Moss,2017-01-20 It is a marketing truism that products should be shaped around the preferences of customers not designers and that a design or advert that is effective with one personality type may not be effective with another Since purchasing intent can be increased by providing products that appeal to particular types of customers an understanding of the impact of personality on design will help maximise the effectiveness of design and advertising efforts Gloria Moss brings together contributions from leading experts in academia and industry including Professor Judi Harris Dr Ceri Sims Professor Paul Springer Holly Buchanan and the late Bill Wylie This book reveals the extent to which design and advertising effectiveness can be improved through an understanding of the personalities of a range of stakeholders While the impact of demographic factors age class geographical location is the object of considerable research the impact of personality on production and preference aesthetics has been greatly overlooked It is only by grouping together research conducted on diverse fields that a larger picture of the impact of personality on design production and preference aesthetics can be constructed Personality Design and Marketing will be of great interest to those who would like to see the effectiveness of design and marketing enhanced whether it is those working in the area of design or marketing or general management It shows the extent to which preferences vary according to personality and the limitations of a one size fits all approach to design InfoWorld
