposite ends of the compliance spectrum among nations signatory to the European Convention on Human Rights This is the first book to examine the extent to which such belief is warranted Beginning with a detailed comparison of the arrest and detention standards set by the Convention and the corresponding provisions of Turkish and English law the author then proceeds to investigate actual police practice in both countries He reviews and analyzes the existing research in England and Wales on how the status of suspects in practice compares with the status of suspects in law To determine this in Turkey where no such research existed before this book he offers the results of his own field work in 21 Turkish police stations and three gendarmeries in various cities and towns as well as in two Turkish anti terrorist departments This is the first publication of any research into how Turkish police apply law to practice He goes on to examine the adequacy and effectiveness of remedies in both countries and to make recommendations not only for reform in England and Turkey but to the Convention organs with respect to gaps and weaknesses in their case law For criminal justice and law enforcement authorities this is a valuable guide to ensuring compliance with the extensive and developed standards established by the case law of the Convention and to handling allegations of breaches of the Convention by the police In addition Arrest and Detention Powers in Turkish and English Law and Practice in the Light of the European Convention on Human Rights is a penetrating analysis of law in books versus law in action and as such has relevance to anyone concerned with the enforcement of human rights law Law Books in Print:

Author Nicholas Triffin,1987 Individual application in Turkish constitutional adjudication Bahadır

Kılınç,2016-04-27 A ground breaking development happened in Turkey in 2010 when direct application of individuals to the Turkish Constitutional Court was accepted in result of a public referendum The introduction of individual application into the Turkish constitutional law may be the most crucial event since the establishment of the Constitutional Court in 1962 The Turkish Constitutional Court began to transform from a conventional constitutional court to a human rights court Unfortunately the number of books and other reference materials on the issue is still limited Therefore the main aim of the book is to provide necessary information on the law and practice of the individual application system in Turkey The Book after furnishing fundamental information on Turkish Constitutional Court s structure powers and duties deals with many features of individual application system including its history and intensive preparations made before its introduction The procedure from the registration to judgment process is elaborated in detail In this context general application conditions preliminary application review both procedural and substantial admissibility conditions admissibility examination examination on merits judgment process and execution of judgments are presented with the relevant law the academic opinions and to a certain degree case law The latest statistics of the Constitutional Court and the Law 6216 on the Establishment and Trial Procedures of the Constitutional Court are provided in the book for quick reference Shortly the story of individual application transformation is re told from an inside view

The Report: Turkey 2012, 2012

Minorities and Nationalism in Turkish Law Derya

Bayir, 2016-04-22 Examining the on going dilemma of the management of diversity in Turkey from a historical and legal perspective this book argues that the state s failure to accommodate ethno religious diversity is attributable to the founding philosophy of Turkish nationalism and its heavy penetration into the socio political and legal fibre of the country It examines the articulation and influence of the founding principle in law and in the higher courts jurisprudence in relation to the concepts of nation citizenship and minorities In so doing it adopts a sceptical approach to the claim that Turkey has a civic nationalist state not least on the grounds that the legal system is generously littered by references to the Turkish ethnies and to Sunni Islam Also arguing that the nationalist stance of the Turkish state and legal system has created a legal discourse which is at odds with the justification of minority protection given in international law this book demonstrates that a reconstruction of the founding philosophy of the state and the legal system is necessary without which any solution to the dilemmas of managing diversity would be inadequate Adopting an interdisciplinary approach this timely book will interest those engaged in the fields of Middle Eastern Islamic Ottoman and Turkish studies as well as those working on human rights and international law and nationalism
