Frank O'Hara and the Poetics of Saying 'I' Micah Mattix,2011-03-03 While recent works of criticism on Frank O'Hara have focused on the technical similarities between his poetry and painting or between his use of language and poststructuralism Frank O'Hara and the Poetics of Saying I argues that what is most significant in O'Hara's work is not such much his borrowing from painters or his proto Derridean use of language but his preoccupation with self exploration and the temporal effects of his work as artifacts Following Pasternak's understanding of artistic inspiration as an act of love for the material world O'Hara explores moments of experience in an effort to both complicate and enrich our experience of the material world On the one hand in poems such as Second Avenue for example O Hara works to muddy language through which experience is in part mediated with the use of parataxis allusions and absurd metaphors and similes On the other in his I do this I do that poems he names the events of his lunch hour in an effort among other things to experience time as a moment of fullness rather than as a moment of loss The book argues furthermore that O Hara s view of the self as both an expression of the creative force at work in the world and as the temporal aggregate of finite experiences places him between so called Romantic and postmodern theories of the lyric While it is often argued that O Hara is a forerunner of a new critically informed materialist poetics this study concludes that O Hara s work is somewhat less radical in its understanding of poetic meaning than is often claimed Moreover while O Hara is preoccupied with his experience in his poems the book argues that he espouses in some respects a rather traditional view of love In addition to being a metaphor for the creative act love for O Hara is the chance coming together of two entities Yet one of the ironies of this is that while love is for O Hara a feeling that is the result of movement or the unexpected coming together of two otherwise separ

Figuring Jasper Johns Fred Orton, 1994 The author begins this challenging monograph by probing Modernism s surfaces and subjects its public and private meanings in order to establish Johns s importance as the modern allegorical artist in the years after Abstract Expressionism Yet Figuring Jasper Johns is not an essay that presumes to offer an instant interpretation Rather Fred Orton self consciously constructs a Jasper Johns whose work is introduced and explained in three chapters each of which addresses a specific picture or sculpture like Flag Painted Bronze Savarin and Untitled 1992 These in depth studies situate individual works in their social context as well as in Johns s oeuvre Fred Orton s purpose is to get to terms with and find terms for a difficult and elusive body of work by one of the most important artists of the 20th century

Going the Distance David R. Jarraway, 2003-01-01 This bold new theoretical study explores dissident subjectivity that is the struggle for unique authorial identity in American literary discourse that has existed according to David Jarraway since the Romantics From Emerson s Experience remarking upon the focal distance within the actual horizon of human life to Toni Morrison s Nobel Prize address sanctifying the artist s sophisticated privileged space American literature has continuously recognized a necessary distance the gap between culturally accepted ideas of selfhood and the intractable reality of the self s never completed construction in time Jarraway s fascinating examination of modernist poets shows that engaging with this artistic space or going the distance empowers writers and their readers to create and perceive identities that resist the frozen certainties of conventional gender sexual and social roles Employing this theory with grace and precision Jarraway ranges through the dissident process in Gertrude Stein the cultural criticism of William Carlos Williams the deferred racialism of Langston Hughes the queer perversities of Frank O Hara and the spectral lesbian poetics of Elizabeth Bishop Bolstered further by insights from the pragmatism of William James through the cultural critique of Theodor Adorno to the queer theory of Judith Butler the author challenges his audience with politically engaged insistence on the life affirming potentialities of human subjectivity in literature His passionate conclusion demonstrates the liberating fluidity of self made possible by feminist chartings of modern identity s depths Lucidly composed theoretically sophisticated and up to the minute Going the Distance painstakingly recovers the dissident American subjective in modernist literary discourse within its fullest cultural context Jarraway s readings are a major contribution to poetry scholarship and to cultural studies that will provoke further investigations into the history of subjectivity in American literature as a whole
