A History of Art Education Arthur D. Efland, 1990 Arthur Efland puts current debate and concerns in a well researched historical perspective He examines the institutional settings of art education throughout Western history the social forces that have shaped it and the evolution and impact of alternate streams of influence on present practice A History of Art Education is the first book to treat the visual arts in relation to developments in general education Particular emphasis is placed on the 19th and 20th centuries and on the social context that has affected our concept of art today This book will be useful as a main text in history of art education courses as a supplemental text in courses in art education methods and history of education and as a valuable resource for students professors and researchers The book should become a standard reference tool for art educators at all levels of the field The Journal of Aesthetics and Art Criticism Efland has filled a gap in historical research on art education and made an important contribution to scholarship in the field Studies in Art Education

A History of Art Education Arthur Efland, 1990-01 Recent debates on the place of the arts in American life has refocused attention on art education in schools In this book the author puts current debate and concerns in a well researched historical perspective He examines the institutional settings of art education throughout Western history the social forces that have shaped it and the evolution and impact of alternate streams of influence on present practice The book treats the visual arts in relation to developments in general education and particular emphasis is placed on the 19th and 20th centuries and on the social context that has affected our concept of art today The book is intended as a main text in history of art education courses as a supplemental text in courses in art education methods and history of education and as a resource for students professors and researchers The History and Philosophy of Art Education Stuart Macdonald, 2004 Investigating the study of art and design education in Italy France Britain Germany and the United States this text traces the philosophies of teachers from the age of the guilds and the academies setting them in the context of the general education theories of their times A History of Art Education Arthur Efland, 1990 Recent debate on the place of the arts in American life has refocused attention on art education in the schools Efland art education Ohio State U treats the visual arts in relation to developments in general education placing particular emphasis on the 19th and 20th centuries and on the social context that has affected our concept of art today Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The History of American Art Education Peter Smith, 1996-07-22 The ideas people and events that developed art education are described and analyzed so that art educators and educators in general will have a better understanding of what has happened and is happening to visual art in the schools Peter Smith raises the issue of art education's inordinate emphasis on Eurocentric art He challenges the often expressed notion that the field of education is the cause of art education's problems and proposes that confused conceptions within the art world are just as much a root of the difficulty No other book in art education history gives such close and analytical attention to the careers of women in the field The materials on Germanic cultural and historical influences are unequalled as is the scholarly treatment of Viktor Lowenfeld probably the most influential single figure in 20th century American art education

Art Education Albert William Levi, Ralph Alexander Smith, 1991 Recommending that art be taught as a humanity this volume provides a philosophical rationale for the idea of discipline based art education Levi and Smith discuss topics ranging over both the public and private aspects of art the disciplines of artistic creation art history art criticism and aesthetics and curriculum proposals featuring five phases of aesthetic learning While there is no consensus on how the various components of aesthetic learning should be presented in order to accomplish the goals of discipline based art education the authors point out that progress toward those goals will require that those who design art education programs bring an understanding of the four disciplines to their work The introductory volume of a five volume series this book will appeal to elementary and secondary art teachers those who prepare teachers at the college level and museum educators

Art Making and Education Maurice Brown, Diana Korzenik, 1993 Since the early 1980s the Getty Center for Education in the Arts an operating entity of the J Paul Getty Trust has been committed to improving the quality of aesthetic learning in our nation's schools and museums According to the organizing idea of the center's educational policy teaching about the visual arts can be rendered more effective through the incorporation of concepts and activities from a number of interrelated disciplines namely artistic creation art history art criticism and aesthetics The resultant discipline based approach to art education does not however mandate that these four disciplines be taught separately rather the disciplines are to provide justifications subject matter and methods as well as exemplify attitudes that are relevant to the cultivation of perception in matters of art They offer different analytical contexts to aid our understanding and aesthetic enjoyment contexts such as the making of unique objects of visual interest artistic creation the apprehension of art under the aspects of time tradition and style art history the reasoned judgment of artistic merit art criticism and the critical analysis of basic aesthetic concepts and puzzling issues aesthetics Discipline based art education thus assumes that our ability to engage works of art intelligently requires not only our having attempted to produce artworks and gained some awareness of the mysteries and difficulties of artistic creation in the process but also our having acquired familiarity with art's history its principles of judgment and its conundrums

The History of Art Education Brent Wilson, Harlan Hoffa, Pennsylvania State University. School of

Visual Arts, National Art Education Association, 1987 Art History, Art Criticism, and Art Production: Comparing the process of change across districts Milbrey Wallin McLaughlin, Margaret Ann Thomas, Michael Day, Rand Corporation, 1984

This report conveys the findings from a cross site analysis of seven school districts that were implementing a discipline based approach to visual arts education A discipline based approach incorporates four art disciplines in the classroom art history art criticism aesthetics and art production The study sought to identify the factors that generate support for a strong substantive art education program in a district s curriculum and what factors influence districts and teachers to maintain a discipline based art education program The study s findings suggest that to become academically respectable and support the factors necessary for change a visual arts program must have these basic characteristics an articulated conceptual base and a written sequential curriculum that reflects this base Art Education Clive Ashwin, 1975 The Role of Discipline-based Art Education in America's Schools Elliot W. Eisner, 1988 The Quiet Evolution Brent Wilson, 1997

How can lasting change be made in the way art is taught in America s schools This was the challenge facing the six regional professional development consortia sponsored by the Getty Education Institute for the Arts The Quiet Evolution documents this remarkable change effort which is unique because it has affected thousands of students and teachers in hundreds of school districts This report provides a compelling history of the evolution of arts education practice and theory in the institutes including a detailed and richly anecdotal account of how each professional development institute built a coherent comprehensive approach to arts education Education policy makers educators and community members interested in school reform will find The Quiet Evolution an invaluable guide to the many strategies developed by the regional consortia to change the schools they serve Art History and Education Stephen Addiss, Mary Erickson, 1993 Guided by Stephen Addiss s grounding in art history scholarship and Mary Erickson s expertise in art education theory and practice this volume approaches the issue of teaching art history from theoretical and philosophical as well as practical and political standpoints In the first section Addiss raises issues about the discipline of art history In the second Erickson examines proposals about how art history can be incorporated into the general education of children and offers some curriculum guides and lesson plans for art educators Handbook of Research and Policy in Art Education Elliot W. Eisner, Michael D. Day, 2004-04-12

This work provides an overview of the progress that has characterized the field of research and policy in art education It profiles and integrates history policy learning curriculum and instruction assessment and competing perspectives

Handbook of Research and Policy in Art Education Elliot W. Eisner, Michael D. Day, 2004-04-12 The Handbook of Research and Policy in Art Education marks a milestone in the field of art education Sponsored by the National Art Education Association and assembled by an internationally known group of art educators this 36 chapter handbook provides an overview of the remarkable progress that has characterized this field in recent decades Organized into six sections it profiles and integrates the following elements of this rapidly emerging field history policy learning curriculum and instruction assessment and competing perspectives Because the scholarly foundations of art education are relatively new and loosely coupled this handbook provides researchers students and policymakers both inside and outside the field an invaluable snapshot of its current boundaries and rapidly growing content In a nutshell it provides much needed definition and intellectual respectability to a field that as recently as 1960 was more firmly rooted in the world of arts and crafts than in scholarly research

Art, Artists, and Art Education Kenneth Melvin Lansing, 1969 This unique book represents a blend of the philosophical and practical aspects of art education It reflects the author's belief that efficient responsible instruction in art depends upon the existence of a reasonable point of view about the nature and value of art and the nature of the artist and the student Consequently the first half of the text is devoted to developing aesthetic criteria in the author's words to discovering a sense of mystery and excitement that can be found in art education Using the nature of art and artists as the basis for determining practical methods of instruction Dr Lansing goes on to describe in behavioristic terms the objectives of art education suitable teaching processes and a recommended curriculum Specific artistic activities are described for each grade level from nursery school through junior high school Hence the classroom teacher does not have to guess about the appropriateness of a given activity for his grade Additional features of the text include one chapter devoted to new methods of evaluation and reporting to parents and another to the need for more effective research There is also a comprehensive chapter on supervision that covers curriculum planning personnel relationships and in service education managing equipment and supplies professional obligations and public relations The text opens with a challenging introduction which realistically appraises not only the favorable aspects of teaching but its problems and frustrations as well dust jacket
