Batchelder, 2017-05-16

What if the church took with utmost seriousness that baptism is the gift of a new identity taking a lifetime to grow into And what if that identity includes God's call to a way of life made visible in how Jesus lived his This book is a response to these questions in relationship to the church's practice of baptizing children This book's underlying premise is that how the church helps parents prepare for baptism is vital to how the whole family lives its baptismal identity throughout life as well as to the renewal of churches themselves In the last several decades institutionalized Christianity has found itself renegotiating its relationship with a culture that often has churches on the defensive for practices that are little changed from an era now past and insufficient as a witness to life as Christ's disciple This book urges a reconsideration of what churches offer parents seeking baptism for a child offering a transformed vision of such a ministry as well as a practical guide for putting it in place in the life of churches Pastors educators and leaders will find a pathway to follow that promises to be life changing for all involved

The Seven Pillars of Creation William P. Brown, 2010-02-26 In their highly selective and literal reading of Scripture creationists champion a rigidly reductionistic view of creation in their fight against soulless scientism Conversely many scientists find faith in God to be a dangerous impediment in the empirical quest for knowledge As a result of this ongoing debate many people of faith feel forced to choose between evolution and the Bible's story of creation But as William Brown asks which biblical creation story are we talking about Brown shows that through a close reading of biblical texts no fewer than seven different biblical perspectives on creation can be identified By examining these perspectives Brown illuminates both connections and conflicts between the ancient creation traditions and the natural sciences arguing for a new way of reading the Bible in light of current scientific knowledge and with consideration of the needs of the environment In Brown's argument both scientific inquiry and theological reflection are driven by a sense of wonder which in his words unites the scientist and the psalmist Brown's own wonder at the beauty and complexity of the created world is evident throughout this intelligent well written and inspirational book of finding as the antidote to chronic seeking and as the doorway to a grateful awareness of having received enough She reflects on wisdom distilled by the finders poets playwrights psychologists and theologians and derived from her own experience When we engage in finding we recognize with humility and wonder that the universe contains possibilities beyond our power to imagine The Practice of Finding is an inspiring guide to that journey of discovery Supernaturalism in Christianity William E.
