the new archaeological sites were inhabited by a Slavic speaking population from the periphery of the Kiev and Kolochin cultures

Yavneh Raz Kletter, Irit Ziffer, Wolfgang Zwickel, 2010 In the words of late Professor Moshe Kochavi the Philistine repository pit at Yavneh is the kind of discovery made only once every fifty years It is the richest repository pit ever found from Bronze and Iron Ages Israel Palestine containing thousands of cultic finds originating from a temple including an unprecedented number more than a hundred of cult stands so called architectural models carrying rich figurative art dozens of fire pans chalices and other objects The present volume includes the full publication of the excavation the stratigraphy the cult stands and the figures detached from cult stands several clay and stone altars and some pottery vessels related to burning of plant material most likely incense This exceptional book raises a host of highly important and intriguing questions Is this a favissa or even a genizah Why are many cult stands badly broken while some are intact were cult stands broken on purpose What is the explanation for the unique stratigraphy and for the layer of gray ash in the pit was fire kindled inside as part of a ritual How do we know that these finds are Philistine Are they part of the furniture of the temple or objects dedicated by worshippers as votives Do the figures on the cult stands represent mortal beings or divinities If divinities can we relate them with Biblical or extra biblical data on the gods of the Philistines What was the function s of cult stands Were they models of buildings supports for images offering tables altars or perhaps incense burners Why are female figures dominant while male figures are virtually absent In discussing such topics Yavneh I treats issues that are central to many fields of study religion and cult in Iron Age Israel Palestine the history and archaeology of the Philistines and their western relations Near Eastern iconography the meaning of cult stands architectural models and the understanding of votive objects and of repository pits in general Literally salvaged from the teeth of a bulldozer these rare finds are now published Generations of scholars will discuss and reinterpret them there is no final word for such finds and hence this final excavation volume is not an end but a beginning

Cladh Hallan - Roundhouses and the dead in the Hebridean Bronze Age and Iron Age Mike Parker Pearson, Jacqui Mulville, Helen Smith, Peter Marshall, 2021-10-31 This first of two volumes presents the archaeological evidence of a long sequence of settlement and funerary activity from the Beaker period Early Bronze Age c 2000 BC to the Early Iron Age c 500 BC at the unusually long occupied site of Cladh Hallan on South Uist in the Western Isles of Scotland Particular highlights of its sequence are a cremation burial ground and pyre site of the 18th 16th centuries BC and a row of three Late Bronze Age sunken floored roundhouses constructed in the 10th century BC Beneath these roundhouses four inhumation graves contained skeletons two of which were remains of composite collections of body parts with evidence for post mortem soft tissue preservation prior to burial They have proved to be the first evidence for mummification in Bronze Age Britain Cladh Hallan's remarkable stratigraphic sequence preserved in the machair sand of South Uist includes a unique 500 year sequence of roundhouse life in Late Bronze Age and Iron Age Britain One of the most important results of the excavation has come from intensive environmental and micro debris sampling of house floors and outdoor areas to recover patterns of discard and to interpret the spatial use of 15 domestic interiors from the Late Bronze Age to the Early Iron Age From Cladh Hallan's roundhouse floors we gain intimate insights into how daily life was organized within the house where people cooked ate worked and slept Such evidence rarely survives from prehistoric houses in Britain or Europe and the results make a profound contribution to long running debates about the sunwise organisation of roundhouse activities Activity at Cladh Hallan ended with the construction and abandonment of two unusual double roundhouses in the Early Iron Age One appears to have been a smokery and steam room and the other was used for metalworking
