Kwaio Dictionary Pacific Linguistics:

Kwaio Dictionary Roger M. Keesing, 1975 No Indigenous Australian content Pacific Linguistics, 1990 Pacific Linguistics Bruce E. Waters, Peter A. Busby, 1970 The Lexicon of Proto-Oceanic Malcolm Ross, Andrew Pawley, Meredith Osmond, 2007-03-01 This is the second in a series of five volumes on the lexicon of Proto Oceanic the ancestor of the Oceanic branch of the Austronesian language family Each volume deals with a particular domain of culture and or environment and consists of a collection of essays each of which presents and comments on lexical reconstructions of a particular semantic field within that domain Volume 2 examines how Proto Oceanic speakers described their geophysical environment An introductory chapter discusses linguistic and archaeological evidence that locates the Proto Oceanic language community in the Bismarck Archipelago in the late 2nd millennium BC The next three chapters investigate terms used to denote inland coastal reef and open sea environments and meteorological phenomena A further chapter examines the lexicon for features of the heavens and navigational techniques associated with the stars How Proto Oceanic speakers talked about their environment is also described in three further chapters which treat property terms for describing inanimate objects locational and directional terms and terms related to the expression of time Approaches to Grammaticalization Elizabeth Closs Traugott, Bernd Heine, 1991-01-01 The study of grammaticalization raises a number of fundamental theoretical issues pertaining to the relation of langue and parole creativity and automatic coding synchrony and diachrony categoriality and continua typological characteristics and language specific forms etc and therefore challenges some of the basic tenets of twentieth century linguistics This two volume work presents a number of diverse theoretical viewpoints on grammaticalization and gives insights into the genesis development and organization of grammatical categories in a number of language world wide with particular attention to morphosyntactic and semantic pragmatic issues The papers in Volume I are divided into two sections the first concerned with general method and the second with issues of directionality Those in Volume II are divided into five sections verbal structure argument structure subordination modality and multiple paths of grammaticalization Pacific Linguistics. Series B., 1991 Creoles, Their Substrates, and Language Typology Claire Lefebvre, 2011-01-01 Since creole languages draw their properties from both their substrate and superstrate sources the typological classification of creoles has long been a major issue for creolists typologists and linguists in general Several contradictory proposals have been put forward in the literature For example creole languages typologically pair with their superstrate languages Chaudenson 2003 with their substrate languages Lefebvre 1998 or even creole languages are alike Bickerton 1984 such that they constitute a definable typological class McWhorter 1998 This book contains 25 chapters bearing on detailed comparisons of some 30 creoles and their substrate languages As the substrate languages of these creoles are typologically different the detailed investigation of substrate features in the creoles leads to a particular answer to the question of how creoles should be classified typologically The bulk of the data show that creoles reproduce the typological features of their substrate languages This argues that creoles cannot be claimed to constitute a definable typological class New Guinea and Neighboring Areas Stephen A. Wurm, 2019-11-18 No detailed description available for New Guinea and Neighboring Areas Currents in Pacific Linguistics R. A. Blust, 1991 Papers in New Guinea Linguistics, 1981 A Linguistic Bibliography of the New Guinea Area Lois Carrington, 1996 Modality in Grammar and Discourse Joan L. Bybee, Suzanne Fleischman, 1995-01-01 This volume brings together a collection of 18 papers that look into the expression of modality in the grammars of natural languages with an emphasis on its manifestations in naturally occurring discourse Though the individual contributions reflect a diversity of languages of synchronic and diachronic foci and of theoretical orientations all within the broad domain of functional linguistics they nonetheless converge around a number of key issues the relationship between mood and modality the delineation of modal categories and their nomenclature the grounding of modality in interactive discourse the elusive category irrealis and the relationship of modal notions and categories to other categories of grammar Papers in Philippine Linguistics, 1979 Archaeology and Language III Roger Blench, Matthew Spriggs, 2012-10-12 Archaeology and Language III interprets results from archaeological data in terms of language distribution and change providing the tools for a radical rewriting of the conventional discourse of prehistory Individual chapters present case studies of artefacts and fragmentary textual materials concerned with the reconstruction of houses maritime technology pottery and grave goods Linguistics Circle of Canberra Publications, 1964 Second International Conference on Austronesian Linguistics, 1978 Nominalization in Asian Languages Foong Ha Yap, Karen Grunow-Hårsta, Janick Wrona, 2011-06-29 Research on nominalization a process that gives rise to referring expressions has always played a central role in linguistic investigations Over the years there has also been growing evidence that nominalization constructions often extend to non referential domains They participate in noun modifying expressions e g genitive and relative clauses subordinate clauses and topic constructions finite structures with the nominalizers reanalyzed as TAM markers and stance constructions with evaluative attitudinal evidential and epistemic overtones This volume brings together historical and crosslinguistic evidence from more than 20 different languages representing six different language families spanning the Asian continent and the Pacific and Indian oceans to elucidate the strategies and grammaticalization pathways that give rise to both referential and non referential uses of nominalization constructions This collection highlights the diversity of strategies and at the same time the robust cyclical nature of change within and across languages The combined diachronic and typological analyses in this volume are particularly valuable for linguistic research on diachronic morphosyntax and linguistic universals and are also an important supplementary cross referencing tool for linguistic investigations of versatile and ubiquitous morphemes in under documented languages The Journal of the Polynesian Society Polynesian Society (N.Z.), 1986 Vols for 1892 1941 contain the transactions and proceedings of the society South-East Asian Linguistic Studies Đặng Liêm Nguyễn, 1974 Linguistic Circle of Canberra Publications
