One Body Margaret Gibson, 2007 One Body is Margaret Gibson's most intimate collection of poems to date Written as if to honor the injunction Work to simplify the heart the poems are direct empathetic and tender in their study of life and death The thirteen poems of the opening sequence as well as other poems throughout look steadily at life and death until they are transparently one body Closer to death she writes I want great faith and great doubt Whether the focus is personal or social Gibson has written the poems in this stunning collection because I want to see how the body goes still how the mind how the lens of the eye magnifies to an emptiness so deep so flared wide there is everywhere field and the Source of field One Body is the work of a richly contemplative poet

Clinical Values Sandra Buechler, 2013-04-15 In this refreshingly honest and open book Sandra Buechler looks at therapeutic process issues from the standpoint of the human qualities and human resourcefulness that the therapist brings to each clinical encounter Her concern is with the clinical values that shape the psychoanalytically oriented treatment experience How she asks can one person evoke a range of values curiosity hope kindness courage sense of purpose emotional balance the ability to bear loss and integrity in another person and thereby promote psychological change For Buechler these core values and the emotions that infuse them are at the heart of the clinical process They permeate the texture and tone and shape the content of what therapists say They provide the framework for formulating and working toward treatment goals and keep the therapist emotionally alive in the face of the often draining vicissitudes of the treatment process Clinical Values Emotions That Guide Psychoanalytic Treatment is addressed to therapists young and old By focusing successively on different emotion laden values Buechler shows how one value or another can center the therapist within the session Taken together these values function as a clinical compass that provides the therapist with a sense of direction and militates against the all too frequent sense of flying by the seat of one's pants Buechler makes clear that the values that guide treatment derive from the full range of the clinician's human experiences and she is candid in relating the personal experiences from inside and outside the consulting room that inform her own matrix of clinical values and her own clinical approach A compelling record of one gifted therapist's pathway to clinical maturity Clinical Values has a more general import It exemplifies the variegated ways in which productive clinical work of any type ultimately revolves around the therapist's ability to make the most of being all too human The Murdochian Mind Silvia Caprioglio Panizza, Mark

Kierkegaard's Influence on Philosophy Jon Bartley Stewart, 2012 Tome III traces Kierkegaard s influence on Anglophone philosophy It has long been thought that Kierkegaard played no role in this tradition which for years was dominated by analytic philosophy In this environment it was common to dismiss Kierkegaard along with the then current European philosophers who were influenced by him However a closer look reveals that in fact there were several thinkers in the US Canada and Great Britain who were inspired by Kierkegaard even during the heyday of analytic philosophy Current thinking now suggests that Kierkegaard has made some serious inroads into mainstream Anglophone philosophy with many authors seeking inspiration in his works for current discussions concerning ethics personal identity philosophy of religion and philosophical anthropology

Neuroscience and Art Amy Ione,2024-08-27 This book is focused on how understanding ourselves as humans is incomplete without considering both biological and cultural aspects Using the neurocultural perspective the book explores how everything in the world is filtered back and forth through the brain and culture The thrust of the book therefore is to explore the power of art in creating a bridge between cultural and neuroscientific lines of inquiry Looking at both clinical and non clinical populations the text examines historical foundations distinguishes congenital developmental conditions from those that are acquired and emphasizes how the brain constructs our sensory experiences Several distinctive features separate this research from other publications First the book opens with a review of how the historical literature is still etched into the ideas we employ to explain elements across the interdisciplinary fields of art aesthetics our sensory experience psychology cognition and well being Second the research adopts a humanistic rather than a philosophical or social science perspective in demonstrating the value of coupling anatomy and physiology with the natural and social environment In this artists from all genres are incorporated Among them are Iris Murdoch Ludwig van Beethoven Leonardo da Vinci Cristoforo de Predis Rembrandt Federico Fellini Chuck Close and David Hockney Case studies demonstrate how neuroscientific research meshes with art individual and cultural variables in ways that range from health and well being to physiological decline and biological traumas These include a case study that examines how Oliver Sacks combined biology and biography in his writings It also explores art projects in several genres inspired by his studies Another case study is on the role of film as a useful clinical tool Here the book also demonstrates that cinematic devices used by filmmakers intersect with perceptual and cognitive neuroscience A defining feature of the analysis is the integration of research on brain injuries with humanistic responses in film literature and the visual arts This section outlines the lack of consensus regarding the causes and treatment of shell shock in World War I before introducing how research and art now work with PTSD TBI Finally the book examines therapeutic cases of professional and non professional artists concluding with a discussion of synesthesia and the senses
