History Of American Psychology:

An Illustrated History of American Psychology John A. Popplestone, Marion White McPherson, 1999 Drawing from the resources of the Archives of the History of American Psychology at The University of Akron archives at other universities and commercial companies Popplestone and McPherson include informal documents historic laboratory equipment older tests and even frames from early films This text will open up a view of the field for those who are not psychologists and sharpen the memory of those who are American Psychologist Special Issue Ludy T. Benjamin, 1992 Psychologists at War Thomas Marley Camfield, 1970 The History of American Psychology Ludy T. Benjamin, 1992 A Chronology of Noteworthy Events in American Psychology Warren R. Street, 1994 The history of psychology like the histories of nations is made up of countless discrete events each occurring at some fixed time in the past Although it is unlikely that any of these events will ever be the occasion for a national holiday a chronological record of important events presents an interesting perspective on the story of the development of contemporary psychology This volume contains brief descriptions and exact dates of 2 827 noteworthy events in the history of psychology with particular attention given to American psychology and the American Psychological Association APA The collection includes dates of birth publication of important books articles and mental tests passage of influential legislation events in the histories of psychological associations and institutions court decisions research announcements and awards and scores of other events not easily categorized Each event has been numbered in chronological order beginning with Entry 1 the reported date of the birth of Plato and ending with Entry 2827 the appearance of Sigmund Freud on the cover of Time magazine for the fourth time The collection has been compiled from biographies and autobiographies public archives history texts journal articles biographical dictionaries association archives contemporary newspaper reports and correspondence with psychologists who were present when the events took place A complete source citation for each event exceeds the scope of this volume but a description of frequently used sources is appropriate Introduction PsycINFO Database Record c 2006 APA all rights reserved Psychology and Its Cities Christopher D. Green, 2018-09-03 Within the social and political upheaval of American cities in the decades surrounding the turn of the 20th century a new scientific discipline psychology strove to carve out a place for itself In this new history of early American psychology Christopher D Green highlights the urban contexts in which much of early American psychology developed and tells the stories of well known early psychologists including William James G Stanley Hall John Dewey and James McKeen Cattell detailing how early psychologists attempted to alleviate the turmoil around them American psychologists sought out the daunting intellectual emotional and social challenges that were threatening to destabilize the nation s burgeoning urban areas and proposed novel solutions sometimes to positive and sometimes to negative effect Their contributions helped develop our modern ideas about the mind person and society This book is ideal for scholars and students interested in the history of psychology History of American Psychology Abraham Aaron Roback, 1952 The present volume is an attempt to bridge the gulf between pre experimental and experimental epochs in America and to fill in the gaps to some extent in both the too brief and the deliberately circumscribed histories of psychology PsycINFO Database Record c 2005 APA all rights reserved The Archives of the History of American Psychology, January 1965 - August 1966
