Yuille,2012-12-06 The New Police Officer During the past twenty years the tasks required of police officers have expanded and changed with dramatic rapidity The traditional roles of the police had been those of law enforcement and the maintenance of public order As a consequence police officers were typically large bodied males selected for their physical abilities and trained to accept orders and enforce the law Over the past two decades however the industrialized nations have placed a variety of new demands on police officers To traditional law enforcement and public order tasks have been added social work mental health duties and community relations work For example domestic disputes violence between husbands and wives lovers relatives etc have increased in frequency and severity or at least there has been a dramatic increase in reporting the occurrence of domestic violence Our societies have no formal system to deal with domestic disputes and the responsibility to do so in most countries has fallen to the police In fact in some areas as many as 60% of calls for service to the police are related to domestic disputes see the chapter in this text by Dutton As a result the police officer has had to become a skilled social worker able to intervene with sensitivity in domestic situations Alternatively in the case of West Germany the officer has had to learn to work cooperatively with social workers see the chapter by Steinhilper

The Good Enough Manager Aaron J. Nurick,2012-04-23 The central questions of this book are How do the best managers behave What sets them apart from their peers What impact do they have on their subordinates and co workers The theme and organizing idea of the book is the good enough manager or GEM The concept is based on the psychological theory of the good enough mother who provides an environment where an infant learns to develop an autonomous and genuine self She does this by responding with empathy and adapting her behavior completely meeting the child s needs in the beginning and then gradually letting go allowing more autonomy and room for the child to add something uniquely his own to the relationship This book is based on a primary principle Just as there is no such thing as a perfect parent managing people in organizations is an inherently human and fallible endeavor mainly because managing occurs by and through human relationships Through the words of over 1000 study respondents GEMs are shown to be mentors and teachers relationship builders and models of integrity for their workers Each of these themes is explored making connections to the right brain thinking of artists and other creative professionals managing with emotional intelligence and historical ideas about management and leadership as adaptive human processes Organizational Behavior 5 John B.
