History Of Illustration 29 Points Of View:

A History of Book Illustration Bill Katz, 1995-01-01 This collection of scholarly articles traces the history of book illustration from its first notion in cave art to the early 20th century. It is arranged chronologically with the first section covering the beginning of illustration, the second moves from the illuminated manuscript to the advent of printing, the third and fourth takes the reader from the earliest woodcut illustrations to the beginning of the 20th century, and the final part is concerned with children's books. An annotated bibliography follows which will lead the reader to additional delights and discoveries. The contributors are distinguished art historians as well as well-known anthropologists, members of Classics and English departments, librarians, historians, and educators. The contributions have been chosen to cover areas, points, or ideas not generally covered in the basic histories of illustration. Other criteria for inclusion have been the readable style of the author, offering of new insights into the subject, and current reporting on the field. All the articles chosen are in English. Black and white illustrations are provided to support the authors' presentations.

Book Illustration in the Long Eighteenth Century Christina Ionescu, Renata Schellenberg, 2015-01-12 Hitherto relegated to the closets of art history and literary studies, book illustration has entered mainstream scholarship. The chapters of this collection offer only a glimpse of where a complete reconfiguration of the visual periphery of eighteenth-century texts might ultimately take us. The use of the gerund of the verb to reconfigure in the subtitle of this collection instead of the corresponding noun underlines the work-in-progress character of this interdisciplinary endeavour which aims above all to discern new vistas while charting or revisiting landmarks in the rich field of eighteenth-century book illustration. The specific interpretive lenses through which contributors to this collection re-evaluate the visual periphery of the text cover an array of disciplines and areas of interest; among these, the most prominent are book history and print culture, art history and image theory, material and visual culture, word and image interaction, feminist theory, and gender studies, history of medicine and technology. This spectrum could have been even less restrictive and more colourful if it were not for pragmatic and editorial considerations. Nonetheless, its plurality of vision provides a framework for an inclusive and multifaceted approach to eighteenth-century book illustration. Perhaps these essays are most valuable in the practical models they provide on how to tackle the interdisciplinary challenge that is the study of the eighteenth-century illustrated book. The collection as such is the first formal step in an effort to rethink or reconfigure the visual periphery of eighteenth-century texts. It has become clear that the study of the illustrated book of the Age of Enlightenment has the potential of yielding multiple findings, perspectives, and discourses about a society immersed in visual culture, skilled in visual communication, and reflected in the visual legacy it left behind.

The Publishing and Marketing of Illustrated Literature in Scotland, 1760-1825 Sandro Jung, 2017-12-07 A ground-breaking contribution to the economic and cultural history of the eighteenth and early nineteenth-century publishing of illustrated belles lettres in Scotland, the book offers detailed accounts of numerous agents of prints: booksellers, printers, designers, engravers, and their involvement in the making and marketing of illustrated editions It examines the ways in which the makers of books not only produced printed visual culture artefacts but also contributed to the ideological inscription of these illustrations to engender patriotic concerns and issues of national identity The book differs fundamentally from existing interventions in book illustration studies Examinations of eighteenth and early nineteenth century British literary book illustrations have as a rule been selective rather than broad in scope or systematic in outlook they have focused on English examples of book illustrations By contrast The Publishing and Marketing of Illustrated Literature in Scotland 1760 1820 studies a large body of illustrated editions and adopts a systematic and decentered non London centered approach It focuses on the examination of the production of literary book illustrations in eighteenth and early nineteenth century Scotland while at the same time bearing in mind that developments in the marketing of illustrated books need to be understood as part of the cultural and book historical dynamics of exchange that existed between Scotland and England Not only does the monograph offer the first large scale study of the subject contextualizing literary book illustrations in terms of the ideologically defined ventures as part of which they were issued but it also draws a map of illustrated works that has not been imagined yet by scholars of the history of the eighteenth and early nineteenth century book In doing so the book provides an account of the publishing of belles lettres and the various strategies that bookseller publishers deployed to market their editions competitively in both Scotland and England

Illustrating the Past in Early Modern England James A. Knapp, 2017-07-28 Illustrating the Past is a study of the status of visual and verbal media in early modern English representations of the past It focuses on general attitudes towards visual and verbal representations of history as well as specific illustrated books produced during the period Through a close examination of the relationship of image to text in light of contemporary discussions of poetic and aesthetic practice the book demonstrates that the struggle between the image and the word played a profoundly important role in England's emergent historical self awareness The opposition between history and story fact and fiction often tenuous provided a sounding board for deeper conflicts over the form in which representations might best yield truth from history The ensuing schism between poets and historians over the proper venue for the lessons of the past manifested itself on the pages of early modern printed books The discussion focuses on the word and image relationships in several important illustrated books printed during the second half of the sixteenth century including Holinshed's Chronicles 1577 and Foxe's Book of Martyrs 1563 1570 in the context of contemporary works on history and poetics such as Sir Philip Sidney's Apology for Poetry and Thomas Blundeville's The true order and Method of wryting and reading Hystories Illustrating the Past specifically answers two important questions concerning the resultant production of literary and historical texts in the period Why did the use of images in printed histories suddenly become unpopular at the end of the sixteenth century and What impact did this publishing trend have on writers of literary and historical texts

Pictorial Victorians Julia Thomas, 2004 Pictorial Victorians focuses on two of the most popular mid nineteenth century genres illustration and narrative painting that blurred the line between the visual and the textual Illustration negotiated text and image on the printed page while narrative painting juxtaposed the two media in its formulation of pictorial stories Pictorial Victorians surveys a range of material from representations of the crinoline to the illustrations that accompanied Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel Uncle Tom's Cabin and Tennyson's poetry to paintings of adultery It demonstrates that the space between text and image is one in which values are both constructed and questioned
