Tarr, 1989 Like other volumes in the series the bibliography covers all Carlyle's published writings including any works of more recent scholarship which include something by Carlyle published for the first time In the main section containing a chronological listing of all books pamphlets and broadsides wholly or substantially written by Carlyle each entry is prefaced by a facsimile of the title page and copyright page In this section all printings and subsequent reprintings of all editions in any language up to 1880 are given Subsequent sections include listings of publications of Carlyle material in journals and newspapers miscellaneous and collected editions and matter attributed to him There are also writings by Jane Carlyle his wife which were edited by Carlyle The Cambridge Companion to Victorian Poetry Joseph Bristow, 2000-10-26 This Companion to Victorian Poetry provides an introduction to many of the pressing issues that absorbed the attention of poets from the 1830s to the 1890s It introduces readers to a range of topics including historicism patriotism prosody and religious belief The thirteen specially commissioned chapters offer insights into the works of well known figures such as Matthew Arnold Robert Browning and Alfred Tennyson and the writings of women poets like Michael Field Amy Levy and Augusta Webster whose contribution to Victorian culture has in more recent years been acknowledged by modern scholars Revealing the breadth of the Victorians experiments with poetic form this Companion also discloses the extent to which their writings addressed the prominent intellectual and social questions of the day The volume which will be of interest to scholars and students alike features a detailed chronology of the Victorian period and a comprehensive guide to further reading Carlyle and Jean Paul J. P. Vijn, 1982-01-01 It has always been thought difficult if not impossible to define what the philosophy of Carlyle was Ever since the publication of Sartor Resartus in 1833 1834 the view that Carlyle had a theistic conception of the universe has been defended as well as opposed At a time therefore when Carlyle s work as a whole is being reappraised his philosophy should first and foremost be dealt with Carlyle s life philosophy is based on the inner experience of a process of conversion which set in with an incident that occurred to him at Leith Walk Edinburgh This study which settles the old question of the date of the incident demonstrates that the inner struggle the dynamics of which are described most fully in Sartor is analogous to the Jungian process of individuation For the first time in critical literature the basic ideas of Carlyle s philosophy are thus linked to depth psychology and shown to be analogous to the fundamental concepts of Analytical Psychology In recent criticism it has been asserted that the crisis recorded in Sartor is akin to the crisis of doubt said to underlie Jean Paul s Rede des todten Christus 1796 which is probably the first poetic expression of nihilism in European literature and has become a classic Apart from demonstrating that in the last fifty years at least the Rede has erroneously been interpreted as a dream of annihilation this book invalidates the view of Jean Paul as victim of the skepticism of his age and argues that contrary to what is usually maintained the Rede is not the document of a crisis but of a belief which had become antiquated and obsolete for Carlyle 'Christ's Sinful Flesh' Byung Sun Lee, 2014-01-08 Christ s Sinful Flesh explores the life and theology of Edward Irving a nineteenth century Scottish preacher and theologian focusing on his theological framework in the perspective of his understanding of Christ s humanity Irving is especially known for his teachings regarding the return of the gifts of the Holy Spirit pre millennialism and his distinct Christology Most scholarly interpretations of Irving have focused on particular aspects of his thought such as his teachings on the manifestation of the Holy Spirit his millenarianism or his understanding of Christology This book provides a new interpretation of Irving's contributions to developments in nineteenth century theology within the English speaking world examining the interrelationship of his theological ideas and exploring the development of them within the context of his life. The book offers a fascinating historical account of Irving's ministry and theology bringing in the backdrop of his theological dissident companions and contemporary Romanticism coupled with the tension between his Presbyterianism and his desire of pursuing the truth. Christ's Sinful Flesh shows that Irving's theological views including his views on the gifts of the Spirit and his millennialism formed a coherent system which focused on his doctrine of Christ and more particularly on his belief that Christ had taken on a fully human nature including the propensity to sin. Only by sharing fully in the human condition with its sinful flesh concerning all temptations Irving believed could Christ become the true reconciler of God and humanity and a true exemplar of godly living for humankind. This interesting study is a rare exception in the research of Irving in that it shows the origin of Irving's Christology and his methodology. Its description of Irving's theological development in accordance with the critical moments in his life provides the reader with not only a more vivid interpretation of Irving's life and theology but also shows the coherence of the preacher's theological framework. This biography portrays Irving's life and ministry as a whole drawing on previously unused letters as well as his published writings to offer a readable and well grounded narrative. Apart from the personal interest of this story Irving's thought and practice as a preacher and pastoral theologian remains worthy of serious attention.
