Journal of the Royal United Service Institution, Whitehall Yard, 1885     The Origins of American Intervention in North Russia (1918). Leonid Ivan Strakhovsky, 1972     R.U.S.I. Journal Royal United Services Institute for Defence Studies, 1902     Journal of the Royal United Service Institution, 1885     Warship International, 1977     Tsushima 1905 Mark Lardas, 2018-11-29 Japan was closed to the world until 1854 and its technology then was literally medieval Great Britain France and Russia divided the globe in the nineteenth century but Japan was catching up Its army and navy were retrained by Western powers and equipped with the latest weapons and ships Japan wanted to further emulate its European mentors and establish a protectorate over Korea yet Japanese efforts were blocked by Imperial Russia who had their own designs on the peninsula The Russo Japanese War started with a surprise Japanese naval attack against an anchored enemy fleet still believing itself at peace It ended with the Battle of Tsushima the most decisive surface naval battle of the 20th century This gripping study describes this pivotal battle and shows how the Japanese victory over Russia led to the development of the dreadnought battleship and gave rise to an almost mythical belief in Japanese naval invincibility

Japanese attempts to capture the port by assault are documented in detail together with the Japanese progress through the heavily fortified lines protecting Port Arthur. Specially commissioned artworks bring to life in vivid detail the Battle of Nanshan Hill, the Japanese assault on the Wantai Heights and the bombardments of the Russian forts. Maps and diagrams explore the strategic situation and tactical progress of the fighting in step by step detail and over 60 period photographs reveal the appearance and weaponry of the opposing forces and the terrain around Port Arthur.
