Dear Mr Jamieson

I'm afraid The Moray Press cannot publish "Letters from Scotland" this year. While my paper quota has much improved, the mills cannot supply owing to lack of raw material. The printers & binders do not want any more work owing to short staffs & broken down machinery.

My friend Finlayson might manage to get it out in time for Christmas though neither of us have yet got our paper for the current period.

Sincerely Yours

John Murray Fisher

Letters On Shetland:

Letters on Shetland Peter Jamieson, 2022-01-25 First published in 1949 Letters on Shetland is a highly readable portrait of Britain's most northerly community written from the inside. Formed from the texts of letters describing the isles, it provides with encyclopedic scope a revealing compendium of not only history, archaeology, language, farming, and geography, but also the socio-political and economic life, nature, and weather of the archipelago. Of particular note is Jamieson's depiction of what the islands had so recently been through during the Second World War, giving an on-the-spot sense of the danger inherent in being one of the major theatres of conflict in the north. This book, coming as it did in the flush of optimism for new and better lives which followed the war and before the huge changes which accompanied the massive expansion of the oil industry in the 1970s, captures a stirring snapshot of Shetland at a critical point in its story and what hope for the future looked like then.

Letters on Shetland Peter Andrew Jamieson, 1949      The Fiddle Tradition of the Shetland Isles Peter Cooke, 1986 A comprehensive study of the Shetland Isles 1970-1980, one of the liveliest fiddle playing traditions in the world      The Letters of William Cullen Bryant William Cullen Bryant, Thomas G. Voss, 2019-11-05 During the years covered in this volume, Bryant traveled more often and widely than at any comparable period during his life. The visits to Great Britain and Europe, a tour of the Near East and the Holy Land, and excursions in Cuba, Spain, and North Africa, as well as two trips to Illinois, he described in frequent letters to the Evening Post. Reprinted widely and later published in two volumes, these met much critical acclaim, one notice praising the quiet charm of these letters, written mostly from out-of-the-way places, giving charming pictures of nature and people with the most delicate choice of words and yet in the perfect simplicity of the true epistolary style. His absence during nearly one-fifth of this nine-year period reflected the growing prosperity of Bryant's newspaper and his confidence in his editorial partner John Bigelow and correspondents such as William S. Thayer, as well as in the financial acumen of his business partner Isaac Henderson. These were crucial years in domestic politics, however, and Bryant's guidance of Evening Post policies was evident in editorials treating major issues such as the Compromise of 1850, the Fugitive Slave Law, the Kansas-Nebraska Bill, the rise of the Republican Party, and the Dred Scott Decision, as well as in his correspondence with such statesmen as Salmon P. Chase, Hamilton Fish, William L. Marcy, Edwin D. Morgan, and Charles Sumner. His travel letters and journalistic writings reflected as well his acute interest in a Europe in turmoil. In France and Germany, he saw the struggles between revolution and repression; in Spain, he talked with journalists, parliamentary leaders, and the future president of the first Spanish republic. In New York, he greeted Louis Kossuth and Giuseppe Garibaldi. Bryant's close association with the arts continued. He sat for portraits to a dozen painters, among them Henry P. Gray, Daniel Huntington, Asher Durand, Charles L. Elliott, and Samuel Laurence. The landscapists continued to be inspired by his poetic themes. Sculptor Horatio Greenough asked of Bryant a critical reading of his pioneering essays on functionalism. His old friend the tragedian Edwin Forrest sought his mediation in what would become the most sensational divorce case of the century with Bryant and his family as witnesses His long advocacy of a great central park in New York was consummated by the legislature And in 1852 his eulogy on the life of James Fenimore Cooper became the first of several such orations which would establish him as the memorialist of his literary contemporaries in New York      Letters of a Traveller William Cullen Bryant, 1850 1869 The letters composing this volume were written at various times during the last sixteen years and during journeys made in different countries They contain however no regular account of any tour or journey made by the writer but are merely occasional sketches of what most attracted his attention The greater part of them have already appeared in print The author is sensible that the highest merit such a work can claim if ever so well executed is but slight He might have made these letters more interesting to readers in general if he had spoken of distinguished men to whose society he was admitted but the limits within which this may be done with propriety and without offense are so narrow and so easily overstepped that he has preferred to abstain altogether from that class of topics He offers his book to the public with expectations which will be satisfied by a very moderate success Due to the age and scarcity of the original we reproduced some pages may be spotty or faded See other titles by this author available from Kessinger Publishing      Letters of a Traveller, Or, Notes of Things Seen in Europe and America William Cullen Bryant, 1855      WILKIE COLLINS: Memoirs, Letters & Literary Writings Wilkie Collins, 2017-08-07 This carefully edited collection has been designed and formatted to the highest digital standards and adjusted for readability on all devices Wilkie Collins 1824 1889 was an English novelist playwright and author of short stories Table of Contents Biographies Memoirs of the Life of William Collins With Selections From His Journals and Correspondence Wilkie Collins Charms Biography by Olive Logan Letters and Literary Writings A Clause for the New Reform Bill A Column to Burns A Dramatic Author A Fair Penitent A Pictorial Tour to St George Bosherville A Shy Scheme Address from the Queen to Certain of Her Subjects in Office Awful Warning to Bachelors Books Necessary for a Liberal Education Burns Viewed As a Hat Peg Considerations on The Copyright Question Deep Design on Society Doctor Dulcamara MP Dramatic Grub Street How I Write My Books Magnetic Evenings at Home Pity a Poor Prince Rambles Beyond Railways Reminiscences of a Storyteller Sermon for Sepoys Thanks to Doctor Livingstone The Cruise of the Tomtit The Debtor s Best Friend The Exhibition of the Royal Academy The Little Huguenot The National Gallery and the Old Masters      A Letter [signed, Vindicator] respecting Shetland, to the ...
