Reality TV Jon Kraszewski, 2017-02-24 From early first wave programs such as Candid Camera An American Family and The Real World to the shows on our television screens and portable devices today reality television consistently takes us to cities such as New York Los Angeles and Boston to imagine the place of urbanity in American culture and society Jon Kraszewski offers the first extended account of this phenomenon as he makes the politics of urban space the center of his history and theory of reality television

Kraszewski situates reality television in a larger economic transformation that started in the 1980s when America went from an industrial economy when cities were home to all classes to its post industrial economy as cities became key points in a web of global financing expelling all economic classes except the elite and the poor Reality television in the industrial era reworked social relationships based on class race and gender for liberatory purposes which resulted in an egalitarian ethos in the genre However reality television of the post industrial era attempts to convince viewers that cities still serve their interests even though most viewers find city life today economically untenable Each chapter uses a key theoretical concept from spatial theory such as power geometries diasporic nostalgia orientalism the imagination of social expulsions and the relationship between the country and the city to illuminate the way reality television engages this larger transformation of urban space in America

Master Your Motivation Susan Fowler, 2019-06-04 If you want to accomplish what's important to you discipline and willpower won't get you where you need to go In this iconoclastic new book Susan Fowler reveals compelling insights and actions to help you master and maintain your motivation Motivation is at the heart of everything you do and everything you want to do but don't Unfortunately the ways we typically motivate ourselves don't work Relying on sheer determination eventually becomes exhausting it's not sustainable And even setting goals can backfire if you're not setting them for the right reasons Susan Fowler says motivation is energy and what matters is the quality not the quantity Traditional motivators such as fear guilt or the promise of a reward provide low quality short term energy Drawing on the latest empirical research she proves that high quality optimal motivation is a skill that you can learn and apply Science tells us that satisfying three basic needs for choice connection and competence is essential to optimal motivation You need to feel like you've picked your path not that you're being driven down it Your goal should be linked to people or a purpose meaningful to you And you want to continually learn and grow Through practical exercises and eye opening stories Fowler shows you how to identify and shift the quality of your motivation The skill to master your motivation is important it may be your greatest opportunity to evolve grow in wisdom and be the light the world so desperately needs
