A History of European Literature Walter Cohen, 2017 Walter Cohen argues that the history of European literature and each of its standard periods can be illuminated by comparative consideration of the different literary languages within Europe and by the ties of European literature to world literature World literature is marked by recurrent systematic features outcomes of the way that language and literature are at once the products of major change and its agents Cohen tracks these features from ancient times to the present distinguishing five main overlapping stages Within that framework he shows that European literature's ongoing internal and external relationships are most visible at the level of form rather than of thematic statement or mimetic representation European literature emerges from world literature before the birth of Europe during antiquity whose Classical languages are the heirs to the complex heritage of Afro Eurasia This legacy is later transmitted by Latin to the various vernaculars The uniqueness of the process lies in the gradual displacement of the learned language by the vernacular long dominated by Romance literatures That development subsequently informs the second crucial differentiating dimension of European literature the multicontinental expansion of its languages and characteristic genres especially the novel beginning in the Renaissance This expansion ultimately results in the reintegration of European literature into world literature and thus in the creation of today's global literary system The distinctiveness of European literature is to be found in these interrelated trajectories

A History of European Literature in the Middle Ages and Modern Times John Reynell Morell, 2020-01-24      A History of European Literature in the Middle Ages and Modern Times John Reynell Morell, 1874      A History of European Literature J. R. Morell, 1973-01-01      Scenes from the Drama of European Literature Erich Auerbach, 1984

Scenes from the Drama of European Literature was first published in 1984 Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original University of Minnesota Press editions In his foreword to this reprint of Erich Auerbach's major essays Paolo Valesio pays tribute to the author with an old saying that he feels is still the best metaphor for the genesis of a literary critic the critic is born of the marriage of Mercury and Philology The German born Auerbach was a scholar who specialized in Romance philology a tradition rooted in German historicism the conviction that works of art must be judged as products of variable places and times not from the eye of eternity nor by a single unchanging aesthetic standard The mercurial element in Auerbach's work is significant for in a life of motion of exile from Hitler's Germany he came to believe that literary history was evolutionary ever changing a view reflected in the title of his book which suggests life and literature are historical drama Auerbach is best known for his magisterial study Mimesis The Representation of Reality in Western Literature written during the war in Istanbul when he was far from his own culture and from the books that he normally relied on In 1957 just before his death he arranged for the publication in English of his six most important essays in a volume called Scenes from the Drama of European Literature As in Mimesis Auerbach's fresh insights bring to the disparate subjects of the essays a coherence that reflects the unity of Western humanistic tradition even while they hint at the deepening pessimism of his later years In the first essay Figura Auerbach develops his concept of the figural interpretation of reality applied here to Dante's Divine Comedy it also served as groundwork for his treatment of realism in Mimesis A second essay on Dante's examines the poet's depiction of St Francis of Assisi The next three essays deal with the paradoxical nature of Pascal's political thought the merging of la cour and la ville the king's entourage and the bourgeoisie chiefly in relation to the seventeenth century French theater and Vico's formulation concepts by the German Romantics In the final essay Auerbach confers upon Baudelaire's Fleurs du Mal the designation aesthetic dignity because not in spite of the hideous reality of the poems A major collection of important essays on European literature almost all classics and almost all required reading for their various centuries thus the book is indispensable for the medieval period the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries in addition the Figura and the Vico essays are very significant theoretical statements The book is lucid and far more accessible for undergraduates than say current high theory Nor has Auerbach's own work aged All of his varied strengths are evidence in this collection which is a better way into his work than Mimesis Fredric Jameson University of California Santa Cruz

A Short History of European Literature Raymond De Loy Jameson, 1930 Early Modern Constructions of Europe Florian Kläger, Gerd Bayer, 2016-02-12 Between the medieval conception of Christendom and the political visions of modernity ideas of Europe underwent a transformative and catalytic period that saw a cultural process of renewed self definition or self Europeanization The contributors to this volume address this process analyzing how Europe was imagined between 1450 and 1750 By whom in which contexts and for what purposes was Europe made into a subject of discourse Which forms did early modern Europe's take and what functions did they serve Essays examine the role of factors such as religion history space and geography ethnicity and alterity patronage and dynasty migration and education language translation and narration for the ways in which Europe turned into an imagined community The thematic range of the volume comprises early modern texts in Arabic English French German Greek Italian Latin and Spanish including plays poems and narrative fiction as well as cartography historiography iconography travelogues periodicals and political polemics Literary negotiations in particular foreground the creative potential versatility and agency that inhere in the process of Europeanization as well as a specifically early modern attitude towards the past and tradition emblemized in the poetics of the period There is a clear continuity between the collection s approach to European identities and the focus of cultural and postcolonial studies on the constructed nature of collective identities at large the chapters build on the insights produced by these fields over the past decades and apply them from various angles to a subject that has so far largely eluded critical attention This volume examines what existing and well established work on identity and alterity hybridity and margins has to contribute to an understanding of the largely un examined and under theorized pre formative period of European identity
