Friends in Feathers and Fur, and Other Neighbors for Young Folks James Johonnot,2017-06-22 Excerpt HOW FOWLS LOOK 1 Here we find the hen and chickens a new company of our farm yard friends We see that they are very unlike the other friends we have been studying and though we know them well we may find out something new about them 2 Instead of a coat of hair or fur the hen is covered with feathers all pointing backward and lying over each other so that the rain falls off as from the shingles of a house 3 When we studied the cat we found that she had four legs for walking and running and that she used the paws on her front legs for scratching and catching her prey 4 We have but two legs for walking or running our fore legs being arms and our paws hands 5 These new friends the chickens have but two legs and in this way are more like boys and girls than are cats and dogs 6 But the chicken has the same number of limbs as the others only those in front are wings instead of fore legs or arms 7 Here is a picture of the legs and feet of a hen We see that the legs are covered with scales and that each foot has four toes three pointing forward and one back Each toe has a long sharp and strong nail 8 Let us look at the hen when she is walking slowly As she lifts up each foot her toes curl up very much as our fingers do when we double them up to make a fist 9 When the chicken is about a year old a spur hard like horn begins to grow on the inside of each leg Upon the old cocks these spurs are long and sharp and he can strike savage blows with them 10 It is when we look a hen in the face that we see how much it differs from all the animals we have studied before 11 The head stands up straight and the eyes are placed on each side so that it can look forward to the side and partly backward 12 Two little ears are just back and below the eyes at first we would hardly know what they are they are so small and unlike the other ears which we have seen 13 All the lower part of the face is a bill hard like horn and running out to a point The bill opens and makes the mouth and two holes in the upper part make the nose 14 As the whole bill is hard like bone the hen does not need teeth and does not have any She was never known to complain with the tooth ache 15 Large bits of food she scratches apart with her feet or breaks up with her bill but as she can not chew the pieces she takes into her mouth she swallows whole 16 Upon the top of the head is a red fleshy comb which is much larger on cocks than on hens This comb is sometimes single and sometimes double 17 Under the bill on each side there hangs down a wattle of red flesh that looks very much like the comb 18 The tail of the cock has long feathers which curl over the rest and give him a very graceful appearance LESSON II WHAT FOWLS DO 1 When the hen walks she folds her wings close by her side but when she flies she spreads them out like a fan Her body is so heavy that she can fly but a little ways without resting
