Matching Game

Instructions

In this activity, you'll explore how the language we use changes depending on the situation. Your task is to match the spoken sentences to the scenarios in which you would expect to hear them.

- Place the sentence cards in one area and the scenario cards in another.
- Choose a scenario card, then find the sentence that someone might say if they were in that situation.
- Write down your answers on the recording sheet.

Scenario Cards Start Complaint 	Scenario Cards Emergency Situation 	Scenario Cards Job Orientation 	Scenario Cards Job Interview 	Scenario Cards Conversation With a Friend 	Scenario Cards Work Meeting
Scenario Cards Sports Team Meeting 	Scenario Cards Parent-Teacher Conference 	Scenario Cards Evaluation 	Scenario Cards Ordering at a Restaurant 	Scenario Cards Classroom Discussion
Scenario Cards Could I get the printed document and return documents with a job of? 	Scenario Cards Because we can you tell me how to get to the public library from here? 	Scenario Cards Can I get a student table with two seats and paper please?
Scenario Cards This month's figures show that baby food sales have increased by 20%. 	Scenario Cards John has been making great progress in making his cell messages with audio. 	Scenario Cards I need help! Someone just broke into my car!
Scenario Cards Let's see what happened at lunch today! Ugh. 	Scenario Cards Please remove your shoes and place all electronics in a separate bin. 	Scenario Cards Do you, Samuel, please, take this up to the post kindly entitled with? 	Scenario Cards You'll think it's hard each morning, and your supervisor will stand with you at 9:00 am. 	Scenario Cards My homework, please tell us why you feel you are suited for this job.

Language and Social Situations Joseph P. Forgas, 2012-12-06 Most of our interactions with others occur within the framework of recurring social situations and the language choices we make are intimately tied to situational features Although the interdependence between language and social situations has been well recognized at least since G H Mead developed his symbolic interactionist theory psychologists have been reluctant to devote much interest to this domain until recently Yet it is arguable that a detailed understanding of the subtle links between situational features and language use must lie at the heart of any genuinely social psychology This volume contains original contributions from psychologists linguists and philosophers from the United States Canada Europe Israel and Australia who share an interest in the social psychological aspects of language Their work represents one of the first concentrated attempts to chart the possibilities of this exciting field It is perhaps in order to say a few words about the origins of this book The need for a volume integrating research on language and social situations first emerged during the 2nd International Conference of Language and Social Psychology at Bristol University in 1983 at which I was convening a symposium with a similar title at the request of the organizers Peter Robinson and Howard Giles When they first approached me with this idea in 1982 I gladly accepted since my own research on cognitive representations of social episodes seemed eminently relevant to a symposium on language and social situations

Researching Language and Literacy in Social Context David Graddol, Janet Maybin, Barry Stierer, 1994 This volume shows how experienced researchers have approached investigations of talk or reading and writing behaviour and what they have discovered about the social and cultural embeddedness of language and literacy practices

Self- and Other-Reference in Social Contexts Minna Nevala, Minna Palander-Collin, 2024-03-15 The chapters in this volume study the construction representation and negotiation of a variety of social roles through self and other reference markers or the discussion of reference as a tool for identification The chapters uncover new insights both from a historical and present day perspective and show how positioning the self and other varies what kind of reference choices language users make and what follows from these choices The data come from a variety of public texts private encounters and questionnaires and the methodologies range from macro to micro perspectives including combinations of qualitative close reading and quantitative corpus methods and synchronic and diachronic perspectives The findings enhance our understanding and use of reference practices in the context of global institutional political and multicultural as well as media texts
