Sullivan,2017-11-30 The art Bruegel produced between 1559 and 1563 presents a rare opportunity to investigate a concentrated period of productivity by one of the world's greatest artists. In this brief period Bruegel produced some of his most original works: the first pictorial collection of contemporary customs in Carnival and Lent; the first painting with children's activities as its subject in Children's Games; the first large scale painting of a proverb collection, the unique and enigmatic Dulle Griet; Mad Meg; and the extraordinary Triumph of Death, his disturbing vision of men and women fighting off the onslaught of death. In this comprehensive study Margaret A. Sullivan accounts for this burst of creativity, its intensity, innovation, and brevity by taking all aspects of the creative process into consideration, from the technical demands of picture making to the constraints imposed by the dangerous religious and political situation.

Handbook to Life in the Medieval World, 3-Volume Set Madeleine Pelner Cosman, Linda Gale Jones, 2009. Presents a three volume set that examines the medieval civilizations of the Muslims, Jews, and Christians, including history, economics, medicine, technology, art, literature, and clothing.

Measured Words Arielle Saiber, 2017-11-29. Measured Words explores the rich commerce between computation and writing that proliferated in fifteenth and sixteenth century Italy. In this captivating and generously illustrated work, Arielle Saiber studies the relationship between number, shape, and the written word in the works of four exceptional thinkers of the time: Leon Battista Alberti, Luca Pacioli, Niccolò Tartaglia, and Giambattista Della Porta. Although these Renaissance humanists came from different social classes and practised the mathematical and literary arts at varying levels of sophistication, they were all guided by a sense that there exist deep ontological and epistemological bonds between computational and verbal thinking and production. Their shared view that a network or continuity exists between the literary arts and mathematics yielded extraordinary results: from Alberti's treatise on cryptography and Pacioli's design calculations for the Roman alphabet to Tartaglia's poetic solutions of cubic equations and Della Porta's dramatic applications of geometry. Through lively, cogent analysis of these and other related texts of the period, Measured Words presents literally and figuratively brilliant examples of what interdisciplinary work can offer us.

The History of the Book in the West: 400AD-1455 Pamela Robinson, 2017-03-02. This selection of papers by major scholars introduces students to the history of the book in the West from late Antiquity to the publication of the Gutenberg Bible and the beginning of the print revolution. The collection opens with wide ranging papers on handwriting and the physical make up of the book. In the second group of papers, the emphasis is on the look of the book, complemented by a third group dealing with scribes, readers, and the availability of books. The editors' introduction provides an overview of the medieval book.

Anglo-Saxon England: Volume 30 Michael Lapidge, Malcolm Godden, Simon Keynes, 2002-07-12. The pre-eminence of Anglo-Saxon England in its field can be seen as a result of its encouragement of interdisciplinary approaches to the study of all aspects of Anglo-Saxon culture. Thus, this volume includes an important assessment of the correspondence of St. Boniface, in which it is shown that the unusually formulaic nature of Boniface's letters is best understood as a reflex of the saint's familiarity with vernacular composition. A wide ranging historical contextualization of The Letter of Alexander to Aristotle illuminates the way English readers of the later tenth century may have defined themselves in contradistinction to the monstrous unknown and a fresh reading of the gendering of female portraiture in a famous illustrated manuscript of the Psychomachia of Prudentius CCCC 23 shows the independent ways in which Anglo Saxon illustrators were able to respond to their models The usual comprehensive bibliography of the previous year's publications rounds off the book and a full index of the contents of volumes 26 30 is provided Previous indexes have appeared in volumes 5 10 15 20 and 25
