Ireland's Forgotten Past: A History of the Overlooked and Disremembered Turtle Bunbury,2020-03-17 This volume delves into Ireland's forgotten history bringing to light some of the most colorful characters and intriguing episodes of the country's long history Ireland is approximately the size of the state of Indiana yet this small country boasts an extensive rich and fascinating history Ireland's Forgotten Past is an alternative history that covers 13 000 years in 36 stories that are often left out of history books Among the characters in these absorbing accounts are a pair of ill fated prehistoric chieftains a psychopathic Viking a gallant Norman knight a dazzling English traitor an ingenious tailor an outstanding war horse a brothel queen an insanely prolific sculptor and a randy prince This volume offers a succinct account of the Stone Age and Bronze Age as well as insights into the Bell Beakers the Romans and the Knights Templar Historian Turtle Bunbury writes a gently off beat take on monumental events like the Wars of the Roses the Tudor Conquest and the Battle of the Boyne as well as the Home Rule campaign and the Great War Ireland's Forgotten Past adds color to the existing histories of the country by focusing on the unique characters and intriguing events This volume will delight anyone interested in the rich untold history of Ireland Tony Pastor's Comic and eccentric Songster, containing a choice collection of comic and eccentric songs never before in print, together with humorous recitations, as sung and given by Tony Pastor Tony Pastor,1862

Atlantic Voyages John McAleer,2023-05-02 As he prepared to embark for India in 1774 Alexander Mackrabie's excitement at the sights to be seen and novelties to be experienced was palpable Mackrabie's journey was conducted under the auspices of the London based East India Company and was one of the many thousands of Company voyages that brought Europeans into contact with Asian countries and cultures as well as numerous people and places along the way Atlantic Voyages tells the story of travellers like Mackrabie as they navigated the waters of the Atlantic Ocean reflecting on who and what they had left behind in Europe looking forward to new challenges in Asia and evaluating the sights and smells sounds and tastes hopes and expectations fears and regrets that regaled their senses and played on their minds as they sailed along the way It charts the tension between tedium and terror on the one hand and exhilaration and excitement on the other attempting to understand the maritime space of the Atlantic as it was experienced by the people who traversed its waters The lives of the people carried by East Indiamen were deeply affected by their Atlantic experiences They confronted the reality of shipboard life its seasickness and boredom its cramped living conditions its questionable dining fare and its severely restricted privacy They acclimatised to the rhythms of the ocean and the vicissitudes of the weather They encountered rites of passage and ceremonies of initiation on the high seas They prepared themselves for cultural disorientation and a host of unusual sights and sensations And they wondered at the extraordinary beauty of the elements around them the sea the sky the islands and the strangeness of their inhabitants human and animal alike The ship's passage played a crucial role in shaping the responses and experiences of those individuals surrounded by its wooden walls Their words bring to life this maritime journey illuminate the experiences of the people who undertook it and contribute to our understanding of the place of the Atlantic Ocean in wider histories of the East India

Historical Perspectives on Social Identities Alyson Brown, 2009-01-14 This collection of work on the theme of identities was the result of a conference held in the spring of 2005 at Edge Hill under the auspices of The Centre for Liverpool and Merseyside Studies Whilst a significant proportion of the research focused on Liverpool and the North West the theme of identities was sufficiently broad to entice scholars from diverse and varied fields This collection therefore reflects the range of work presented and discussed at the conference and the multi layered and multi faceted nature of identity Contributors to this edited collection examined the concept of identity in Britain through a range of historical perspectives concerning themselves primarily with the later modern period They reflect the extent to which nineteenth and twentieth century British social cultural and political change has given rise to pluralist fragmented and fractured identities and highlight the extent to which class gender religious and institutional frameworks have shifted continually This publication will therefore be of interest to those working in diverse fields but who share an interest in the importance of identity as a decisive cultural social economic and political determinant Questions of identity have centred a good deal of debate in the social sciences especially since the reception of Foucault's work in the English speaking world in the last couple of decades This has often taken a theoretical form Attempts to link theory with analytical practice have been strongest in the field that might be characterised as the politics of identity At any rate this has provided an important instance of theoretical and practical conflict Here the focus of the debate has been around questions of gender nation language economy security and race It has tried to clarify crucial divisions in the analysis of identity as between explanatory and constitutive models and between positivist and post positivist procedures For the most part these intense and extensive concerns have passed by largely unnoticed among historians practising in Britain in the well found but conventional idioms of political and social history What this conference volume seeks to do is to help redress the deficit to domesticating some of the theoretical and polemical exchanges around identity into a world of practical yet conceptually aware historical work This is a difficult but surely worthwhile task to broach various imaginaries of identity issues of identitarian politics and questions of identity formation on a series of relatively familiar historical contexts Of course no selection of subjects for practical research in this way can be exhaustive The group of essays offered here is sufficiently wide and occasionally gratifyingly unexpected at least to begin the job to stimulate others and most importantly to interject theoretical concern into historical fields sometimes lacking it Ten essays are included together with the editor's introduction The pieces are bound together by a common strategy not a shared empirical territory They range from studies of gendered identity formation to regional identities formed around seaside resorts to empirical questions of class and capitalism and their identitarian politics to historical analysis of mourning and on to language nationality deafness motherhood and their inflection in identity in past time This well edited combination of shared conceptual purpose and variety of empirical form seems to me to work well The book will be widely used in a variety of historical fields not least in those which have been the most resistant to recent theoretical innovations in the social sciences Keith Nield Editor SOCIAL HISTORY This is a fascinating and wide ranging collection of essays linked by the overriding theme of identity While primarily historical in their focus the essays will be of interest to more than just historians They raise a variety of interesting conceptual and theoretical issues from for instance the significance of the staymaker in the formation of eighteenth century female identity to the relationship between regional identity and late nineteenth and early twentieth century Lancashire seaside resorts Sam Davies Professor of History School of Social Science Liverpool John Moores University LJ, Library Journal, 1975
