Learning Analytics in Education David Niemi, Roy D. Pea, Bror Saxberg, Richard E. Clark, 2018-08-01 This book

provides a comprehensive introduction by an extraordinary range of experts to the recent and rapidly developing field of learning analytics. Some of the finest current thinkers about ways to interpret and benefit from the increasing amount of evidence from learners' experiences have taken time to explain their methods, describe examples, and point out new underpinnings for the field. Together they show how this new field has the potential to dramatically increase learner success through deeper understanding of the academic, social, emotional, motivational, identity, and meta-cognitive context each learner uniquely brings. Learning analytics is much more than analyzing learning data; it is about deeply understanding what learning activities work well for whom and when. Learning Analytics in Education provides an essential framework, as well as guidance and examples for a wide range of professionals interested in the future of learning. If you are already involved in learning analytics or otherwise trying to use an increasing density of evidence to understand learners' progress, these leading thinkers in the field may give you new insights. If you are engaged in teaching at any level or training future teachers/faculty for this new, increasingly technology-enhanced learning world and want some sense of the potential opportunities and pitfalls of what technology can bring to your teaching and students, these forward-thinking leaders can spark your imagination. If you are involved in research around uses of technology, improving learning measurements, better ways to use evidence to improve learning, or in more deeply understanding human learning itself, you will find additional ideas and insights from some of the best thinkers in the field here. If you are involved in making administrative or policy decisions about learning, you will find new ideas and dilemmas coming your way from inevitable changes in how we design and deliver instruction, how we measure the outcomes, and how we provide feedback to students, teachers, developers, administrators, and policy makers. For all these players, the trick will be to get the most out of all the new developments to efficiently and effectively improve learning performance without getting distracted by shiny technologies that are disconnected from how human learning and development actually work.

Perspectives from the European Language Portfolio Bärbel Kühn, María Luisa Pérez Cavana, 2012-05-31. Using constructivist principles and autonomous learning techniques, the ELP has pioneered innovative and cutting-edge approaches to learning languages that can be applied to learning across the spectrum. Although articles on the success of the ELP project have appeared in some academic journals, Perspectives from the European Language Portfolio is the first book to report on and contextualise the project's innovative techniques for a wider educational research audience. During the last ten years, the ELP has increasingly become a reference tool for language learning and teaching in primary, secondary, and tertiary educational settings all around Europe. The editors of this volume believe that there is a need to reflect on the significant contribution that the ELP has delivered for language learning and teaching and to critically evaluate its achievements. This volume offers a range of investigations from theoretical studies to practical cases around these issues and includes relevant contributions of the ELP to language pedagogy, assessing the impact of the ELP on pedagogical research and practice, exploring and defining pathways for future developments. Reflective learning. This book is intended for a readership of language teachers and researchers across Europe It will be of particular relevance to those engaged in language learning and teaching within the Common European Framework of Reference supporting independent learning and developing a language curriculum whether in school adult further or higher education Assessing Grammar James E.
