Helen Fairbairn

Ireland's Eye:

Ireland's Eye Mark Anthony Jarman, 2005-03-01 On August 28 1922 the martyred Irish patriot Michael Collins was buried Businesses across Dublin closed as thousands came out to pay their respects On the same day Michael Lyons a cooper from the Guinness factory drowned in Dublin's Royal Canal This peculiar confluence is Mark Anthony Jarman's starting point for a meditation on the intertwined history of a nation and his family Jarman's pursuit of the circumstances of his grandfather's drowning leads him through a modern Ireland that teems with ghosts from the past Thwarted by family gossip aunts who can't drive a stick shift cousins more interested in pubs than lore and his own fascination with the many Irelands that have been Jarman finds what he's seeking despite or perhaps because of the antics and the unreliable histories What he reconfigures is a revelation and an enchanting and engrossing read Murder at Ireland's Eye Miachael

Sherridan, 2016-05-17 On a fine calm morning in September 1852 a strikingly handsome man and his beautiful wife stepped onto a hired boat in Howth Harbour Dublin to set out on a day trip The destination was Ireland's Eye a small uninhabited island less than a mile to the north of the harbour He was an artist she a keen and adventurous swimmer By sunset when the boat returned to fetch them she would be dead Despite certain gruesome features the inquest ruled that it was a drowning and Maria Kirwan was laid to rest Then a startling secret emerged about the private life of her husband the artist William Burke Kirwan After an exhumation he was arrested for her murder The case caused a sensation the public fascinated by its extraordinary elements Added to this and almost eclipsing the murder was the scandal a sexual triangle that aroused the full force of Victorian moral outrage The trial was destined to become steeped in controversy and a veil of mystery has hung over the death of Maria Kirwan for the last 160 years But now at last a forgotten medical paper has thrown light on what really happened on that fateful day Death on Ireland's Eye Dean Ruxton, 2022-02-10 A tragic death a murder trial and a 170 year old mystery but what really happened Shortly after Maria Kirwan died in a lonely inlet on Ireland's Eye it was decided that she had drowned accidentally during a day spent with her husband on the picturesque island This inquest verdict appeared to conclude the melancholy events that consumed the fishing village of Howth Co Dublin in September 1852 But not long afterwards suspicion fell upon Maria's husband William Burke Kirwan as whispers of unspeakable cruelty an evil character and a secret life rattled through the streets of Dublin Investigations led to William's arrest and trial for murder The story swelled into one of the most bitterly divisive chapters in the dark annals of Irish criminal history Yet questions remain Does the evidence stand up What role did the heavy hand of Victorian moral outrage play Was William really guilty of murder or did the ever present moral facts fill in gaps where hard proof was absent Now this compelling modern analysis revisits the key evidence asking sober questions about the facts half facts and fantasies buried within the yellowed pages of the Ireland's Eye case files Dublin Quarterly Journal of Science, 1861 The Dublin Quarterly Journal of Science, Containing

Media Connections between Britain and Ireland Mark O'Brien,2022-09-05 This book examines the relationship between Britain and Ireland specifically the central role played by print and broadcast media in communicating political cultural and social differences and similarities between the two islands The relationship between Ireland and Great Britain has a long and complex history Given their geographical proximity and shared language one key dimension of this relationship has been the communication media print and electronic that have mediated this relationship This book addresses this important but relatively neglected topic at a critical time in Anglo Irish relations Taking the long view as well as looking in detail at specific episodes the contributors map British Irish interactions in print and broadcast media This volume assesses the proprietorial and journalistic connections between various media institutions the conditions under which media organisations operated and distribution channels employed It considers media influences in terms of the role of media organs in constructing national identity and promoting social change Furthermore this book also considers news flows between the two islands censorship in times of conflict cross border influences of television and the relationship between cinema and television The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Media History Sailing Directions for Ireland United States. Hydrographic Office,1934 Memory Ireland Oona Frawley,2012-03-29 In the second volume of a series that will ultimately include four the authors consider Irish diasporic memory and memory practices While the Irish diaspora has become the subject of a wide range of scholarship there has been little work focused on its relationship to memory The first half of the volume asks how diasporic memory functions in different places and times and what forms it takes on As an island nation with a history of emigration Ireland has developed a rich diasporic cultural memory one that draws on multiple traditions and historiographies of both home and away Native traditions are not imported wholesale but instead develop their own curious hybridity reflecting the nature of emigrant memory that absorbs new ways of thinking about home How do immigrants remember their homeland How do descendants of immigrants remember a land they rarely visit How does diasporic memory pass through families and how is it represented in cultural forms such as literature festivals and souvenirs In its second half this volume shifts its attention to the concept of memory practices ways of cultural remembering that result from and are shaped by particular cultural forms Many of these cultural forms embody memory materially through language music and photography and because of their distinctive expressions of culture give rise to distinctive memory practices Gathering the leading voices in Irish studies this volume opens new pathways into the body of Irish cultural memory demonstrating time and again the ways in which memory is supported by the negotiations of individuals within wider cultural contexts Contributors include Aidan Arrowsmith Hasia Diner Joep Leerssen Paul Muldoon Nuala N Dhomhnaill
