Historical Narratives:

Teaching Historical Narratives Jon A. Levisohn, 2024-11-28 With this book Jon Levisohn argues that current history education is set up in a way that sees students of history at one end of a continuum with the academic experts in the field of history at the other and where the goal of history education is to help students to think like historians Building on a critical engagement with Carl Hempel Hayden White and David Carr as well as contemporary work in virtue epistemology Levisohn proposes a new theory of historiography which serves as a set of guidelines for the teaching and learning of history According to the theory the work of historiography is best characterized as a negotiation among narratives weaving together received narratives with new information and ideas in order to construct a new narrative This negotiation happens with a particular orientation towards negative evidence or flexible disconfirmationism and is assessed according to the openness sensitivity responsibility creativity boldness and humility i e the virtues of historical interpretation The book rethinks the work of history education offering new ways of thinking about the goals of the teaching of history namely in terms of the cultivation of the interpretive virtues

Analysing Historical Narratives Stefan Berger, Nicola Brauch, Chris Lorenz, 2021-05-14 For all of the recent debates over the methods and theoretical underpinnings of the historical profession scholars and laypeople alike still frequently think of history in terms of storytelling Accordingly historians and theorists have devoted much attention to how historical narratives work illuminating the ways they can bind together events shape an argument and lend support to ideology From ancient Greece to modern day bestsellers the studies gathered here offer a wide ranging analysis of the textual strategies used by historians They show how in spite of the pursuit of truth and objectivity the ways in which historians tell their stories are inevitably conditioned by their discursive contexts

Historical Narratives Mariana Imaz-Sheinbaum, 2023-10-27 This book explains some of the psychological processes that go into narrative construction and why it is that we have so much variability of historical accounts about a single historical event A central focus of this book is how historians go from having unconnected units of data to having a coherent structured and organized flow of experiences The author argues that the way these connections are established responds to certain Gestalt psychological principles that allow us to understand not only how histories are constructed but also how this construction can be rather different depending on how these principles are applied To illustrate how these principles are present in histories the author analyzes classic historical writers such as Burckhardt Huizinga Vico and Marx As well as an explanation of why historical multiplicity happens the book also offers a way to evaluate different historical narratives about the same historical event To illustrate how the evaluative framework is at play the author analyzes two views about the so called discovery of America The first one explains what happens in 1492 by using the term discovery The second one uses the notion of invention to talk about the same set of circumstances The book provides an important epistemic tool to evaluate these different accounts one that can be applied not only to this case but also others This book appeals to scholars graduate students and upper level undergraduate students of history and philosophy In addition the book may also attract intellectuals generally considered who are interested in how philosophy can inform and question historical practice

Historical Narratives of East Asia in the 21st Century Hitoshi Tanaka,2020-03-17 In the twenty first century East Asia has been increasingly marked both by tensions at a government level and a chauvinistic mood among the polity While China s rise is in one respect the proximate driver of these changes in tone it draws on a range of unresolved grievances among the respective historical narratives of Mainland China Taiwan Japan and the Koreas These conflicting views of the region s past are a crucial barrier to its cohesive and stable future This book brings together East Asian scholars from a range of academic disciplines including China historians political historians and political scientists to illuminate the interconnectedness of East Asia and discuss how a shared historical narrative might be constructed Their contributions are organised into 3 parts focusing respectively on historical narratives of China historical narratives of East Asia and reconciling historical narratives The book will appeal to researcher interested in the historical narratives of international relations in East Asia

Historical Narratives of Puget Sound Edward Clayson,1911 Historical Narratives from the Russian ,1871 Women, Crusading and the Holy Land in Historical Narrative Natasha R. Hodgson,2007 Women s role in crusades and crusading examined through a close investigation of the narratives in which they appear Narratives of crusading have often been overlooked as a source for the history of women because of their focus on martial events and perceptions about women inhibiting the recruitment and progress of crusading armies Yet women consistently appeared in the histories of crusade and settlement performing a variety of roles While some were vilified as useless mouths or prostitutes others undertook menial tasks for the army went on crusade with retinues of their own knights and rose to political prominence in the Levant and and the West This book compares perceptions of women from a wide range of historical narratives including those eyewitness accounts lay histories and monastic chronicles that pertained to major crusade expeditions and the settler society in the Holy Land It addresses how authors used events involving women and stereotypes based on gender family role and social status in writing their histories how they blended historia and fabula speculated on women s motivations and occasionally granted them a literary voice in order to connect with their audience impart moral advice and justify the crusade ideal Dr NATASHA R

HODGSON teaches at Nottingham Trent University

Neo-Victorian Fiction and Historical Narrative L. Hadley,2010-10-13 Placing the popular genre of neo Victorian fiction within the context of the contemporary cultural fascination with the Victorians this book argues that these novels are distinguished by a commitment to historical specificity and understands them within their contemporary context and the context of Victorian historical and literary narratives

Truth Under Siege: Democracy and the Struggle Over Historical Narrative Fernando Hayden,2025-04-17 In an age of misinformation and contested narratives understanding the battle for historical truth is crucial for preserving democracy Our world is increasingly awash in conflicting stories about the past Social media platforms amplify false narratives while political forces manipulate history for their own ends This book examines the struggle over historical narrative and its profound impact on democratic societies The book explores how historical narratives are constructed the forces that shape them and the consequences of their distortion It delves into the methods used to challenge historical truth from the manipulation of evidence to the suppression of dissenting voices It also analyzes the role of education media and public discourse in shaping our understanding of the past The book highlights the dangers of a manipulated historical narrative from the erosion of trust in institutions to the rise of authoritarianism It argues that defending historical truth is essential for maintaining a healthy democracy This book is for anyone concerned about the state of public discourse and the future of democracy It is particularly relevant for educators journalists policymakers and concerned citizens who want to understand the challenges facing our shared understanding of the past

Contemporary Historical Fiction, Exceptionalism and Community Susan Strehle, 2020-10-19 This book analyzes a significant group of contemporary historical fictions that represent damaging even catastrophic times for people and communities written after the wreck they recall instructive pasts The novels chronicle wars slavery racism child abuse and genocide they reveal damages that ensue when nations claim an exalted exceptionalist identity and violate the human rights of their Others In sympathy with the exiled writers of these contemporary historical fictions create alternative communities on the state's outer fringes These fictive communities include where the state excludes they foreground relations of debt and obligation to the group in place of individualism competition and private property Rather than assimilating members to a single identity with a unified set of views the communities open multiple possibilities for belonging Analyzing novels from Britain Australia and the U S along with additional transnational examples Susan Strehle explores the political vision animating some contemporary historical fictions

The Female Figure in Contemporary Historical Fiction K. Cooper, E. Short, 2012-10-29 From The Other Boleyn Girl to Fingersmith this collection explores the popularity of female centred historical novels in recent years It asks how these representations are influenced by contemporary gender politics and whether they can be seen as part of a wider feminist project to recover women's history

Historical Fiction Demand Linda Hill, 2025-02-20 Historical Fiction Demand explores the enduring popularity of historical narratives and their impact on contemporary reading habits This book uses a data driven analysis to investigate why readers are consistently drawn to stories of Vikings Roman emperors and ancient dynasties One intriguing insight reveals how reader preferences have evolved over time reflecting current anxieties and aspirations rather than mere nostalgia The book also highlights the methodologies used to gauge these trends emphasizing the importance of understanding reader engagement for the publishing industry and historical scholarship The book begins by tracing the origins and evolution of historical fiction examining influential authors and seminal works It then delves into an exhaustive analysis of publicly available reading polls from the past two decades exploring regional variations demographic influences and the impact of film and television adaptations on book sales By combining quantitative analysis with qualitative examination of literary criticism and reader reviews Historical Fiction Demand offers practical insights for authors publishers and educators alike demonstrating how carefully selected reading polls reliably reflect overall interest in historical sagas

The Student's Old Testament: Israel's historical and biographical narratives Charles Foster Kent,1905

Comparative-Historical Methods Matthew Lange,2012-11-12 This bright engaging title provides a thorough and integrated review of comparative historical methods It sets out an intellectual history of comparative historical analysis and presents the main methodological techniques employed by researchers including comparative historical analysis case based methods comparative methods data case selection and theory Matthew Lange has written a fresh easy to follow introduction which showcases classic analyses offers clear methodological examples and describes major methodological debates It is a comprehensive grounded book which understands the learning and research needs of students and researchers

Narration, Identity, and Historical Consciousness Jürgen Straub,2006-01-01 A generally acknowledged characteristic of modern life namely the temporalization of experience inextricable from our intensified experience of contingency and difference has until now remained largely outside psychology's purview Wherever questions about the development structure and function of the concept of time have been posed for example by Piaget and other founders of genetic structuralism they have been concerned predominantly with concepts of physical chronometrical time and related concepts e.g. velocity All the contributions to the present volume attempt to close this gap A larger number are especially interested in the narration of stories Overviews of the relevant literature as well as empirical case studies appear alongside theoretical and methodological reflections Most contributions refer to specifically historical phenomena and meaning constructions Some touch on the subjects of biographical memory and biographical constructions of reality Of all the various affinities between the contributions collected here the most important is their consistent attention to issues of the constitution and representation of temporal experience

Next-Generation Memory and Ukrainian Canadian Children's Historical Fiction Mateusz Świetlicki,2023-03-24 This is the first book monograph devoted to Anglophone Ukrainian Canadian children's historical fiction published between 1991 and 2021 It consists of five chapters offering cross sectional and interdisciplinary readings of 41 books novels novellas picturebooks short stories and a graphic novel The first three chapters focus on texts about the complex process of becoming Ukrainian Canadian showcasing the experiences of the first two waves of Ukrainian immigration to Canada including encounters with Indigenous Peoples and the First World War Internment The last two chapters are devoted to the significance of the cultural memory of the Holodomor the Great Famine of 1932-1933 and the Second World War for Ukrainian Canadians All the chapters demonstrate the entanglements of Ukrainian and Canadian history and point to the role Anglophone children's literature can play in preventing the symbolical seeds of memory from withering This volume argues that reading imagining and reimagining history can lead to the formation of beyond textual next generation memory Such memory created through reading is multidimensional as it involves the interpretation of both the present and the past by an individual whose reality has been directly or indirectly shaped by the past over which they have no influence Next generation memory is of anticipatory character which means that authors of historical fiction anticipate the readers both present day and future not to have direct links to any witnesses of the events they discuss and to have little knowledge of the transcultural character of the Ukrainian Canadian diaspora Conflict and Colonialism in 21st Century Romantic Historical Fiction Hsu-Ming Teo, Paloma Fresno-Calleja, 2024-06-13 This book explores how postmillennial Anglophone women writers use romantic narrativisations of history to explore revise repurpose and challenge the past in their novels exposing the extent to which past societies were damaging to women by instead imagining alternative histories The novelists discussed employ the generic conventions of romance to narrate their understanding of historical and contemporary injustice and to reflect upon women s achievements and the price they paid for autonomy and a life of public purpose The volume seeks firstly to discuss the work of revision or reparation being performed by romantic historical fiction and secondly to analyse how the past is being repurposed for use in the present It contends that the discourses and genre of romance work to provide a reparative reading of the past but there are limitations and entrenched problems in such readings

Toward a Theory of Historical Narrative Marilyn Robinson Waldman, 1980 Professor Waldman challenges the prevailing practice in Islamicate historiography by undertaking a multifaceted analysis of a single text a major historical narrative and a pivotal work in the history of new Persian language and literature since the tenth century the Ghaznavid period s Ta r kh i Bayhaq Dr Waldman is able to identify a wide range of phenomena that suggest the close relationship between historical narratives like the one under study and other literary narratives She demonstrates that theories of narrative developed by literary critics can and should be expanded to account for historical narrative and explores the potential utility of one critical approach speech act theory Dr Waldman calls for a dramatic reversal in the traditional ways in which historical narratives have been used by historians not in order to curtail their function as some critics would do to merely confirming what hard evidence suggests but rather so as to allow them to provide their abundant and unique information about hitherto unappreciated dimensions in the history of language communication ideas and culture From book jacket Historical narrative of the Turko-Russian War , 1886 Possible Worlds Theory and Counterfactual Historical Fiction Riyukta Raghunath, 2020-09-10 This book offers a comprehensive Possible Worlds framework with which to analyse counterfactual historical fiction Counterfactual historical fiction is a literary genre that comprises narratives set in worlds whose histories run contrary to the history of our world usually speculating on what would have happened had a significant historical event such as a war turned out differently The author develops a systematic critical approach based on a customised model of Possible Worlds Theory supplemented by cognitive concepts that account for the different processes that readers go through when they read counterfactual historical fiction a genre which relies heavily on pre existing knowledge about history and culture This book will be of interest to anyone working with Possible Worlds including within the fields of philosophy literary studies stylistics cognitive poetics and narratology
