Leveraging Longitudinal Data In Developing Countries:

Leveraging Longitudinal Data in Developing Countries National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Workshop on Leveraging Longitudinal Data in Developing Countries Committee, 2002-07-13 Longitudinal data collection and analysis are critical to social demographic and health research policy and practice They are regularly used to address questions of demographic and health trends policy and program evaluation and causality Panel studies cohort studies and longitudinal community studies have proved particularly important in developing countries that lack vital registration systems and comprehensive sources of information on the demographic and health situation of their populations Research using data from such studies has led to scientific advances and improvements in the well being of individuals in developing countries Yet questions remain about the usefulness of these studies relative to their expense and relative to cross sectional surveys and about the appropriate choice of alternative longitudinal strategies in different contexts For these reasons the Committee on Population convened a workshop to examine the comparative strengths and weaknesses of various longitudinal approaches in addressing demographic and health questions in developing countries and to consider ways to strengthen longitudinal data collection and analysis This report summarizes the discussion and opinions voiced at that workshop

Sharing Research Data to Improve Public Health in Africa National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, 2015-09-18 Sharing research data on public health issues can promote expanded scientific inquiry and has the potential to advance improvements in public health Although sharing data is the norm in some research fields sharing of data in public health is not as firmly established In March 2015 the National Research Council organized an international conference in Stellenbosch South Africa to explore the benefits of and barriers to sharing research data within the African context The workshop brought together public health researchers and epidemiologists primarily from the African continent along with selected international experts to talk about the benefits and challenges of sharing data to improve public health and to discuss potential actions to guide future work related to public health research data sharing Sharing Research Data to Improve Public Health in Africa summarizes the presentations and discussions from this workshop

Aging in Sub-Saharan Africa National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Panel on Policy Research and Data Needs to Meet the Challenge of Aging in Africa, 2006-12-10 In sub Saharan Africa older people make up a relatively small fraction of the total population and are supported primarily by family and other kinship networks They have traditionally been viewed as repositories of information and wisdom and are critical pillars of the community but as the HIV AIDS pandemic destroys family systems the elderly increasingly have to deal with the loss of their own support while absorbing the additional responsibilities of caring for their orphaned grandchildren Aging in Sub Saharan Africa explores ways to promote U S research interests and to augment the sub Saharan governments capacity to address the many challenges posed by population aging Five major themes are explored in the book such as the need for a basic definition of older person the need for national governments to invest more in basic research and the coordination of data collection across countries and the need for improved dialogue between local researchers and policy makers This book makes three major recommendations 1 the development of a research agenda 2 enhancing research opportunity and implementation and 3 the translation of research findings

Banati,2021-02-24 EPDF and EPUB available Open Access under CC BY NC licence It is critical that the wellbeing of society is systematically tracked by indicators that not only give an accurate picture of human life today but also provide a window into the future for all of us This book presents impactful findings from international longitudinal studies that respond to the United Nations Agenda 2030 commitment to leave no one behind Contributors explore a wide range and complexity of pressing global issues with emphasis given to excluded and vulnerable populations and gender inequality Importantly it sets out actionable strategies for policymakers and practitioners to help strengthen the global Sustainable Development Goals framework accelerate their implementation and improve the construction of effective public policy Growing Up Global Institute of Medicine,National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Board on Children, Youth, and Families,Committee on Population,Panel on Transitions to Adulthood in Developing Countries,2005-06-25 The challenges for young people making the transition to adulthood are greater today than ever before Globalization with its power to reach across national boundaries and into the smallest communities carries with it the transformative power of new markets and new technology At the same time globalization brings with it new ideas and lifestyles that can conflict with traditional norms and values And while the economic benefits are potentially enormous the actual course of globalization has not been without its critics who charge that to date the gains have been very unevenly distributed generating a new set of problems associated with rising inequality and social polarization Regardless of how the globalization debate is resolved it is clear that as broad global forces transform the world in which the next generation will live and work the choices that today s young people make or others make on their behalf will facilitate or constrain their success as adults Traditional expectations regarding future employment prospects and life experiences are no longer valid Growing Up Global examines how the transition to adulthood is changing in developing countries and what the implications of these changes might be for those responsible for designing youth policies and programs in particular those affecting adolescent reproductive health The report sets forth a framework that identifies criteria for successful transitions in the context of contemporary global changes for five key adult roles adult worker citizen and community participant spouse parent and household manager Researching Well-Being in an Indigenous Amazon Community Ricardo Godoy,2025-03-28 This book aims to provide the first comprehensive multi year systematic quantitative assessment in the behavioral sciences of how well being changes over time in a small scale rural society of Indigenous People in the Global South Using data compiled by the Tsimane Amazonian Panel

Study 2002 010 that monitored change in Tsimane communities this book analyzes economic social and health changes in a farming and foraging society of native Amazonians in Bolivia It uses multidisciplinary methods to follow the same individuals households and village through time and bring together three themes well being economic inequalities and the fate of Indigenous People in small scale rural societies of the Global South It finds considerable material deprivation high economic inequalities within Tsimane society and declining standards of living over time It ends by asking Is this evidence that people adjust to anything or are these the costs Tsimane pay to retain autonomy and follow a historical lifestyle This book aims to provide a comprehensive approach to the measurement of well being and how to track its changes providing a platform for future generations to gauge long term change It will resonate with undergraduate and graduate students across the behavioral sciences professional anthropologists who specialize in the Amazon or well being development economists and senior researchers who are part of the wave of emerging interest in doing research in small scale rural societies of the Global South Index of Conference Proceedings British Library.
