In The Workshop Of History:

In the Workshop of History François Furet, 1984-12 Those concerned with the practice of history as a discipline and as an intellectual activity will be intrigued by the view of history that François Furet offers in this collection of essays After twenty five years as a professional historian at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes and in the ranks of the Annales school Furet sets out to reexamine the methodological and intellectual cleavages that exist today among historians Furet views history as a field bounded at each end by two ideal types One end is concerned with the history of periods and with the empiricism of facts rather than received ideas At the other end is problem oriented history which substitutes for the supposed coherence of a period the analytical examination of a question Furet's own work leans toward the second more conceptually oriented kind of historiography The essays in this volume most of them never before published in English illustrate the breadth of his approach Furet's discussion ranges through Tocqueville's conceptual system to present day America from the origins of history in France to the Jewish experience in the late twentieth century Among Furet's recurrent themes is the contention that the historian constructs the object or field of his research rather than receiving it from the past

Programming Theater History Herbert Blau, 2013-03-12 One of the great stories of the American theater the Workshop not only built an international reputation with its daring choice of plays and nontraditional productions it also helped launch a movement of regional or resident companies that would change forever how Americans thought about and consumed theater Elin Diamond from the Introduction Herbert Blau founded with Jules Irving the legendary Actor's Workshop of San Francisco in 1952 starting with ten people in a loft above a judo academy Over the course of the next 13 years and its hundred or so productions it introduced American audiences to plays by Brecht Beckett Pinter Genet Arden Fornes and various unknown others Most of the productions were accompanied by a stunningly concise and often provocative programme note by Blau These documents now comprise within their compelling perspective a critique of the modern theatre They vividly reveal what these now canonical works could mean first time round and in the context of 1950s and 60s American culture in the shadow of the Cold War Programming Theater History curates these notes with a selection of the Workshop's incrementally artful alluring programme covers Blau's recollections and evocative production photographs into a narrative of indispensable artefacts and observations The result is an inspiring testimony by a giant of American performance theory and practice and a unique reflection of what it is to create theatre history in the present

person interpretation and historic crafts have long been part of the museum world current movements in the maker movement in libraries and schools have occurred mostly outside of the museum world Instead Makerspace in Museums Hands On History in Museums and Historic Sites shows the importance of the Maker Movement for museums and historic sites and presents a roadmap to building planning researching and using a makerspace alongside more traditional museum programming It calls for a revitalization of living history which can be done through makerspaces and the maker movement Highlights include Why museums and makerspaces are a natural fit together Ways to organize and create a makerspace in a museum of any budget Creating a makerspace and culture of making that is inclusive and for the entirety of the community Strategies for researching historic making techniques and adapting them to the modern world Creating meaningful makerspace centered programming The processes and methods explored in this book will help produce a sustainable makerspace that will help the museum or historic site that adopts it reach new audiences creating growth and new museums stakeholders Likewise through calling for a recalibration of living history through the language of the makerspace this project calls for new approaches to living history Thus it is a call for a disruption to the status quo and a push towards sustainable and meaningful living history

Making History in Banda Ann Brower Stahl, 2001-08-02 Drawing on evidence from several disciplines Ann Brower Stahl reconstructs the daily lives of Banda villagers of west central Ghana from the time that they were drawn into the Niger trade around AD 1300 until British overrule was established early in the twentieth century The case study aims to closely integrate perspectives drawn from archaeology history and anthropology in African studies A History of Factory Legislation B. L. Hutchins, Amy Harrison Spencer, 1907

History, heritage, and colonialism Kynan

Gentry,2015-04-01 History heritage and colonialism explores the politics of history making and interest in preserving the material remnants of the past in late nineteenth and early twentieth century colonial society looking at both indigenous pasts and those of European origin Focusing on New Zealand but also covering the Australian and Canadian experiences it explores how different groups and political interests have sought to harness historical narrative in support of competing visions of identity and memory Considering this within the frames of the local and national as well as of empire the book offers a valuable critique of the study of colonial identity making and cultures of colonisation This book offers important insights for societies negotiating the legacy of a colonial past in a global present and will be of particular value to all those concerned with museum heritage and tourism studies as well as imperial history Economic and Social History of the World War James T. Shotwell,1924 A History of Factory Legislation Amy Harrison,B. Leigh Hutchins,2013-09-13 First Published in 1966 The continuous demand for the History of Factory Legislation since its publication in 1903 has resulted in this third edition The issue of a new edition has afforded an opportunity for a careful overhauling of the work for the correction of sundry errors and omissions and for bringing the story down to date This title covers the inception of factory legislation in the 1800s through to the administration of local authorities in 1902 followed by a retrospect exclusive to this edition Writing Women's History Since the Renaissance Mary Spongberg,2017-03-08 The complaint of Catherine Morland in Jane Austen's Northanger Abbey that history has hardly any women at all is not an uncommon one Yet there is evidence to suggest that women have engaged in historical writing since ancient times This study traces the history of women's historical writing reclaiming the lives of individual women historians recovering women's historical writings from the past and focusing on how gender has shaped the genre of history Mary Spongberg brings together for the first time an extensive survey of the progress of women's historical writing from the Renaissance to the present demonstrating the continuities between women's historical writings in the past and the development of a distinctly woman centred historiography Writing Women's History since the Renaissance also examines the relationship between women's history and the development of feminist consciousness suggesting that the study of history has alerted women to their unequal status and enabled them to use history to achieve women's rights Whether feminist or anti feminist women who have had their historical writings published have served as role models for women seeking a voice in the public sphere and have been instrumental in encouraging the growth of a feminist discourse
