Kunst In Kamerun:

Transitionale Kunst der Tikar aus Kamerun David Zemanek, 2021-03-19 Change of perspective artefacts as colonial agents A white cube for developing new African art The current publication Transitional Art of the Tikar from Cameroon by Dr David Zemanek ethnologist and expert on African art adds a new approach to the current restitution debate on traditional African art So far the focus recently has been on colonial looting and destruction as well as the appropriation of the stylistic devices of primitive art in early 20th century European art says Dr David Zemanek in his new book that also caused effects of a stylistic nature in the opposite direction Without evaluating this change he uses the Tikar sculptures as an example to show how local artists responded to the increased demand for their carved art by freely combining traditional elements and adding new stylistic features and thus developing a transitional type These newly created objects although produced for the art market have their own sculptural charm the characteristics of which would not have arisen without the encounter between European and African culture and which gives the artists behind them a new expression of individuality Artists could step out of the shadow of their traditional patronage and create new works We have to rethink the African art market in general and especially when we are talking about the authenticity of African art and the reception of the western world Much of the art that is in the African art market now was made during colonial time for a western audience the new book of Dr David

Zemanek allows the reader to rediscover the creation of this complex and interesting market Cameroon's Tycoon E.M. Chilver, Ute Röschenthaler, 2002-01-01 Max Esser was an adventurous young merchant banker a Rhinelander who became the first managing director of the largest German plantation company in Cameroon This volume gives a vivid account of the antecedents and early stages as experienced and described by Esser In 1896 he ventured with the explorer Zintgraff into the hinterland to seek the agreement of Zintgraff's old ally the ruler of Bali for the provision of laborers for his projected enterprise The consequences many optimistically unforeseen are illustrated with the help of contemporary materials Esser's account is preceded by a look at his and his family's connections added to by an account of newspaper campaigns against him and completed by an examination of his Cameroon collection which he gave to the Linden Museum in Stuttgart

Visual Arts in Cameroon Schemmel, Annette, 2016-02-27 Annette Schemmel provides a highly illuminating case study of the major actors discourses and paradigm that shaped the history of visual arts in Cameroon during the second part of the 20th century Her book meticulously reconstructs the multiple ways of artistic knowledge acquisition from the consolidation of the Syst me de Grands Fr res in the 1970s to the emergence of more discursively oriented small artists initiatives which responded to the growing NGO market of social practice art opportunities in the 2000s Based on archival research participant observation and in depth interviews with art practitioners in Douala and Yaound this study is a must read for everyone who wants to better understand the vibrant artistic scenes in countries like Cameroon which until today lack a proper state funded infrastructure in the arts Displacing and Displaying the Objects of Others Jürgen Zimmerer, Kim

Sebastian Todzi, Friederike Odenwald, 2024-11-18 Displacing and Displaying the Objects of Others is a thought provoking collection that brings together a diverse range of contributions inspired by research from the Hamburg's post colonial legacy research center. The authors explore new perspectives in provenance research by situating it within the broader contexts of global history, colonial history and postcolonial studies. This volume goes beyond simply tracing the origins of objects considering the significant impact on the societies from which these objects originate. It also critically examines how these objects were used in collections and museums and how the process of musealization shaped collecting practices. With its multiperspective approach Displacing and Displaying the Objects of Others encourages readers to reflect on the deep connections between past and present and to consider responsible ways of engaging with colonial collections.

Einführung in Kamerun Gilad James, PhD, Kamerun ist ein Land in Zentralafrika das im Westen an Nigeria im Nordosten an den Tschad im Osten an die Zentralafrikanische Republik im Süden an Gambia und im Südwesten an Gabun grenzt. Es hat eine vielfältige Geografie darunter Küstenebenen, Regenwälder, Savannen und die Vulkankette des Mount Cameroon im Westen. In Kamerun leben über 250 verschiedene ethnische Gruppen, von denen jede ihre eigene Sprache und ihre eigenen kulturellen Traditionen hat. Französisch und Englisch sind beide Amtssprachen des Landes, was die Kolonialgeschichte als Protektorat Deutschlands widerspiegelt. Das damals ein Mandat des Völkerbundes war, das von Frankreich und Großbritannien verwaltet wurde, bevor es 1960 unabhängig wurde. Kamerun ist eines der am weitesten entwickelten Länder der Region mit einem relativ stabilen politischen System und einer wachsenden Wirtschaft, die auf natürlichen Ressourcen wie Kakao und Holz basiert. Es steht jedoch vor vielen sozialen und wirtschaftlichen Herausforderungen, darunter ein hohes Maß an Armut, Ungleichheit und Korruption. Trotzdem hat Kamerun eine lebendige Kunst- und Musikszene und hat berühmte Kulturschaffende wie den Autor Mongo Beti und den Musiker Manu Dibango hervorgebracht. Ihre Fußballnationalmannschaft, bekannt als die Indomitable Lions, hat auch internationale Erfolge erzielt und fünfmal die Afrikameisterschaften gewonnen.

The Post/Colonial Museum Anna Brus, Michi Knecht, Martin Zillinger, 2022-03-15 The African museum landscape is changing. A new generation of scholars and curators is setting international standards for the reappraisal and revision of colonial collections, the conception of curatorial spaces and the integration of new groups of actors. In the face of the ghostly survival of colonial epistemologies in archives, displays and architectures, it is a matter of breaking up institutional encrustations and infrastructures, inventing new museum practices and bringing archives to life. Scholars and museum experts predominantly working in Africa and South America discuss the post colonial history of museums, their political economic entanglements, the significance of diasporic objects as well as the prospects for restitution and its consequences. The contributions to this issue of ZfK are all presented in English. Based on the works of Waverly Duck and Anne Rawls, the debate section is devoted to forms of everyday racism and the way interaction orders of race are institutionalized.

World Art and the Legacies of Colonial Violence Daniel J. Rycroft, 2017-07-05 How have imperialism
