The 21st century and its many challenges: invasion of digital technology, climate change, health crises, political crises, etc., alert us that we need new educational responses led by new education professionals. Research has shown that for these professionals to change in a substantial and profound way, they must change their identity: that is, the way in which they give meaning and meaning to their professional work. This book exposes, based on one of the most current and advanced theories for analyzing identity change, the theory of the dialogical self: what changes should take place and how to promote them in eleven fundamental professional profiles in current education: teachers of student teachers, primary/secondary teachers, inclusive teachers, inquiring teachers, mentors, school principals, university teachers, academic advisors, technologic hybrid teachers, Learning specialists, educational researchers.

The Relationship between Human Security Discourse and International Law Shireen Daft, 2017-12-01 The concept of human security has emerged in international relations and policy as an idea which not only seeks to relocate the focus of international society on the individual but also challenges the current priorities of the international community In particular it places emphasis on promoting and facilitating a nexus between security development and human rights It is potentially a paradigm in the making gaining considerable momentum within the UN international relations scholarship and regional bodies And yet by and large it continues to be unexplored by the international legal community despite the success of a number of international treaties being attributed to the discourse This book seeks to address this gap and establish the nature of the relationship between human security discourse and international law determining whether human security can meaningfully contribute to the international legal framework To determine this the book analyses the core principles of human security discourse and examines the degree to which they find parallels in the existing normative structure of international law The book examines the how the broad narrow debate that dominates human security discourse has played out in international law making It goes on to consider the processes for the creation of so called human security treaties in order to determine a blueprint for future development of international human security treaty law In concluding Shireen Daft sets out a structured principled approach through which international legal scholarship can engage with human security highlighting the ways in which engagement between the two fields can be sustained
