History of Education in Nigeria A. Babs Fafunwa,2018-10-03 Originally published in 1974 a comprehensive history of Nigerian Education from early times right through to the time of publication had long been needed by all concerned with Education in Nigeria students teachers and educational administrators No one was better qualified than Professor Fafunwa to provide such a book and in doing so he gave due emphasis to the beginnings of Education in its three main stages of indigenous Muslim and Christian Education Nigerian Education had been considered all too often as a comparatively recent phenomenon but this book points out from the start that Education is as old as Man himself in Africa and that both Islam and Christianity were comparative newcomers in the field A historical treatment of these three strands which have combined to make up the modern Educational system was vital to a clear understanding of what was needed for the future and most of the first half of the book is concerned with these Educational beginnings The imposing of a foreign colonial system on this framework did not always lead to a happy fusion of the systems and the successes and the failures are examined in detail There was no shortage of documentary evidence in the form of reports and statistics during the decades prior to publication but this evidence was frequently scattered and inaccessible to the student so that the author's careful selection of key evidence and reports often drawn from his own personal experience will be invaluable for those wishing to trace the development of Education in Nigeria up to the early 1970s A knowledge of the history and development of the Nigerian Education system of the numerous and intensely varied personalities and beliefs which have combined and often conflicted to shape it is indispensable to all students in colleges and universities studying to become teachers It is this knowledge that Professor Fafunwa set out to provide drawing on his wide experience as teacher writer and educationalist      Muslim Travellers Dale F. Eickelman,James Piscatori,2013-11-05 Pilgrimage travel for learning visits to shrines exile and labour migration shape the religious imagination and in turn are shaped by it Some travel such as pilgrimage explicitly intended for religious purposes has equally important economic and political consequences Other travel not primarily motivated by religious concerns and thus neglected by many scholars nonetheless profoundly influences religious symbols metaphors practices and senses of community These studies encompassing Muslim societies from Malaysia to West Africa also suggest how encounters with Muslim others have been as important in shaping community self definition as encounters with European others This volume brings together historians social scientists and jurists concerned with pilgrimage scholarly travel and migration in both medieval and contemporary Muslim societies and explores basic issues Can Muslim travel be regarded as a distinct form of social action What role does religious doctrine play in motivating travel and how do doctrinal interpretations differ across time and place What are the strengths and limitations of various approaches to understanding the transnational and local significance of pilgrimage migration and other forms of travel An image of Muslim tradition and change in local communities in relation to travel emerges which competes with the myth of the universality of the Islamic community
