Language Student:

Educating the Minority Language Student Stefan Jaeger, 1900 Educating the Minority Language Student, 1984 An overview of classroom and administrative issues related to the education of language minority students in the United States is presented in two sections The section on classroom issues focuses on four topics teaching methodologies for English as a second language the features titles and sources of language proficiency assessment instruments principles techniques and policies for improving mathematics skills in this group and native and English language literacy for language minority students The section on administrative issues discusses a recent evaluative study of the Federal American Indian Alaskan Native program a transition program for refugee children a study by several State Boards of education to help states strengthen their capacity building for educational services to limited English speaking children elements of effective counseling programs and the Federal Education for All Handicapped Act of 1975 Each subsection contains a list of resources and a list of resource organizations is appended MSE Study Abroad and the Second Language Learner Martin Howard, 2020-12-10 Situated at the interface between study abroad and second language acquisition research this book adopts a threefold thematic focus to study abroad and the language learner investigating learner beliefs about study abroad learner experiences of study abroad in relation to a range of individual cultural and social factors and the nature of learner development while abroad at an intercultural personal and linguistic level Chapters present studies of learners in different geographical contexts with different first and second language combinations The studies draw on different methodologies incorporating quantitative qualitative and mixed method approaches Presenting findings with implications for learner preparation expectations and support during study abroad and highlighting developmental issues within second language acquisition Study Abroad and the Second Language Learner will be of interest to all study abroad and second language acquisition researchers as well as programme organisers language instructors and other stake holders Dominant Language Constellations Joseph Lo Bianco, Larissa Aronin, 2020-09-07 This volume is dedicated to the concept and several applications of Dominant Language Constellations DLC by which it advances understanding of current multilingualism through addition of a novel perspective from which to view contemporary language use and acquisition The term Dominant Language Constellation denotes the set of a person's or group's most expedient languages functioning as an entire unit and enabling an individual or group to meet their needs in a multilingual environment The volume presents pioneering contributions that employ DLC as the lens for analysing a wide array of issues These include multilingual syntactic development cross linguistic interaction and multilingual production in formal and informal educational contexts as well as linguistic profiles of multilingual groups used in elementary school and higher education Other DLC issues include discussions of how identity emotions and attitudes operate in various minority and majority contexts Because the DLC concept does not assume any inherent hierarchy of languages it can serve as a framework public policy in multilingual countries communities faced with challenging policy determinations regarding choice of languages for use in education settings and more widely in social institutions and the economy Some chapters develop and extend the DLC concept others adapt and apply it to a variety of contexts both global and local Many chapters feature educational and social settings across large parts of the world Africa Australia Europe North America Canada and the USA and Southeast Asia The volume can serve as supplementary reading for courses on multilingualism sociolinguistics language policy and planning educational linguistics Second and Third Language Acquisition On Second Language Learner Acquisition of English Collocations James Martin Rogers,2024-01-23 Collocations are words that commonly co occur such as jury and verdict Collocational fluency is an essential aspect of second language fluency Learning a language via collocations improves upon the efficacy of language acquisition because it essentially kills three birds with one stone students learn vocabulary collocations and also subconsciously absorb the grammar patterns of language through mastery of these chunks of language This is in fact similar to the way native speakers learn language and an efficient way to become fluent This book will detail efforts to create and then apply a methodology to develop a large scale high frequency collocation list and custom tailored collocation resources for Japanese Chinese and Korean learners to study directly and for practitioners to utilize as reference materials to create additional resources Presented in this book is a novel approach taken to fill a major gap in the research and to create large scale resources that were previously unavailable Therefore this book should be considered a valuable contribution to research that aims to help second language learners more effectively achieve fluency in English as a second language

Unauthorized Outlooks on Second Languages Education and Policies Carmen Helena

Guerrero-Nieto, 2023-12-27 This edited book presents a critical vision of language and education policies and practices in Colombia examining neoliberal perspectives which influence the promotion of English at all levels in the Colombian educational system. Some of the chapters emphasize questions of language teacher recognition and empowerment while others focus on both teachers and students' visions of national policies particularly with regard to colonial and Eurocentric discourses and subsequent discriminatory practices. The volume throws light on recent language and education policies and practices in a South American country where much current research in this area is published in Spanish but not in English and it gives visibility to voices that are often missing from the global conversation around English language teaching (ELT). Making these voices heard is part of a decolonial project that gives legitimacy to unauthorized outlooks, embodies knowledge and focuses on presenting alternatives to second language teaching, learning and research practices from the Global North onto epistemology. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of ELT, Language Policies and Planning, Applied Linguistics and Postcolonial and Decolonial Studies. It also has international appeal as its localized gaze can bring about important considerations regarding other local knowledges.
