Population Redistribution and Development in South Asia L.A. Kosinski, K.M. Elahi, 2012-12-06 The mutual relationship between change in population distribution and its determinants and consequences on one hand and social and economic development on the other is becoming an increasingly important area of concern for researchers policy makers and planners alike During the last several years the International Geographical Union Commission on Population Geography has devoted much of its attention to this problem and organized a series of international meetings focusing on population redistribution and its ramifications in different parts of the world During one such meeting held in 1980 in Karachi Pakistan some thirty papers were submitted by participants coming mostly from five countries in South Asia Bangladesh India Nepal Pakistan and Sri Lanka The present volume is an outcome of that symposium but it should not be regarded merely as a report of proceedings these have been published separately by the Commission Furthermore all Pakistani papers were published in their original version in a separate volume edited by M 1 Siddiqi who coordinated local arrangements for the meeting on behalf of Karachi University This present volume offers only a selection of the original papers all substantially edited and thoroughly revised and brings them together with additionally solicited texts All original figures have been redrawn and tables and references have been updated and standardized as much as possible

Routeing Democracy in the Himalayas Vibha Arora, N. Jayaram, 2020-11-29 Historically treated as an amorphous borderland and marginal to the understanding of democratic politics and governance in South Asia Southeast Asia and northern Asia the Himalayan region in the last 50 years has become an active political laboratory for experiments in democratic structures and institutions In turn it has witnessed the evolution of myriad political ideologies movements and administrative strategies to accommodate and pacify heterogeneous ethnic national identities Routeing Democracy in the Himalayas highlights how through an ongoing process of democratisation the Western liberal ideologies of democracy and decentralisation have interacted with varied indigenous politico cultural ideas and institutions of an ethnic nationally diverse population It also reviews how formal democracy regular elections local self governing structures protection of the rights of minorities and indigenous freedom of expression development of mass media and formation of ethnic homelands all have furthered participatory democracy empowered the traditionally marginalised groups and ensured sustainable development to varying degrees The book provides ethnographic and historical vistas of democracy under formation at work being contested and even being undermined showing how democratisation thematically stitches the independent Himalayan nations and the Indian Himalayan states into a distinctive regional political mosaic Combining new perspectives from comparative sociology political anthropology and development studies the volume will be useful for policy makers as well as specialists researchers and students in sociology anthropology area studies development studies and Tibet and Himalayan studies
