Landscape Papers:

Landscape Papers Edgar Anderson, 1976 Shortly after Plants Man and Life appeared it was reviewed in the journal Landscape This led me to J B Jackson the able editor of that remarkable publication With piquant combination of sharp criticism and flattering appreciation he charmed out of me a series of short essays One of these essays takes up in more detail the dumpheap theory of the origin of cultivated plants Several touch in one way or another on the acceptance of cities as places to live right in the middle of an attitude that is part of Mexico's Spanish heritage Three of the essays describe how I learned enough from my Mexican neighbors to have lived serenely years later in a big moderately priced St Louis apartment hotel for six months as a naturalist happy in learning from our apartment windows new things about bird life in the big city the serpentine course unparalleled in its loopings of the Missouri Pacific railroad as it starts southward the progress of small thunderheads across the city on a day of little thunder showers the dynamics of winter sunsets when the sun is so low in the sky that the observer needs to be well over a hundred feet above the ground level to learn very much and the heights and extents of autumnal morning fogs I was again spurred on to study and to teach the natural history of cities along with that of seashores and spring woodlands Some of those who liked this book have found deeper satisfactions in these Landscape papers Page 4 of cover

Landscapes Strategy: results and resolutions , Sacred Landscapes in Antiquity Ralph Haussler, Gian Franco Chiai, 2020-07-31 From generation to generation people experience their landscapes differently Humans depend on their natural environment it shapes their behavior while it is often felt that deities responsible for both natural benefits and natural calamities such as droughts famines floods and landslides need to be appeased We presume that in many societies lakes rivers rocks mountains caves and groves were considered sacred Individual sites and entire landscapes are often associated with divine actions mythical heroes and etiological myths Throughout human history people have also felt the need to monumentalize their sacred landscape But this is where the similarities end as different societies had very different understandings believes and practices The aim of this new thematic appraisal is to scrutinize carefully our evidence and rethink our methodologies in a multi disciplinary approach More than 30 papers investigate diverse sacred landscapes from the Iberian peninsula and Britain in the west to China in the east They discuss how to interpret the intricate web of ciphers and symbols in the landscape and how people might have experienced it We see the role of performance ritual orality textuality and memory in people s sacred landscapes A diachronic view allows us to study how landscapes were rewritten adapted and redefined in the course of time to suit new cultural political and religious understandings not to mention the impact of urbanism on people s understandings A key question is how was the landscape manipulated transformed and monumentalized especially the colossal investments in monumental architecture we see in certain socio historic contexts or the creation of an alternative humanmade seemingly non natural landscape with perfectly astronomically aligned buildings that define a cosmological order Sacred Landscapes therefore aims to analyze the complex links between landscape religiosity and society developing a dialectic framework that explores sacred landscapes across the ancient world in a dynamic holistic contextual and historical perspective The Painter and Decorator ,1918 Good Furniture and Decoration ,1926
