History And Power Of Writing:

The History and Power of Writing Henri-Jean Martin, 1994 Continuing on to the electronic revolution Martin's account takes in the changes wrought on writing by computers and electronic systems of storage and communication and offers surprising insights into the influence these new technologies have had on children born into the computer age The power of writing to influence and dominate is indeed a central theme in this history as Martin explores the processes by which the written word has gradually imposed its logic on society over four thousand years The summation of decades of study by one of the world's great scholars on the subject this fascinating account of writing explains much about the world we inhabit where we uneasily confer accept and resist the power of the written word

The Power of Writing Christiane Donahue, Kelly Blewett, 2015-05-22 At the 1966 Dartmouth Seminar scholars gathered to debate the direction of English Studies in the academy This debate had far reaching effects and arguably forever changed writing instruction in the United States To commemorate the 45th anniversary of this gathering Dartmouth College hosted an event both celebrating the past and looking toward the future Then as now there is this simple truth writing well matters and it matters in institutions of higher education across disciplines Yet what it means to be a good writer in the academy and in the public sphere remains a site of controversy and discussion The Power of Writing Dartmouth 66 in the Twenty First Century argues that any discussion of why writing well matters should extend beyond composition and rhetoric scholars to capture the knowledge that outstanding teachers and writers themselves put to work every day The editors have brought together scholars and public intellectuals including New York Times best selling authors David McCullough and Steve Strogatz from the sciences social sciences humanities and interdisciplinary fields to engage in a dialogue about some of the controversial questions related to writing today Readers will engage with questions about what it means to write well and how different answers affect the teaching and learning of writing in higher education Each anchor article representing disciplines as varied as musicology African studies mathematics and history receives responses from Dartmouth faculty and nationally renowned faculty members in writing studies programs This timely and wide ranging collection will have appeal far beyond writing instructors and is specifically designed for readers across disciplines

The Power of Writing in Organizations Anne-Laure Fayard, Anca Metiu, 2013 This book demonstrates the power of writing in informal and formal organizations in the past and the present It shows how writing despite long lasting criticisms that can be traced back to Plato and in spite of its frequent definition as a mere recording medium is in fact a creative mode of communication that supports the expression of emotions the developing knowledge and the building of strong communities among faraway individuals The first part of the book illustrates how this has been true historically The focus on writing as a fundamental mode of communication the other being speech or the oral mode is still important in our technology infused world where writing seems to have been reduced to short cryptic text messages or tweets Precisely because of their heavy reliance on technology current practices are in need of a deeper understanding that focus on deep as opposed to surface features and unveil the four essential mechanisms objectification reflecting specifying and addressing that give writing its creative powers In the second part of the book we use contemporary case studies and interviews to illustrate how shifting our focus from the media to the mode of communication and focusing on the mechanisms of writing allows us to go beyond current debates about the capabilities of various communication media and to understand better today s communicative practices This book is an attempt to unveil the powers of writing as well as to highlight the implications for organizations of the potential loss of these powers in today s world where writing based distributed collaborations interpersonal relationships and online communities are key sources of innovation and support for individuals and organizations

Writing the History of Nationalism Stefan Berger, Eric Storm, 2019-09-19 What is nationalism and how can we study it from a historical perspective Writing the History of Nationalism answers this question by examining eleven historical approaches to nationalism studies in theory and practice An impressive cast of contributors cover the history of nationalism from a wide range of thematic approaches from traditional modernist and Marxist perspectives to more recent debates around gender postcolonialism and the global turn in history writing This book is essential reading for undergraduate students of history politics and sociology wanting to understand the complex yet fascinating history of nationalism

A Short History of Writing Instruction James Jerome Murphy, 2012 A Short History of Writing Instruction preserves the legacy of writing instruction from antiquity to contemporary times with a unique focus on the material educational and institutional context of the Western rhetorical tradition

Writing History, Writing Trauma Dominick LaCapra, 2014-09-03 This updated edition includes a substantive new preface that reconsiders some of the issues raised in the book

A Short History of Writing Instruction James J. Murphy, 2012-05-04 Short enough to be synoptic yet long enough to be usefully detailed A Short History of Writing Instruction is the ideal text for undergraduate courses and graduate seminars in rhetoric and composition It preserves the legacy of writing instruction from antiquity to contemporary times with a unique focus on the material educational and institutional context of the Western rhetorical tradition Its longitudinal approach enables students to track the recurrence over time of not only specific teaching methods but also major issues such as social purpose writing as power the effect of technologies the rise of vernaculars and writing as a force for democratization The collection is rich in scholarship and critical perspectives which is made accessible through the robust list of pedagogical tools included such as the Key Concepts listed at the beginning of each chapter and the Glossary of Key Terms and Bibliography for Further Study provided at the end of the text Further additions include increased attention to orthography or the physical aspects of the writing process new material on high school instruction sections on writing in the electronic age and increased coverage of women rhetoricians and writing instruction of women A new chapter on writing instruction in Late Medieval Europe was also added to augment coverage of the Middle Ages fill the gap in students knowledge of the period and present instructional methods that can be easily reproduced in the modern classroom

The Power of Myth, or on the Meanders of Historical Writing Krzysztof A. Makowski, 2023-09-25 This monograph presents a critical analysis of the body of historical writing on the history of the Jewish population in Poznań in the era of the Prussian rule 1772-1918 including the identification and verification of the attendant myths and stereotypes The interest in the Polish edition of this book was considerable Similarly noticeable was the academic response to the title despite its ostensibly local subject matter While this study was also noticed abroad the language barrier has severely impeded its impact This prompted the author to work towards the English edition of this book hoping it would find its way into global academic circulation Some changes and additions were made in the English version It includes an updated survey of scholarship on this subject of the past twenty years a response to reviews engaging with the Polish edition and some general reflections on the evolution of historiography in the recent years

Writing History in the Age of Biomedicine Roger Cooter, 2013-06-18 DIV A collection of ten essays paired with substantial prefaces this book chronicles and contextualizes Roger Cooter's contributions to the history of medicine Through an analysis of his own work Cooter critically examines the politics of conceptual and methodological shifts in historiography In particular he examines the double bind of postmodernism and biological or neurological modeling that together threaten academic history To counteract this trend suggests Cooter historians must begin actively locating themselves in the problems they consider The essays and commentaries constitute a kind of contour map of history's recent trends and trajectories its points of passage to the present and lead both to a critical account of the discipline's historiography and to an examination of the role of intellectual frameworks and epistemic virtues in the writing of history div

Burning with Desire Geoffrey Batchen, 1999-03-15 In an 1828 letter to his partner Nic phore Ni pce Louis Daguerre wrote I am burning with desire to see your experiments from nature In this book Geoffrey Batchen analyzes the desire to photograph as it emerged within the philosophical and scientific milieus that preceded the actual invention of photography Recent accounts of photography s identity tend to divide between the postmodern view that all identity is determined by context and a formalist effort to define the fundamental characteristics of photography as a medium Batchen critiques both approaches by way of a detailed discussion of photography s conception in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries He examines the output of the various nominees for first photographer then incorporates this information into a mode of historical criticism informed by the work of Michel Foucault and Jacques Derrida The result is a way of thinking about photography that persuasively accords with the medium s undeniable conceptual political and historical complexity

Writing History in Film William Gynnn, 2013-08-21 Historical film has been an important genre since the earliest silent films The French Revolution the American Civil War the conquest of the New World World War II all have been repeatedly represented in film But how do we distinguish between fictionalized spectacle and authentic historical representation Writing History in Film sets out the narratological semiological rhetorical and philosophical bases for understanding how film can function as a form of historical interpretation and representation With case studies and an interdisciplinary approach William Guynn examines the key issues facing film students and scholars historians and anyone interested in how we see our historical past     Knowing and Writing School History Luciana C. de Oliveira,2011-03-01 Because school history often relies on reading and writing and has its own discipline specific challenges it is important to understand the language demands of this content area the typical writing requirements and the language expectations of historical discourse History uses language in specialized ways so it can be challenging for students to construct responses to historical events It is only through a focus on these specialized ways of presenting and constructing historical content that students will see how language is used to construe particular contexts This book provides the results of a qualitative study that investigated the language resources that 8th and 11th grade students drew on to write an exposition and considered the role of writing in school history The study combined a functional linguistic analysis of student writing with educational considerations in the underresearched content area of history Data set consisted of writing done by students who were English language learners and other culturally and linguistically diverse students from two school districts in California The book is an investigation of expository school history writing and teachers expectations for this type of writing School history writing refers to the kind of historical writing expected of students at the pre college levels     A History of Black and Asian Writing in Britain, 1700-2000 C. L. Innes,2002-10-31 This is the first extended study of black and Asian writing in Britain over the last 250 years     Nigeria, Nationalism, and Writing History Toyin Falola,Saheed Aderinto,2010 The second half of the 20th century saw the publication of massive amounts of literature on Nigeria by Nigerian and non Nigerian historians This volume reflects on that literature focusing on those works by Nigerians in the context of the rise and the decline of African nationalist historiography
