Madness Is Catching Edward Radclyffe, 2011-07-18 Stateville is one of the strangest towns in the South Home to State University which makes the dubious claim to be the finest public university in the Deep South it is an island of slightly liberal values in the Southern sea of blue collar and military tradition And caught between middle class America and the sharecropper cum Klansman past are the educated unemployables who pass as Southern bohemia artists who can create only when the moonlight is in the magnolias and the utilities have been cut off writers who struggle to pen modern novels but keep coming back to the War the only war it would seem down South revolutionaries who pose as Marxes and Lenins of reaction but simply cannot persuade the South to rise again poets who spread chaos and disorder and angry dishwashers who curse the gods for denying them the right to become movie stars Their rudderless lives and how they are changed forever not necessarily for the better are the subject of Madness Is Catching a picaresque comedy of idleness that presents classic Southern vices in a new and universal light Tom Spaulding is one of State University's most illustrious dropouts having earned nearly two hundred credit hours almost entirely in electives and been expelled for refusing to declare a major in anything other than distressed Southern gentleman At thirty years old he has never held a full time job and it is with the greatest reluctance that he holds a part time sinecure He prefers to be known as an artist although the last time he produced any art was during the Starving Time when a parental check failed to arrive After all to quote Spaulding when on a full stomach Doing is not as significant as being Tom Jenkins graduated from State University again and again but so far it hasn't done him much financial good He spends his days writing free verse epics completely unrelated to his near Ph D in polar history he would have been the first student at a Southern university to write a dissertation on early efforts to cross Antarctica via snowmobile as well as propaganda tracts encouraging Southerners to rise up and peacefully and democratically overthrow the Yankee oppressors To supplement his predictably meager income from poetry and propaganda Jenkins runs a flea market stall where he sells books recovered from a library dumpster With the fine clothing furniture and surprising luxuries he also finds in dumpsters and thrift shops Jenkins is able to ape his supposed planter ancestors a uniquely Southern way of life Tom Rothman spends his days waiting tables at a truck stop a great fall from his upper middle class youth when he came to Stateville planning to enroll at the university Now he provides service with a sneer grumbling at his customers under his breath and grumbling loudly and profanely to his friends about the endless ways in which life has ill used him But there remains a kernel of seemingly hopeless ambition that Rothman cannot forever ignore Reginald OBryan a former carnival barker now on work related disability is distinguished among his associates for his unparalleled and cynical indolence There's much to be said against work he tells a receptive Spaulding Its certainly a destroyer of initiative OBryan becomes an elder statesman of sloth and a beacon of depravity to his younger friends A one man Devils workshop the only question is whether OBryan will be punished or rewarded by the Southern powers and Power that be Through one adventure free meal disaster and embarrassment after another this growing band of Southerners fails to learn any lessons at all unless it is that persistence can be a great waste of time From the hallowed mock Tudor mock Gothic halls of State University to the inside of a clean and well lit dumpster to the offensively uncharitable Megathrift charity store the lost Sou

Crazy Daisy
Narmin Aliieva, 2024-08-16 What does an ordinary person usually do when they wake up in the morning Daisy's routine is far from ordinary She wakes to the devastating news that her mother is missing and her pleas for help are met with silence as everyone she asks is struck down by arrows Strange and perilous places await her filled with daunting tasks and unknown outcomes Throughout her journey Daisy encounters many creatures Her kindness and sympathy allow her to communicate and help them without expecting anything in return It's Daisy's determination and courage that drive her forward refusing to let her give up She relies on a steadfast inner or perhaps outer voice to keep her head up However one crucial rule must always stay with her heart and mind as she strives to solve her problems and reach her goals she must never forget the people around her Above all Daisy must hold on to her humanity
