Sacrificing Childhood Julie K. deGraffenried, 2014-11-18 During the Soviet Union's Great Patriotic War from 1941 to 1945 as many as 24 million of its citizens died 14 million were children ages fourteen or younger And for those who survived the suffering was far from over The prewar Stalinist vision of a happy childhood nurtured by a paternal loving state had given way out of necessity What replaced it the dictate that children be prepared to sacrifice everything including childhood itself created a generation all too familiar with deprivation violence and death The experience of these children and the role of the state in shaping their narrative are the subject of this book which fills in a critical but neglected chapter in the Soviet story and in the history of World War II In Sacrificing Childhood Julie deGraffenried chronicles the lives of the Soviet wartime children and the uses to which they were put not just as combatants or workers in factories and collective farms but also as fodder for propaganda their plight a proof of the enemy's depredations Not all Soviet children lived through the war in the same way but in the circumstances of a child in occupied Belarus or in the Leningrad blockade a young deportee in Siberia or evacuee in Uzbekistan deGraffenried finds common threads that distinguish the child's experience of war from the adult's The state's expectations however were the same for all children as we see here in children's mass media and literature and the communications of party organizations and institutions most notably the Young Pioneers whose relentless wartime activities made them ideal for the purposes of propaganda The first in depth study of where Soviet children fit into the history of the war Sacrificing Childhood also offers an unprecedented view of the state's changing expectations for its children and how this figured in the nature and direction of post war Soviet society

Historical Dictionary of Russian and Soviet Cinema Peter Rollberg, 2016-07-20 Russian and Soviet cinema occupies a unique place in the history of world cinema Legendary filmmakers such as Sergei Eisenstein Vsevolod Pudovkin Dziga Vertov Andrei Tarkovsky and Sergei Paradjanov have created oeuvres that are being screened and studied all over the world The Soviet film industry was different from others because its main criterion of success was not profit but the ideological and aesthetic effect on the viewer Another important feature is Soviet cinema's multinational Eurasian character while Russian cinema was the largest other national cinemas such as Georgian Kazakh and Ukrainian played a decisive role for Soviet cinema as a whole The Historical Dictionary of Russian and Soviet Cinema provides a rich tapestry of factual information together with detailed critical assessments of individual artistic accomplishments This second edition of Historical Dictionary of Russian and Soviet Cinema contains a chronology an introduction and a bibliography The dictionary section has over 600 cross referenced entries on directors performers cinematographers composers designers producers and studios This book is an excellent access point for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about Russian and Soviet Cinema

The History of Russian Literature on Film Marina Korneeva, David

Gillespie,2023-12-28 Unlike most previous studies of literature and film which tend to privilege particular authors texts or literary periods David Gillespie and Marina Korneeva consider the multiple functions of filmed Russian literature as a cinematic subject in its own right one reflecting the specific political and aesthetic priorities of different national and historical cinemas In this first and only comprehensive study of cinema s various engagements of Russian literature focusing on the large period 1895 2015 The History of Russian Literature on Film highlights the ways these adaptations emerged from and continue to shape the social artistic and commercial aspects of film history Drawing the Iron Curtain Maya Balakirsky Katz,2016-07-15 In the American imagination the Soviet Union was a drab cultural wasteland a place where playful creative work and individualism was heavily regulated and censored Yet despite state control some cultural industries flourished in the Soviet era including animation Drawing the Iron Curtain tells the story of the golden age of Soviet animation and the Jewish artists who enabled it to thrive Art historian Maya Balakirsky Katz reveals how the state run animation studio Soyuzmultfilm brought together Jewish creative personnel from every corner of the Soviet Union and served as an unlikely haven for dissidents who were banned from working in other industries Surveying a wide range of Soviet animation produced between 1919 and 1989 from cutting edge art films like Tale of Tales to cartoons featuring Soviet Mickey Mouse Cheburashka she finds that these works played a key role in articulating a cosmopolitan sensibility and a multicultural vision for the Soviet Union Furthermore she considers how Jewish filmmakers used animation to depict distinctive elements of their heritage and ethnic identity whether producing films about the Holocaust or using fellow Jews as models for character drawings Providing a copiously illustrated introduction to many of Soyuzmultfilm s key artistic achievements while revealing the tumultuous social and political conditions in which these films were produced Drawing the Iron Curtain has something to offer animation fans and students of Cold War history alike National Union Catalog ,1978 Major Authors and Illustrators for Children and Young Adults Joyce Nakamura,1993 Contains updated and revised sketches on nearly 800 of the most widely read authors and illustrators appearing in Gale s Something about the author series World Authors John Wakeman,Stanley J.
