Favored Circle The Social Foundations Of Architectural Distinction:

The Favored Circle Garry Stevens, 2002-02-22 A look at the field of architecture written by an outsider who demystifies the mechanics of fame and fortune The popular view of architecture focuses on individual creative geniuses those who have designed the most significant works According to Garry Stevens however successful architects owe their success not so much to genius as to social background and a host of other factors that have very little to do with native talent To concentrate only on the profession of architecture is to ignore the much larger field of architecture which structures the entire social universe of the architect and of which architects are only one part This book critically surveys that field exposing many myths and debunking a number of heroes in the process Using the conceptual apparatus of French sociologist Pierre Bourdieu Stevens describes the field of architecture on two levels First he provides a detailed account of the field as it is at any given point in time describing the different components and their relationships Second he analyzes the dynamics of the field through time from the Renaissance to the present He discusses the system of architectural education as well as everyday aspects such as the competition for reputation He concludes that throughout history the most eminent architects have been connected to each other by master pupil and collegiate relations These networks which still exist provide a mechanism for architectural influence that runs parallel to that of the university based schools

Architecture Jonathan Hill, 2001 The aim of this book is to expand the subject and matter of architecture and to explore their interdependence There are now many architectures This book acknowledges architecture far beyond the familiar boundaries of the discipline and reassesses the object at its centre the building Architectural matter is not always physical or building fabric It is whatever architecture is made of whether words bricks blood cells sounds or pixels The fifteen chapters are divided into three sections on buildings spaces and bodies which each deal with a particular understanding of architecture and architectural matter The richness and diversity of subjects and materials discussed in this book locates architecture firmly in the world as a whole not just the domain of architects In stating that architecture is far more than the work of architects this book aims not to deny the importance of architects in the production of architecture but to see their role in more balanced terms and to acknowledge other architectural producers Architecture can for example be found in the incisions of a surgeon the instructions of a choreographer or the movements of a user Architecture can be made of anything and by anyone

Industries of Architecture Katie Lloyd Thomas, Tilo Amhoff, Nick Beech, 2015-11-06 At a time when the technologies and techniques of producing the built environment are undergoing significant change this book makes central architecture's relationship to industry Contributors turn to historical and theoretical questions as well as to key contemporary developments taking a humanities approach to the Industries of Architecture that will be of interest to practitioners and industry professionals as much as to academic researchers teachers and students How has modern architecture responded to mass production How do we understand the necessarily social nature of production in the architectural office and on the building site And how is architecture entwined within wider fields of production and reproduction finance capital the spaces of regulation and management techniques What are the particular effects of techniques and technologies and above all their inter relations on those who labour in architecture the buildings they produce and the discursive frameworks we mobilise to understand them

Interpretation in Architecture Adrian Snodgrass, Richard Coyne, 2013-05-13 Drawing on cultural theory phenomenology and concepts from Asian art and philosophy this book reflects on the role of interpretation in the act of architectural creation bringing an intellectual and scholarly dimension to real world architectural design practice For practising architects as well as academic researchers these essays consider interpretation from three theoretical standpoints or themes play edification and otherness Focusing on these the book draws together strands of thought informed by the diverse reflections of hermeneutical scholarship the uses of digital media and studio teaching and practice Architecture as a Global System

Peter Raisbeck, 2019-11-08 This book provides a clear sighted analysis which suggests that architectural design may yet shape and order the future of cities A clear argument that emerges is that to retain their future agency architects must understand the contours and ecologies of practice that constitute the global system of architectural production Work-Life

Balance in Architecture Igea Troiani, 2024-03-04 This book seeks to improve the work lives of architects of diverse demographics who do not fit or want to replicate the traditional 24/7 white male architect lifestyle Aimed at a workforce whose life and career expectations have changed drastically in recent years it helps readers of different generations to make informed choices about their careers enabling students educators and professionals to prioritise wellbeing and offer their design and practice voice to enhance a built environment for all Work Life Balance in Architecture examines what it means to play the game of architecture to choose to study and pursue a career in architecture rather than another profession The book shows the economic social and professional structures within which architectural education and practice operate and reveals the impact of a corporate neoliberal big business mentality on wellbeing After setting out the context exacerbating work life imbalance the book discusses the paths an architect may take whether this leads to a career in practice or not in architecture at all and how alternative gameplay moves can advantage or disadvantage those of different gender class ethnicity race or age at different career stages It concludes by examining how the places in which an architect works the time available to work and critiques of perpetual neoliberal economic growth can enhance the lives of all architects today Designing for

Diversity Kathryn H. Anthony, 2021-08-18 A powerful statement about the repercussions of discrimination and the benefits of diversity in architecture Providing hard data for trends that many perceive only vaguely and some deny altogether Designing for Diversity reveals a profession rife with gender and racial discrimination and examines the aspects of architectural practice that hinder or support the full participation of women and persons of color Drawing on interviews and surveys of hundreds of architects Kathryn H Anthony outlines some of the forms of discrimination that recur most frequently in architecture being offered added responsibility without a commensurate rise in position salary or credit not being allowed to engage in client contact field experience or construction supervision and being confined to certain kinds of positions typically interior design for women government work for African Americans and computer aided design for Asian American architects Anthony discusses the profession's attitude toward flexible schedules part time contracts and the demands of family and identifies strategies that have helped underrepresented individuals advance in the profession especially establishing a strong relationship with a mentor She also observes a strong tendency for underrepresented architects to leave mainstream practice either establishing their own firms going into government or corporate work or abandoning the field altogether Given the traditional mismatch between diverse consumers and predominantly white male producers of the built environment plus the shifting population balance toward communities of color Anthony contends that the architectural profession staves off true diversity at its own peril Designing for Diversity argues convincingly that improving the climate for nontraditional architects will do much to strengthen architecture as a profession Practicing architects managers of firms and educators will learn how to create conditions more welcoming to a diversity of users as well as designers of the built environment architecture graduates choose not to practise as architects. Instead, by leaving their chosen profession, this surprisingly large but vastly overlooked cohort are making significant contributions to a wide range of other sectors from politics to videogame design, demonstrating that architectural training can be a pathway to roles and even leadership opportunities across a variety of other professions. Architecture's Afterlife is the first book to examine the sectors into which these graduates migrate and to identify the transferable skills that are learned but not always taught in their degree programmes and that prove most useful in their new careers. The book, a result of a three-year pan-European study funded by Erasmus, provides a roadmap for increasing graduate employment, addressing skills shortages across all sectors and adapting curricula to changing professional landscapes. It is therefore essential reading for all those responsible for curriculum design and delivery in architecture and other disciplines, including deans, professors, postgraduate researchers and policy makers, as well as students and professionals seeking to expand their career prospects.

The Icon Project Leslie Sklair, 2017. The Icon Project argues that the transnational capitalist class mobilizes two forms of iconic architecture: unique icons recognized as works of art, notably designed by global architects such as Frank Gehry and Zaha Hadid; and typical icons copying elements of unique icons to promote the same ideological message: the culture ideology of consumerism.

Design Education for a Sustainable Future Rob Fleming, 2013-04-26. Sustainability is a powerful force that is fundamentally reshaping humanity's relationship to the natural world and is ushering in the Age of Integration. The move from well-intentioned environmental friendliness to the higher bar of integral sustainability and regenerative design demands a new type of design professional: one that is deeply collaborative, ethically grounded, empathically connected, and technologically empowered. As a response, this book argues for a great leap forward in design education from an individualistic and competitive model, casually focused on greening, to a new approach defined by an integral consciousness shaped by the values of inclusivity and cooperation and implemented by a series of integrative behaviors, including an ethically infused design brief, a co-creative design process, on-going value engineering, pre-emptive engineering, design validation through simulation, on-line enabled integrated learning, the use of well-vetted rating systems. This book contains the integral frameworks, whole system change methodologies, and intrinsic values that will assist professors and their students in an authentic and effective pursuit of design education for a sustainable future.

Two Spheres Leonard Bachman, 2012-06-14. Explaining the connection between physical and strategic design, this book proposes an aesthetic connection between two equal aspects of architectural design: the Real and the Ideal. Addressing architectural thinkers from the broad realms of academia and practice, it is suitable either as a seminar text, a guide to contemporary design issues, or as a theoretical work. Beginning with a historical perspective, the book looks at some of the key conflicts in architectural thought that were brought about by postindustrial change. The discussion shifts to clearly describe the forms of complexity, how these have interacted with architecture, and the possibilities in fully embracing complexity in architectural practice. Although there are many books focusing on complexity science, there are few that focus on the relationship between complexity and design and none which take such a comprehensive approach Narratives of Architectural Education James Thompson, 2019-01-14 Narratives of Architectural Education provides an overview of life as an architecture student detailing how a layperson may develop an architectural identity This book proposes becoming an architect as a personal narrative of professional development structured around various stages and challenges associated with identity transformation Using a case study of aspiring architects along multiple time points of their professional education Thompson investigates the occupational identity of architects how individuals construct a sense of themselves as future architects and position themselves within the architectural community This book provides previously unexamined insights into not just the academic development of an architect but also the holistic and experiential aspects of architectural education It would be ideal for those in the educational field of architecture to include students educators interns and mentors Neo-liberalism and the Architecture of the Post Professional Era Hossein Sadri, 2018-04-27 This book discusses the effects of Neo Liberal policies on the transformations of architectural and urban practices and education in the transition from the era of professionalism to post professionalism Building on previous literature in the field of contemporary theory of architecture it provides the necessary resources for the study of contemporary architecture and urban politics urban sociology local administration and urban geography Further it develops a political and critical perspective on contemporary practices of architecture and urbanism their implementation legal background political effects and social results The book will interest readers from a wide range of academic disciplines from political science to architecture and from urban studies to sociology The Routledge Companion to Architectural Pedagogies of the Global South Harriet Harriss, Ashraf M. Salama, Ane Gonzalez Lara, 2022-12-30 The established canon of architectural pedagogy has been predominantly produced within the Northern hemisphere and transposed or imposed across schools within the Global South more often with scant regard for social economic political or ecological culture and context nor regional or indigenous pedagogic principles and practices Throughout the Global South architecture's academic community has been deeply affected by this regime how it shapes and influences proto professionals and by implication architectural processes and outcomes too The Routledge Companion to Architectural Pedagogies of the Global South resituates and recenters an array of pedagogic approaches that are either produced or proliferate from the Global South while antagonizing the linguistic epistemological and disciplinary conceits that under imperialist imperatives ensured that these pedagogies remained maligned or marginalized The book maintains that the exclusionary implications of architectural notions of the orders the canon and the core have served to constrain and to calcify its contents and in doing so imperiled its relevance and impact In contrast this companion of pedagogic approaches serves to evidence that architecture's academic and professional advancement is wholly contingent on its ability to fully engage in an additive and inclusive process whereby the necessary disruptions that occur when marginalized knowledge confronts established knowledge result in a catalytical transformation through which new co created knowledge can emerge. Notions of tradition, identity, modernity, vernacularism, post colonialism, poverty, migration, social and spatial justice, climate, apartheid, globalization, ethical standards, and international partnerships are key considerations in the context of the Global South. How these issues originate and evolve within architectural schools and curricula, and how they act as drivers across all curricula activities, are some of the important themes that the contributors interrogate and debate. With more than 30 contributions from 55 authors from diverse regional, racial, ethnic, gender, and cultural backgrounds, this companion is structured in four sections that capture critique and catalog multifarious marginalized pedagogical approaches to provide educators and students with an essential source book of navigational steers, core contestations, propositional tactics, and reimagined rubrics. The Routledge Companion to Architectural Pedagogies of the Global South pioneers a transposable strategy for academics from all disciplines looking to adopt a tested approach to decolonizing the curriculum. It is only through a process of destabilizing the hegemonic epistemological and disciplinary frameworks that have long prescribed architecture's pedagogies that the possibility of more inclusive, representative, and relevant pedagogical practices can emerge.

Architecture and Film Mark Lamster, 2013-07-02. Architecture and Film looks at the ways architecture and architects are treated on screen and conversely how these depictions filter and shape the ways we understand the built environment. It also examines the significant effect that the film industry has had on the American public's perception of urban, suburban, and rural spaces. Contributors to this collection of essays come from a wide range of disciplines. Nancy Levinson from Harvard Design Magazine writes on how films from The Fountainhead to Jungle Fever have depicted architects. Eric Rosenberg from Tufts University looks at how architecture and spatial relations shape the Beatles films A Hard Day's Night, Help!, and Let It Be. Joseph Rosa, curator at the National Building Museum, discusses why modern domestic architecture in recent Hollywood films such as The Ice Storm, L.A. Confidential, and The Big Lebowski has become synonymous with unstable inhabitants. ID Magazine writer Peter Hall discusses the history of film titling, focusing on the groundbreaking work of Saul Bass and Maurice Binder. Edited by Mark Lamster, it examines the anti-urbanism of the Star Wars trilogy. The collection also includes the voices of those from within the film industry who are uniquely able to provide a behind-the-scenes perspective. Film, Edited by Bob Eisenhardt, comments on the making of Concert of Wills, a documentary on the construction of the Getty Museum, and Robert Kraft focuses on his work as a location director for Diane Keaton's upcoming film about Los Angeles. Also included are interviews with David Rockwell, architect of numerous Planet Hollywood restaurants worldwide and designer of a new hall to host the Academy Awards ceremony; Kyle Kooper, who created title sequences for Seven and Mission Impossible; and motion picture art director Jan Roelfs, whose credits include Gattaca, Orlando, and Little Women.

The Rise of Awards in Architecture Jean-Pierre Chupin, Carmela Cucuzzella, Georges Adamczyk, 2022-09-06. This book is the first scientific study to focus on awards in architecture and the built environment, investigating their exponential growth since the 1980s. The celebration of excellence in architecture and related fields remains a phenomenon on which there is strangely little scientific scrutiny What is to be understood from the plethora of award winning projects award winning buildings and awarded professional practices in the built environment year after year Glossy images partake in an intense ballet at every local regional national or international award ceremony and they are meant to embody proofs of architectural excellence However it is necessary to take a critical distance to question what awards are meant to embody symbolize and perhaps measure Each of the 10 chapters in this volume is centered on one question related to themes as varied as the comparison of Pritzker and Nobel Prizes the Prix de Rome the redefinition of quality through awards green awards and sustainability the multiplication of sustainable awards heritage awards architecture book awards the awarding of school architecture awards as mediations and awards as pedagogical devices Many fields once consolidated have featured a sharp increase in related prizes The original data compiled and summarized in 4 appendices cover more than 150 award granting organizations in some 30 countries Our inventory includes upwards of 24 000 prizes awarded at more than 3 100 events the earliest of which is the first instance of Western architecture s seminal Grand Prix de Rome in France in 1720 A history of contemporary architecture is thus written through press releases that praise the merits of the heroes as much as their works and achievements And while awards can be vehicles that propel architecture forward they can also be Trojan horses in an era that is constantly on the lookout for event driven products small and big news and brand imaging

What is Architecture? Andrew Ballantyne, 2013-11-05 Architecture can influence the way we feel and can help us along as we go about our lives or sabotage our habitual ways of doing things The essays collected here challenge and help to define a view of architecture which ranges from the minimal domesticity of Diogenes barrel to the exuberant experiments of the contemporary avant garde There are essays by philosophers architects and art historians including Roger Scruton Bernard Tschumi Demetri Pophyrios Kenneth Frampton Diane Ghirardo and David Goldblatt

The Crisis of the African-American Architect Melvin L. Mitchell, 2003 another missing piece of our rich history and profound contribution to western civilization For history buffs please put this book on your must read list George C Fraser Author of Race For Success and Success Runs In Our Race Mitchell believes that the entire future of blacks in the field of architecture is in jeopardy He then discusses the impact of the Harlem Renaissance on black architecture and the subsequent emergence of Howard University as the center of the black architectural universe The Journal of Blacks in Higher Education seminal Architecture Magazine In this long overdue book aimed at Black America and her allies Melvin Mitchell poses the question why haven t black architects developed a Black Architecture that complements modernist black culture that is rooted in world class blues jazz hip hop music and other black aesthetic forms His provocative thesis inspired by Harold Cruse s landmark book The Crisis of the Negro Intellectual exposes the roots of an eighty year old estrangement between black architects and Black America Along the way he provides interesting details about the politics of downtown development in the Marion Barry era of Washington DC Mitchell calls for a bold and inclusive New Black Urbanism He sees the radical reform and re missioning of the handful of accredited HBCU based architecture schools as a critical tool in refashioning a rapprochement between black architects and Black America Architecture, Ethics and Globalization

Graham Owen, 2009-06-02 Bridging the gap between architectural theory and professional practice studies this book offers critical inquiry into the shifting ground of ethical thought in the changing climate of the global economy Looking at issues of contemporary significance to architectural critics practitioners educators and students the book also examines the role of the architectural academy in providing an education in ethical judgement Including transcripts of responses and discussions among its contributors a broad interdisciplinary set of perspectives are debated and often controversial points of view are put forward
