

IDEAS for MEANINGFUL LEARNING

The headings capitalization, punctuation, lesson, and sentence are “big” words. Again, reassure students that they aren’t expected to read these words because you will complete each lesson orally with them.

MAY I SHARE SOME IDEAS?

- A. With capitalization, talk about tall letters. Have students use their hands to form a capital I (a hand horizontally placed on a vertical hand).
- B. With punctuation, use hand signals.
 - 1. For a period, have students form a fist with the right hand and place it against their horizontal left hand, which represents a line.
 - 2. For a comma, have students open their right hand and curve it. Place the comma against the horizontal hand to show placement.
 - 3. Later, for an apostrophe, you will repeat the comma directions, but you will place the apostrophe above the line (left hand).
 - 4. For an exclamation point, hold the left hand vertically while the right hand forms a fist.
 - 5. For a colon, students will make two fists and place them vertically. (Only the rule for time is introduced in this text.)
 - 6. For a hyphen (for two-word numbers 21-99 only) students will point an index finger and move it gently in a horizontal manner.
 - 7. For later with underlining (for titles of books only at this level), students will move one hand horizontally in a sweeping motion to signify underlining.
 - 8. For quotation marks (for titles of a poem or a story only at this level), students will curve two fingers on each hand facing each other. They will wiggle these fingers to simulate quotation marks for a title of a poem or a story.
- C. For lesson and sentence components, offer meaningful learning. Your creative ideas are encouraged.
