Writing and Motivation Suzanne Hidi, Pietro Boscolo, 2006-11-01 The aim of this volume is to bring together contributions from international research on writing and motivation It not only addresses the basic question of how motivation to write can be fostered but also provides analyses of conceptual and theoretical issues at the intersection of the topics of motivation and writing What emerges from the various chapters is that the motivational aspects of writing represent a rich productive and partially still unexplored research field This volume is a step in the direction of a more systematic analysis of the problems as well as an effort to present and compare various models perspectives and methods of motivation and writing It addresses the implications of writing instruction based on the 2 main approaches to writing research cognitive and socio cultural It provides systematic analysis of the various models perspectives and methods of motivation and writing It brings together the international research available in this burgeoning field

Student and Teacher Writing Motivational Beliefs Steve Graham, Gary A. Troia, Gustaf Bernhard Uno Skar, 2024-06-21 The study of students motivational beliefs about writing and how such beliefs influence writing has increased since the publication of John Hays 1996 model of writing This model emphasized that writers motivational beliefs influence how and what they write Likewise increased attention has been devoted in recent years to how teachers motivational beliefs about writing especially their efficacy to teach writing impact how writing is taught and how students progress as writers As a result there is a need to bring together in a Research Topic studies that examine the role and influence of writing beliefs Historically the psychological study of writing has focused on what students write or the processes they apply when writing Equally important but investigated less often are studies examining how writing is taught and how teachers efforts contribute to students writing What has been less prominent in the psychological study of writing are the underlying motivational beliefs that drive or inhibit students writing or serve as catalysts for teachers actions in the classroom when teaching writing This Research Topic will bring together studies that examine both students and teachers motivational beliefs about teaching writing This will include studies examining the operation of such beliefs how they develop cognitive and affective correlates how writing motivational beliefs can be fostered and how they are related to students writing achievement By focusing on both students and teachers beliefs the Research Topic will provide a more nuanced and broader picture of the role of motivation beliefs in writing and writing instruction This Research Topic includes papers that address students motivational beliefs about writing teachers motivational beliefs about writing or teaching writing Students motivational beliefs about writing include beliefs about the value and utility of writing writing competence attitudes toward writing goal orientation motives for writing identity epistemological underpinnings writing and attributions for success failure as examples Teacher motivational include these same judgements as well as beliefs about their preparation and their students competence and progress as writers to provide additional examples This Research Topic is interested in papers that examine how such beliefs operate develop are related to other cognitive and affective variables how they are impacted by instruction and how they are related to students writing performance Submitted studies can include original research both quantitative qualitative or mixed methods meta analysis and reviews of the literature

Reading Achievement and Motivation in Boys and Girls Pelusa Orellana García, Paula Baldwin Lind, 2018-05-02 This volume links theoretical and instructional approaches on how reading is motivated and assessed and examines the interrelationship between reading motivation and achievement among boys and girls in culturally and geographically different settings Much of the research on children's reading has focused on cognitive processes however reading is an activity that also requires interest and motivation These attitudes are generally defined as readers affect toward reading and their consequence is that children with more positive attitudes are more motivated to read Taking into account the variability that exists within the notion of gender and age this volume aims to examine and scrutinize previous research on the topic as well as test theories on how the different dimensions of reading motivation vary with gender in relation to cultural issues motivational constructs such as engagement and classroom climate the role of emotions interests and attitudes towards reading among others The book will be of interest to researchers educators graduate students and other professionals working in the area of literacy reading motivation reading achievement and gender differences Motivating Students to Learn Jere E. Brophy, 2010-05-26 Written specifically for teachers this book offers a wealth of research based principles for motivating students to learn Its focus on motivational principles rather than motivation theorists or theories leads naturally into discussion of specific classroom strategies Throughout the book these principles and strategies are tied to the realities of contemporary schools and classrooms The author employs an eclectic approach to motivation that shows how to effectively integrate the use of extrinsic and intrinsic strategies Guidelines are provided for adapting motivational principles to group and individual differences and for doing repair work with students who have become discouraged or disaffected learners

Race and Ethnicity in the Study of Motivation in Education Jessica T. DeCuir-Gunby, Paul A. Schutz, 2016-06-17 Race and Ethnicity in the Study of Motivation in Education collects work from prominent education researchers who study the interaction of race ethnicity and motivation in educational contexts Focusing on both historical and contemporary iterations of race based educational constructs this book provides a comprehensive overview of this critical topic Contributors to the volume offer analyses of issues faced by students including students educational pursuits and aspirations as well as the roles of students family and social networks in achieving educational success A timely and illuminating volume Race and Ethnicity in the Study of Motivation in Education is the definitive resource for understanding motivation issues posed by non dominant groups including African American Latino Asian Pacific Islanders and Arab American students in educational contexts Research on Sociocultural Influences on Motivation and Learning - 1st Volume Dennis M. McInerney, Shawn Van Etten, 2001-03-01 The aim of this book series is to provide a much needed outlet for the wealth of cross cultural research that has not impacted upon mainstream education This particular volume is divided into four parts the motivation context the learning context the family context and the curriculum context
