Irrigation Development In Africa:

Irrigation Development In Africa Jon R. Moris, 2019-04-11 Irrigation Development in Africa Lessons of Experience is a veritable encyclopedia of information on African irrigation It describes a significant subset of the African irrigation experience from traditional flood recession systems to large projects like Gezira and Bura Irrigation in Sub-Saharan Africa Shawki M. Barghouti, Guy J.-M. Le Moigne, 1990-01-01 Consultation on Irrigation in Africa Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1987-01-01 Costs and Performance of Irrigation Projects Arlene B. Inocencio, International Water Management Institute, Future Harvest (Program), 2007 High irrigation investment costs together with declining world prices for food and the failures of a number of high profile past irrigation projects are the main reasons for the reluctance of development agencies and governments in sub Saharan Africa to invest more resources in irrigation This study aims to systematically establish whether costs of irrigation projects in sub Saharan Africa are truly high determine the factors which influence costs and performance of irrigation projects and recommend cost reducing and performance enhancing options to make irrigation investments in the region more attractive It analyzes 314 irrigation projects implemented from 1967 to 2003 in 50 countries in Africa Asia and Latin America funded by the World Bank African Development Bank and the International Fund for Agricultural Development Small-scale Irrigation in Africa in the Context of Rural Development Harold W. Underhill, 1984 Water-Wise: Smart irrigation strategies for Africa Malabo Montpellier Panel, 2018-12-18 The report begins with an overview of the challenges on agricultural systems to make more food available and accessible and lays out the potential of irrigation to make agriculture more productive efficient and profitable for smallholder farmers A discussion on the potential to expand irrigation across Africa and barriers to uptake including an analysis of the inherent risks and desired outcomes of irrigation forms the next section The report reviews the traditional and new innovative smallscale and large scale irrigation approaches and technologies that have been implemented in Africa followed by an analysis of the experiences of six African countries that have been particularly innovative and successful in terms of their institutional and policy design for irrigation The report closes by drawing some key lessons and offering nine recommendations for actions by African governments and the private sector Irrigation in Africa, South of the Sahara, 1986 Agricultural Development Policy Roger D. Norton, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2004-01-01 Agricultural Development Policy Concepts and Experiences prepared under the aegis of the Policy Assistance Division of FAO presents a fresh and comprehensive look at agricultural development policy It provides a clear systematic review of important classes of policy issues in developing countries and discusses the emerging international consensus on viable approaches to the issues Topics covered include agriculture s role in economic development objectives and instruments of agricultural policy linkages between macroeconomic and agricultural policies sectoral policies related to agricultural prices the role of government in the sector gender issues in agriculture policies for the rural poor land tenure policies water management agricultural finance policies and agricultural technology development and dissemination This book is suitable for use in university courses in agricultural and economic development international development natural resource management and specialized topics in agriculture and it serves as a valuable reference tool for policy makers and other professionals and researchers in the field of international agricultural development A co publication with John Wiley Sons Ltd UK A Survey of Irrigation Development in Africa, South of the Sahara Ian

Sanderson,1974 Private irrigation in Sub-Saharan Africa: regional Seminar on Private Sector Participation and Irrigation Expansion in Sub-Saharan Africa, Accra, Ghana, 22-26 October 2001 Hilmy Sally,Charles L. Abernethy,2011-10-21 Only 4 percent of arable land in sub Saharan Africa is irrigated using just 2 percent of the available water resources Furthermore 18 percent of the area equipped for irrigation is not utilized at all and the intensity of use varies between 50 percent and 80 percent This highlights the huge potential available for intensifying and expanding irrigated area provided that the investments required can be successfully mobilized However it must be noted that if investments in irrigation are to yield satisfactory returns investments must also be made in a series of related activities Current global figures for the amount of private investment in irrigation confirm that good returns can indeed be achieved Prospects for sub Saharan Africa would be far more favorable if public development assistance particularly foreign direct investments did not show declining trends

Pastoralism and Development in Africa Andy Catley,Ian Scoones,Jeremy Lind,2013 A view of development at the margins in the pastoral areas of the Horn of Africa highlights innovation and entrepreneurialism cooperation and networking and diverse approaches rarely in line with standard development prescriptions Through twenty detailed empirical chapters the book highlights diverse pathways of development going beyond the standard aid and disaster narratives Irrigation

Development in Africa South of the Sahara J. R. Rydzewski,1968 Turnover, Désengagement and Capture William Mansfield Adams,1992 Sustainable and Resilient Infrastructure Development in Africa's Changing Climate Emmanuel

Adinyira,Clifford Amoako,Titus Ebenezer Kwofie,Clinton Aigbavboa,Kofi Agyekum,Michael Addy,2024-10-11 This book contains the proceedings of ICIDA 2023 The conference is a platform for deliberating the delivery and management of infrastructure in Africa in the face of a changing climate It helped to engage various stakeholders in the continent and beyond on how to develop and deliver sustainable and resilient infrastructure against climate variabilities This book brings together the experiences of participants gathered through many years of research and practice across various fields of infrastructure development that can help shape the future of the African continent Improved Agricultural Water Management for Africa's Drylands Christopher Ward,2016-08-23 Dryland regions in Sub Saharan Africa are home to one half of the region's population and three quarters of its poor Poor both in natural resources and in assets and income the inhabitants of drylands are highly vulnerable to droughts and other shocks Despite a long history of interventions by governments development agencies and civil society organizations there have been no sustained large scale successes toward improving the resilience of drylands dwellers Improved Agricultural Water Management for Africa s Drylands describes the extent to which agricultural water management interventions in dryland regions of Sub Saharan Africa can enhance the resilience and improve the well being of the people living in those regions proposes what can realistically be done to promote improved agricultural water management and sets out how stakeholders can make those improvements After reviewing the current status of irrigation and agricultural water management in the drylands the authors discuss technical economic and institutional challenges to expanding irrigation A model developed at the International Food Policy Research Institute is used to project the potential for irrigation development in the Sahel Region and the Horn of Africa The modeling results show that irrigation development in the drylands can reduce vulnerability and improve the resilience of hundreds of thousands of farming households but rainfed agriculture will continue to dominate for the foreseeable future Fortunately many soil and water conservation practices that can improve the productivity and ensure the sustainability of rainfed cropping systems are available The purpose of this book is to demonstrate the potentially highly beneficial role of water and water management in drylands agriculture in association with agronomic improvements market growth and infrastructure development and to assess the technological and socioeconomic conditions and institutional policy frameworks that can remove barriers to adoption and allow wide scale take up of improved agricultural water management in the dryland regions of Sub Saharan Africa Irrigation Potential in Africa Karen Frenken,1997 Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa Renu Modi,Fantu Cheru,2013-08-08 The subject of food security and land issues in Africa has become one of increased importance and contention over recent years In particular the focus has shifted to the role new global South donors especially India China and Brazil are playing in shaping African agriculture through their increased involvement and investment in the continent Approaching the topic through the framework of South South co operation this highly original volume presents a critical analysis of the ways in which Chinese Indian and Brazilian engagements in African agriculture are structured and implemented Do these investments have the potential to create new opportunities to improve local living standards transfer new technology and knowhow to African producers and reverse the persistent productivity decline in African agriculture Or will they simply aggravate the problem of food insecurity by accelerating the process of land alienation and displacement of local people from their land Topical and comprehensive Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa offers fresh insight into a set of relationships that will shape both Africa and the world over the coming decades Sustainable Agricultural Development in Ethiopia United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee,1990

Sustainable Groundwater Development for Improved Livelihoods in Sub-Saharan Africa Paul Pavelic,Karen G. Villholth,Shilp Verma,2023-05-08 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the benefits and challenges of intensifying groundwater irrigation in Sub Saharan Africa SSA for improving smallholder agrarian livelihoods Only about 3% of the groundwater resources of Sub Saharan Africa are used for irrigated agriculture despite the subcontinent s relative abundance of groundwater The majority of the region s smallholders are highly dependent on seasonal dryland cropping making them extremely vulnerable to uncertain weather patterns and droughts Improved irrigation capabilities through sustainable groundwater development could unleash smallholder farming and make it a major driver of economic growth poverty reduction climate resilience and improved food security So why is groundwater so underused Tapping into groundwater requires a major shift in farming practices and it has its own challenges and requirements smallholder access to land and finance for irrigation infrastructure and equipment gendered and equitable adoption options This whole list is framed in terms of what the smallholder farmers need Hence this should also be put in this context supply chains energy access resource availability and institutional support The chapters in this book present a picture that is not only heterogeneous across the region but also hold some common denominators They serve to enrich the discourse and help better understand the barriers along the pathways toward the sustainable and transformative adoption of groundwater irrigation The scientific information provided herein would be of interest to researchers practitioners decision makers and planners with interest in the region This book was originally published as a Special Issue of Water International journal
