analysis of high and late modernist criticism in New York during the 1960s and early 1970s Through a close reading of a selection of key critics of the period which will expand the remit beyond the canonical texts the book examines the ways that modernist criticism's discourse remains of especial disciplinary interest Despite its alleged narrowness and exclusion the debates of the 1960s raised fundamental questions concerning the nature of art writing Those include arguments around the nature of value and judgement the relationship between art criticism and art history and the related problem of what we mean by the contemporary Stephen Moonie argues that within those often fractious debates there exists a shared discourse And further contrary to the current consensus that modernists were elitist dogmatic and irrelevant to contemporary debates on art the study shows that there is much that we can learn from reconsidering their writings The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history modern art art criticism and literary studies The Origins of French Art Criticism

Richard Wrigley,1993 The study traces the development of art criticism in the context of the dynamic political changes of the period Particular attention is given to the Salon exhibitions which provided a focus for both official and dissenting estimations of the state of French art

Art History After Modernism Hans Belting,2003-08 Art history after modernism does not only mean that art looks different today it also means that our discourse on art has taken a different direction if it is safe to say it has taken a direction at all So begins Hans Belting's brilliant iconoclastic reconsideration of art and art history at the end of the millennium which builds upon his earlier and highly successful volume The End of the History of Art Known for his striking and original theories about the nature of art according to the Economist Belting here examines how art is made viewed and interpreted today Arguing that contemporary art has burst out of the frame that art history had built for it Belting calls for an entirely new approach to thinking and writing about art He moves effortlessly between contemporary issues the rise of global and minority art and its consequences for Western art history installation and video art and the troubled institution of the art museum and questions central to art history's definition of itself such as the distinction between high and low culture art criticism versus art history and the invention of modernism in art history Forty eight black and white images illustrate the text perfectly reflecting the state of contemporary art With Art History after Modernism Belting retains his place as one of the most original thinkers working in the visual arts today Art History as Art Criticism?
