Clark Power, 2012-12-06 In the midst of the cognitive revolution there has been a veritable explosion of interest in topics that have been long banished from academic consideration under the intellectual hegemony of behaviorism Most notably notions of self ego and identity are reasserting themselves as fundamental problems in a variety of research traditions within psychology and the social sciences Theoretical models review articles edited volumes and empirical work devoted to these constructs are proliferating at a dizzying rate This clearly attests to the nascent interest in these topics the vitality of these research paradigms and the promise that these constructs hold for explaining fundamental aspects of human development and behavior Although the renewed academic interest in self ego and identity is obviously an exciting and healthy development there is always the tendency for research to take on a parochial character When boundaries are erected among different theoretical perspectives when empirical findings are viewed in isolation when theories are too sharply delimited and segregated from other domains of behavior then what may seem like progressive healthy and content increasing tendencies in a research paradigm may turn out to be on closer inspection merely an inchoate thrashing about Fortunately there is an internal dynamic to scientific investigation that tends to combat this degenerating tendency There is something about the rhythm of science that bids us to transcend parochial theoretical interests and seek the most general theory

Life, Times and Poetry of Mir S R Sharma, 2014-01-16 Mir Taqi Miror Mir as he is better known was one of the greatest poets of Urdu The book is a fascinating story of his life of rare courage and grit Orphaned at the age of eleven with the death of an ascetic father with nothing to fall back on young Mir was thrown into difficult times to face life and support his family The Indian subcontinent faced internecine wars and the great Mughal empire was crumbling in front of the child Mir who was left to fend for himself and provide for his family Mir witnessed the destruction and savagery of Nadir Shah and Ahmed Shah Abdali brought upon Delhi These historical times left a deep impression on Mir as is seen in his poetic sensibilities The book captures the personal travails of Mir the drama of his time and his soul stirring poetry Arguably the greatest of Urdu poets Ghalib made a rare unqualified exception when it came to Mir as he wrote Rekhta ke tum hee ustaad nahin ho Ghalib Kehte hain agle Zamane mein koi Mir bhi tha Ghalib you are not the only master of Urdu poetry Heard people say there was one Mir in the bygone era

Fate of the Flesh Daniel Juan Gil, 2021-01-05 In the seventeenth century the ancient hope for the physical resurrection of the body and its flesh began an unexpected second life as critical theory challenging the notion of an autonomous self and driving early modern avant garde poetry As an emerging empirical scientific world view and a rising Cartesian dualist ontology transformed the ancient hope for the resurrection of the flesh into the fantasy of a soul or mind living on separately from any body literature complicated the terms of the debate Such poets as Donne Herbert Vaughan and Jonson picked up the discarded idea of the resurrection of the flesh and bent it from an apocalyptic future into the here and now to imagine the self already infused with the strange vibrant materiality of the resurrection body Fate of the Flesh explores what happens when seventeenth century poets posit a resurrection body within the historical person These poets see the resurrection body as the precondition for the social person's identities and forms of agency and yet as deeply other to all such identities and agencies an alien within the self that both enables and undercuts life as a social person This perspective leads seventeenth century poets to a compelling awareness of the unsettling materiality within the heart of the self and allows them to re imagine agency selfhood and the natural world in its light By developing a poetics that seeks a deranging materiality within the self these poets anticipate twentieth century avant garde poetics They frame their poems neither as simple representation nor as beautiful objects but as a form of social praxis that creates new communities of readers and writers assembled around a new experience of self as body mediated by poetry
