

Mary Shideler's call to see ourselves as living under the aspect of the eternal, to awaken that Spirit within, is itself sounded from a deep commitment and practice. Applicable to beginners of many different traditions and backgrounds, she is also clear that at some time the novitiate must end and that a deeper commitment will be necessary. Perhaps her observation, "Thou shalt not be overcome," will be one that will prompt many to begin their own spiritual journey.

— HENRI NOUWEN —

In this classical primer on the spiritual life, Mary McDermott Shideler writes for those just beginning to experience the stirrings of the spirit and to ask the most elementary questions: "How should I pray? What should I pray? What is prayer?" In her guide to the basics of spiritual development, Shideler leads us with shrewd psychological insight from the early steps of spiritual awakening to mature understanding and commitment to the tradition in which we find ourselves.

Drawing on the insights of writers like C. S. Lewis, Søren Kierkegaard, Charles Williams, and G. K. Chesterton, this eloquent work describes life in the spirit with vivid stories and examples and clear terminology.

The late Mary McDermott Shideler was an authority on the well-known British novelist and theologian Charles Williams. The author of Creed for a Christian Skeptic and The Theology of Romantic Love, she was also a frequent contributor to Christian Century, Theology Today, and The Lutheran.

Spirit, Word, Community Amos Yong, 2006-01-31 The main thesis of Spirit Word Community is that Christian theological reflection in a postmodern world starts with the experience of the Holy Spirit but is at the same time post-foundationalist in terms of being formed by the word and being adjudicated by various communities of interpretation Yet the book's hermeneutical and methodological proposals are not merely prolegomena to theology but already involve and assume theologically substantive claims derived from a pneumatological point of view Hence this is a pneumatological theology which illuminates the hermeneutical process precisely by showing how the Holy Spirit engages the human imagination to empower liberative practices in a world that remains graced by her presence and activity Spirit Word Community is meant in each of these senses to be a contribution to the formulation of a comprehensive theology of the Third Article for the twenty-first century

The Spirit of Truth Myk Habets, 2010-03-01 Among the theological loci pneumatology is one of the most stimulating exciting and difficult topics to study it is also one of the most rewarding The identity and mission of the Holy Spirit is pervasive throughout Scripture and the Great Tradition and within contemporary Christianity it is one of the most popular topics currently being explored Here ten scholars present twelve essays spanning biblical hermeneutical theological and practical disciplines The result is not an evangelical pneumatology in systematic fashion nor is it a comprehensive theology of the Holy Spirit Rather this volume presents explorations in pneumatology from a variety of evangelical scholars working in varying contexts mostly the South Pacific basin but each wrestling equally with what the Spirit of Truth is saying to the churches today This is a work of outstanding scholarship with essays by Canadian theologian Gary Badcock and a cast of established and emerging Kiwi or New Zealand theologians which gives the work a unique contextual flavor alongside its ecumenical and evangelical commitment
