Is It To Die:

A Good Day To Die Michael J. Bass, 2010-01-23 Poems and short stories about a young mans new begining     Whose Body is it Anyway? Cécile Fabre, 2006-04-06 In the prevailing liberal ethos if there is one thing that is beyond the reach of others it is our body in particular and our person in general our legal and political tradition is such that we have the right to deny others access to our person and body even though doing so would harm those who need personal services from us or body parts However we lack the right to use ourselves as we wish in order to raise income even though we do not necessarily harm others by doing so even though we might in fact benefit them by doing so C cile Fabre s aim in this book is to show that according to the principles of distributive justice which inform most liberal democracies both in practice and in theory it should be exactly the other way around that is if it is true that we lack the right to withhold access to material resources from those who need them we also lack the right to withhold access to our body from those who need it but we do under some circumstances have the right to decide how to use it in order to raise income More specifically she argues in favour of the confiscation of body parts and personal services as well as of the commercialization of organs sex and reproductive capacities

End-of-Life Care and Pragmatic Decision Making D. Micah Hester,2009-11-30

Every one of us will die and the processes we go through will be our own unique to our own experiences and life stories End of Life Care and Pragmatic Decision Making provides a pragmatic philosophical framework based on a radically empirical attitude toward life and death D Micah Hester takes seriously the complexities of experiences and argues that when making end of life decisions healthcare providers ought to pay close attention to the narratives of patients and the communities they inhabit so that their dying processes embody their life stories He discusses three types of end of life patient populations adults with decision making capacity adults without capacity and children with a strong focus on infants to show the implications of pragmatic empiricism and the scope of decision making at the end of life for different types of patients

Who Needs a New Covenant? Michael Duane Morrison,2008-05-01 Although covenant is a major theme in Hebrews Morrison contends all mention of covenant can be deleted without damaging the coherence of the epistle or its christological conclusions What role then does the covenant motif have in the epistle The arguments in Hebrews are aimed at a Jewish audience they ignore the needs and religious options relevant to Gentiles For the readers the Sinai covenant was the only relevant conceptual competitor to Christ First century Jews looked to the Abrahamic and Mosaic covenants as the basis of their obligations to God and God s promises toward them Although most Jewish writers merged these covenants as if they were one the author of Hebrews does not he retains the Abrahamic promises while arguing that the Mosaic covenant is obsolete The covenant concept supports the exhortations of Hebrews in two ways 1 it provides the link between priesthood worship rituals and other laws and 2 it enables the author to argue for allegiance to the community as allegiance to Christ
