Language, Text, and Knowledge Lita Lundquist,R. J. Jarvella,2000 The series serves to propagate investigations into language usage especially with respect to computational support This includes all forms of text handling activity not only interlingual translations but also conversions carried out in response to different communicative tasks Among the major topics are problems of text transfer and the interplay between human and machine activities Approaches to Cognition Through Text and Discourse Tuija Virtanen,2004 This book explores the overlapping area of study that discourse linguists and cognitive linguists are interested in It procedes from considerations of information structuring coherence and foregrounding to those of negotiation of meaning in situational and cultural contexts The cognitive issues brought to the fore range from assumptions that we make about the interlocuters memory constraints the relative salience that we give to and recognize in elements of discourse prototypicality and the figure ground distinction reflected in language use locative concerns iconicity negotiation between people or groups of people of common ground and establishment of shared conceptual models within society at large which raises the issues of culture and ideology The contributions all by established linguists with highest qualifications present new findings which have important theoretical implications They offer unique and fresh analyses of central discourse phenomena in cognitive light Exploring Translation and Multilingual Text Production Erich Steiner,Colin Yallop,2013-02-06 The series serves to propagate investigations into language usage especially with respect to computational support This includes all forms of text handling activity not only interlingual translations but also conversions carried out in response to different communicative tasks Among the major topics are problems of text transfer and the interplay between human and machine activities Text, Context, Concepts Cornelia Zelinsky-Wibbelt,2011-05-02 The common aim of the contributions to this volume is to shed light on the communication of conceptual structures The papers investigate how speakers rely on the same cognitive dispositions in three different areas of transfer in the lexicalization of metonymies and metaphors in intercultural communication and in expert lay communication

A Theoretical Framework for Language Education and Teaching Paolo E. Balboni,2018-07-26 Educational linguistics is transcultural with research in the field adopting an international scope Educational systems on the contrary are culture bound As a consequence actual teaching differs across countries and sometimes even among provinces local educational authorities and schools However a globalized world needs to share the various meanings of knowing a language and teaching a language as language is the main factor of both cultural identity and national and international interaction The framework offered here is built on eight hypotheses logical models that provide the potential common core of a non culture bound theory of language education and of language teaching The book thus suggests a common terminology some common principles and a basic paradigm to be shared in both theoretical and practical research in edu linguistics consequently going beyond the borders implied by such titles as European framework American standards and Chinese
