Assembling Arguments Jonathan Buehl, 2016-01-20 Scientific arguments and indeed arguments in most disciplines depend on visuals and other nontextual elements however most models of argumentation typically neglect these important resources In Assembling Arguments Jonathan Buehl offers a concentrated study of scientific argumentation that is sensitive to both the historical and theoretical possibilities of multimodal persuasion as it advances two related claims First rhetorical theory when augmented with methods for reading nonverbal representations can provide the analytical tools needed to understand and appreciate multimodal scientific arguments Second science an inherently multimodal enterprise offers ideal subjects for developing general theories of multimodal rhetoric applicable across fields In developing these claims Buehl offers a comprehensive account of scientific persuasion as a multimodal process and develops a simple but productive framework for analyzing and teaching multimodal argumentation Comprising five case studies the book provides detailed treatments of argumentation in specific technological and historical contexts argumentation before World War I when images circulated by hand and by post argumentation during the mid twentieth century when computers were beginning to bolster scientific inquiry but images remained hand crafted products and argumentation at the turn of the twenty first century an era of digital revolutions and digital fraud Each study examines the rhetorical problems and strategies of specific scientists to investigate key issues regarding visualization and argument 1 establishing new instruments as reliable sources of visual evidence 2 creating novel arguments from reliable visual evidence 3 creating novel arguments with unreliable visual evidence 4 preserving the credibility of visualization practices and 5 creating multimodal artifacts before and in the era of digital circulation Given the growing enterprise of rhetorical studies and the field's contributions to communication practices in all disciplines rhetoricians need a comprehensive rhetoric of science one that accounts for the multimodal arguments that change our relation to reality Assembling Arguments argues that such rhetoric should enable the interpretation of visual scientific arguments and improve science writing instruction Im-Inventing Arguments Mauk, MAUK METZ, 2008-01-01

Arguing Constructively Dominic A. Infante, 1987-12-01 A refreshing fusion of interpersonal human relations and argumentation This clear and engaging volume is unique because of its dual focus On the one hand the purpose is to instruct on the methods of argumentation theory This represents a set of principles methods and strategies of argument that have evolved from the time of Ancient Greece On the other hand the intent is to teach human relations in argumentative situations specifically how to manage interpersonal relations during arguments Books on argumentation and debate have tended to say little about how arguing can affect the relationship one has with an adversary How do you prevent harm to a valued friendship for instance Moreover books on interpersonal communication have had little to say about arguing Instead the emphasis is on achieving satisfying relations with others The author shows that recent research makes it clear that argumentation and interpersonal communication are complementary areas of communication Arguing constructively in informal interpersonal and small group contexts is a skill that can bring about good outcomes Instruction on building and maintaining satisfying relations with other people is lacking if it does not deal with how to do this while arguing especially since argumentative communication probably will occur throughout a relationship This book has been written to correct what has been perhaps too narrow a focus in the areas of argumentation and interpersonal communication Writing as a Way of Staying Human in a Time that Isn't Nate Mickelson, 2019-01-30 The human element of our work has never been more important As Robert Yagelski explains in Writing as a Way of Being 2011 the ideological and social pressures of our institutions put us under increasing pressure to sacrifice our humanity in the interest of efficiency These problems only grow when we artificially separate self world and mind body in our teaching and everyday experiences Following Yagelski and others Writing as a Way of Staying Human in a Time that Isn't proposes that intentional acts of writing can awaken us to our interconnectedness and to ways in which we as individuals and in writing communities might address the social and environmental challenges of our present and future world Featuring essays drawn from a range of contexts including college composition and developmental reading and writing professional and legal writing middle school English dissertation projects academic conferences and an online writing group the collection outlines three ways writing can help us stay human caring for ourselves and others honoring the times and spaces of writing and promoting justice Each essay describes specific strategies for using writing as a means for staying human in inhuman times The authors integrate personal stories descriptions of classroom assignments and activities and current research in writing studies Their work shows that writing can contribute to personal social and political transformation by nurturing vulnerability compassion and empathy among students and instructors alike
