Knowledge and Language: Metaphor and knowledge Eric J. Reuland, Werner Abraham, F. R. Ankersmit, 1993

Studying the relation between knowledge and language one may distinguish two different lines of inquiry one focussing on language as a body of knowledge the other on language as a vehicle of knowledge Approaching language as a body of knowledge one faces questions concerning its structure and the relation with other types of knowledge One will ask then how language is acquired and to what extent the acquisition of language and the structure of the language faculty model relevant aspects of other cognitive capacities If language is approached as a vehicle for knowledge the question comes up what enables linguistic entities to represent facts about the world To what extent does this rely on conventional aspects of meaning Is it possible for language when used non conventionally as in metaphors to convey intersubjective knowledge If so and it does seem to be the case one may wonder what makes this possible The aim of this conference was to investigate the role of conceptual structure in cognitive processes exploring it from the perspectives of philosophy of language linguistics political philosophy psychology literary theory aesthetics and the philosophy of science Publisher description Language
